Reception

—The Willing Victim is None Other Than Our Detroit News Man.

By HARRY CARTER.

(We sign Mr. Carter's name to this article not because he wrote it but because he is willing to stand for it. In fact, he will stand for any good thing that may be said of Mr. Boers and even a knock will be taken for a boost when it comes from a friend. The material is before us and this issue must be delayed long enuff to put in this stop press article.—W. O. W.)

Herman W. Boers, publicity director of the Michigan Stamp Club, is as proud as a peacock, in fact two peacocks. It all happened the other evening when he was presented with a life membership in the A. P. S., as a token of the esteem in which he is held by his fellow members.

The clan gathered on Saturday evening, November 3, to the number of 50 or more, and after a short business session Mr. Boers was singled out for a special honor. The president invited him forward and said in part:—

"You all know that we have today the best man in the country for a publicity job (Mr. Boers blushes visibly.—ED.) and through his efforts this club has grown to be one of the foremost clubs in the country and known from coast to coast (Pres. Wilhelm of the A. P. S., and the Managing Editor both agree to this.—ED.). Detroit through Mr. Boers' efforts has been placed upon the philatelic map as a stamp centre. (Applause.)

He became a member of the club ten years ago, has served eight years as publicity director, and is also publicity manager of the Wayne Stamp Society. In behalf of the committee appointed to secure a suitable testimonial, I present Mr. Boers with a life membership in the A. P. S., in recognition of his valuable services." (Great applause.)

Now, Mr. Boers can write reams for the WEEKLY, but when it comes to making a speech he begins:—"I hardly know what to say." One thing that he did say was: "I shall do all I can to make this a bigger and better club," and any member of any stamp club who will stand on his feet and make such a promise and keep it is worth a dozen ordinary members.

Before the meeting closed Mr. Boers was given a rising vote of thanks. Now, of course, all of these honors were well deserved, but his friends hope that when he meets them on the street he will be the same congenial spirit as of yore. And he will be!

By EMILE MIZRAHI.

The government of Panama has issue a stamp commemorating the 25th anniversary of its independence from Colombia. It consists of Scott's No. 23 surcharged "1903-1928." The commemorative was issued the first week in September, and November 3 was the date of th anniversary. There will also be place on sale new special delivery stamps o 10c and 20c denominations. The 10 will be in orange and the 20c in brown The exact date is not known, nor has th quantity to be issued been made public.

DUREL AND LOCHER LISTS

We are regularly noting the work o European dealers in producing catalog and pricelists. One of the latter is jus at hand from Jean Durel, 21 Rue d Carmelites, Caen, France. It is an illustrated catalog of rare and classic stamps a fine assortment of them being offere and many full page illustrations bein used to picture the good things listed Any lover of stamps, and particularl those who are interested in the artistic will want to write Mr. Durel for a cop of this beautiful 40-page book.

A list of similar merit and beauty ha been received from Edouard Locher Tegna, Switzerland. It offers a very fin line of rarities, and has been compile to acquaint philatelists with the exten of the stock of this well-known firm This, too, is a good-sized book, an though it is printed in French it ca easily be understood by even a junio collector. This book may also be ha for the asking.

A NEW KOOKABURRA

We have received from F. Halloran Marrickville, N. S. W., the particulars of a new 3d Kookaburra in blue. It wil be issued in connection with Stamp Congress at Melbourne, and the following account was taken from the Victorian Philatelic Record:—

"It has been decided by the Postal Department to signalise the opening of the exhibition by the issue of the well-known and popular Kookaburra design in a new guise. The new stamp will be of the value 3d, printed in blue, and will first be placed on sale at the exhibition post office on the opening date, October 29th. These stamps will be specially printed in small sheets of 60, which will show a novel structure in keeping with the souvenir nature of the printing. They will consist of fifteen blocks of four, each block being surrounded by a plain selvedge. These will be the stamps as printed and perforated at the exhibition itself, and will be on sale only at the exhibition. On the closing day of the exhibition (November 1) a general issue of 3d Kookaburras will be made throughout Australia, which will absorb the balance of the special sheets, together with a further limited printing in full sheets of 120 of normal make-up. Although this issue is officially described as "limited," we understand that ample for all requirements will be prepared, and that the element of speculation, which has rendered certain special issues in other countries so unpopular, will be avoided. On behalf of Australian philately we beg to thank the Postal Department for this compliment to our exhibition and for the implied recognition of our standing in the community."

STAMP FINDS NET LARGE SUMS

Wealth for the collector who has not the resources to purchase rare stamps at their market value. Mr. Ward said that within the past few years, a man paid $15 for an accumulation of old correspondence and documents of a brokerage house moving from the downtown section to new quarters further uptown.

The purchaser of this apparently worthless accumulation, realized more than $50,000 on his investment through old stamps, and the brokerage firm, learning of the gold mine it had almost given away, made a futile effort through the courts to regain possession.

Fifty years ago a young British naval officer sent money to nearly every nation to secure a complete issue of current stamps, and then went to sea before receiving them. Recently, in a home in the Mayfair section of London, letters from the various postal departments were discovered unopened. The find was appraised at more than $50,000.

Probably the highest price paid for a single stamp was $32,500 for one of a British Guiana issue. One of the outstanding finds of recent years occurred in Boston, when a block of the first issue of United States ten-cent stamps, of 1847, was found.

The block of stamps was fourteen by ten, and the largest existing block before this discovery was six. Owners of the find sold it for $20,000.

SOME MODERN COLONIAL NOTES

By "CALABAR".

I think most everyone will welcome the new Falkland stamps, as the present issue has been in use for about 16 years; that is, the present design, as of course there has been the change in the wmk. of the lower values. Now is the time to look for used copies, especially those with postmarks of the smaller offices, viz., Fox Bay and So. Georgia. Of course, used stamps of this Colony, no matter from what office they were used, are very good property indeed; but a few copies with the above two pmks. make a nice little addition to any collection, and have the added worth of being a gilt-edged investment.

By the way, two types of pmk. appear to be in use at the Port Stanley Office now: one reading "FALKLAND ISLANDS" only, and the other, "FALKLAND ISLANDS —PORT STANLEY." The former is also a little larger than the other.

Speaking of used stamps, I recently sent out a small lot of covers to Anguilla (one of the Dependencies of St. Kitts), and when they came back again I found cover No. 1 postmarked 30th July, cover No. 2, 31st July, cover No. 3, 1st August, cover No. 4, 2nd August, cover No. 5, 7th August, etc. The Postmaster down there is evidently a most obliging chap, as most Pm.'s would postmark the entire lot either on the day they received them, or on the day of despatch; but the Anguilla Pm., whoever he may be, very kindly gives one a set of assorted postmarks. I don't know whether he cancelled each cover on the given day, or whether he did it all at once, merely changing the date on his stamp; but anyway I send him my hearty thanks for his trouble. (Of course, he may have gone to all this trouble, because he didn't have anything else to do! When you're the Postmaster of an out-of-the-way island in the W. I., almost anything, I fancy, will amuse you.)

The new Gold Coast pictorials have at last appeared. I fancy the omission of the higher values will give quite a lot of people cause for moaning and wailing, especially those gentlemen (the writer included) who bought up the higher values of the old set on the strength that they would be superseded by the pictorials. Well, I shan't complain, because it's just that sort of thing that puts the fun (?) in collecting.

I wonder how much longer the 3/- and 4/- values of the current Gambia set will be in use? These two values have been withdrawn from the current sets of Antigua, Dominica, Montserrat, and Leeward Ids., so that all signs point to their withdrawal elsewhere, unless I miss my guess. Anyhow, it's just a suggestion, so don't fall all over yourself trying to get some used copies (which, however, is just what I should do!).

The Newfoundland 9c, so far, hasn't turned out so well as certain people expected. The market price at present seems to be around .50 here, and a little higher in London. Personally, I don't think it will show any very great appreciation, as it has been too well cornered. At all events, this is another proof, if proof be needed! of the desirability of modern Newfoundland stamps from the investment angle.

By the time these lines appear in print, the Malta Post. and Rev. overprints will probably be on issue, and all modern Colonial collectors once more worked up into a fever of excitment. The Air Mail provisional has just whetted our appetites enough to make us relish the new set with gusto. There seems little possibility of the 1926-27 series showing any unlooked-for advances, as the news of the forth-coming Post. and Rev. set was too well circulated in advance. The 1d, 1½d, 2d and 2½d are the only values of the 1926-27 series which will not be overprinted; at least, these values are not included in the original order of the Crown Agents. Perhaps they will be overprinted later, or they may even be overprinted locally? Well, this makes the fourth issue in six years, which looks as if Malta was trying to set something of a record in the line of stamp-issuing. And don't forget: a definitive Post. and Rev. series must eventually follow the new provisionals! Certainly, we can't complain about dullness these days!

I wonder why it is so many used high values of the current Solomon Ids. series are on the market just now? And the strange part of it is, that in most cases they fetch lower prices than mint copies! Is it possible that these stamps are used fiscally in some way, and hence can be offered at low prices? I have even seen some of them offered at less than face.

By the way, do you know that the current Cayman Ids. stamps are also used as postage due stamps? I was unaware of this, until I had a cover offered me recently, which was sent from England to the islands, and on which postage due was collected by means of two of the current 1½d Cayman Ids. stamps.

I understand that all the £1 St. Kitts are now sold out. The 10/- are still on hand, or were until quite recently. Both these duties are well worth getting hold of in used condition.

Speaking of W. I. issues, the 3/- script of Dominica (which has been withdrawn) exists on two different papers, viz., pale yellow or lemon, and deep yellow. Which is the scarcer, or whether they are of equal value, I cannot say. The 5/- script Dominica also comes on the two papers.

By the way, if you're sending any covers to Montserrat, to be postmarked, be sure and place some sort of an enclosure in them, as the Montserrat Pm. will not postmark empty envelopes. I sent him a small lot of covers recently, without enclosures, and he had to open them, insert pieces of paper, and re-seal them; and I may add that he made a very neat and workman-like job of it, and deserves a lot of thanks for going to all that trouble.

BAD ACTORS

Mr. P. M. Hayes, a member of the Chicago Philatelic Society, had an adventure recently that revealed the sordid side of mankind, philatelic and otherwise. Riding to his home late at night, his car was forced to the curb by two young thugs in an auto, in the near west side district, who compelled him to leave his car, emphasizing their demand with a flourish of weapons and threats to shoot. One of them struck Mr. Hayes a stunning blow, whereupon the two took Mr. Hayes' watch, seventy dollars in money, and a circuit of the Society of Philatelic Americans, valued in the hundreds of dollars; and then departed in Mr. Hayes' car. He reported his loss to the police. It transpired that the crooks threw the circuit in a front yard in the neighborhood, where it was found by a boy the next morning on his way to school. The boy took the stamps home and there his parents saw that they had been sent out originally by Dr. A. E. Hussey, Cincinnati, sales superintendent of the S. P. A.; and the doctor was written to and informed of the recovery of the package. By the time that Dr. Hussey could get a letter back to Chicago, it developed that the circuit had disappeared, under the following circumstances: An older brother of the boy secretly took the stamps to a dealer and sold them for a pittance. Under the questioning of a detective, the older brother confessed where he had disposed of the stamps. Let us say that about $600 in stamps went for $20 or so, and although we may not have the exact figures, they afford an idea of the discrepancy between the buying and selling price. The officer convinced the dealer that it would be well for him to turn over his purchase, and he did so, saying that he intended to hold the circuit until someone claimed it! We understand that Dr. Hussey proposes to report the dealer in question, and he deserves to be told of. The boy who was instrumental in saving the stamps was rewarded by Mr. Hayes, who incidentally got his car back, the thugs having sold it for $115.

PHILATELY IN NEW ZEALAND

By E. Philpot Crowther.

A distinctly forward move has been made so far as Philately in New Zealand is concerned and one that will in all probability have an effect reaching far into the future. A committee had been set to advise with the Wellington Turnbull Library authorities and assist them in the formation of a national collection for reference and the education of future generations.

This committee recently met and later held a conference with the curator, Mr. J. Andersen, at which several interesting decisions were arrived at and a general scheme outlined by which it was thought a noteworthy national collection could be built up in course of time.

The discussion dealt provisionally with three main considerations.

(1) The formation of a representative and complete official collection of all New Zealand stamp issues. This it was decided must stand by itself and be built up gradually with individual stamps obtained from official and other sources, where and when opportunity occurs.

(2) The treatment of specialised collections donated by individuals to the library as trustees for the nation. It was decided that these, as far as their quality and completeness warranted, should be kept intact. This it was considered would encourage possessors of notable collections to bequeath them to the nation instead of leaving them to be broken up, sold and dispersed.

(3) The method of arranging collections for display and safe-keeping. The importance of this matter was fully realised and a scheme was provisionally sketched out that would combine elasticity, standardisation of mounting, and variation of display when desired.

Altogether the result promises the inauguration of a national collection that future generations may be proud of, and that will bring New Zealand worthily into line with other nations whose philatelic possessions are famous.

Following up recent notes and promised information about the New Zealand Georgian imperforate stamps: details of the present sixpenny carmine-rose stamp have come to hand. This stamp (imperf.) has not yet been catalogued by "Gibbons," and is almost unknown to collectors. It appeared on June 8, 1927, on which day two sheets of 6d were issued over the counter at Wellington G. P. O., in each of which one line of comb perforation was missed—resulting in a horizontal row of 12 stamps, each imperf. at sides and bottom; and one row of 12 stamps across, imperf. at top only.

From these sheets the imperforated stamps were separated into ten blocks of four stamps each, and one block of eight stamps; it is the only block of eight in existence; and should eventually prove extremely valuable.

About three weeks later it became known that a similar sheet had been on issue at the opposite counter from which a block of six stamps had been secured, the remainder being sold to the general public and apparently lost. New Zealand collectors are strongly advised to keep a lookout for this stamp—especially used on a piece, as it is just possible a copy or two may come to light somewhere. In years to come it should prove a rarity of great price.

Another imperforated stamp of which no record appears to have been made is the halfpenny green Georgian, which appeared in a sheet issued at Masterton Post Office early this year, in which the top row of twelve stamps was imperforate along the top only.

In 1858 the British Government issued a new type of the one penny red stamp, in which there were letters in all four corners, and in addition a minute plate number engraved in the meshes of the ornamental side border scroll work. These stamps were issued from 1858 until 1879, and each new steel plate was numbered from 69 to 225, but owing to imperfections due to faulty annealing several plates were not printed from but scrapped. Plate "70" was one of these and is not generally known to have been used. The late Earl of Crawford assured me many years ago that at least one or two sheets of 240 stamps each were printed from it, after which, the plate proving too soft for use, it was scrapped.

"Gibbons" does not mention it, but several handbooks confirm the information. Owing to the odd sheets being passed out for general use no interest was aroused then, and practically nothi is known of this very rare "plate" riety. "Gibbons" starts the list w No. 71. A copy has been reported me as existing in England—somewhe in Sussex—and there is an undoubt copy in my collection which is treasur as my rarest stamp, because only o other is so far known to be in existen Its value is problematical but its rar is unquestionable. This example serv to illustrate the value of detail and o servation and to emphasise the impo tance that sometimes attaches to ev such a minor detail as a "plate numbe when that plate number is a wor known rarity.—The Dominion.

Th may be a suggestion for some of yo readers.

Patriotic Civil War Envelopes

By H. P. ATHERTON.

Less than five years ago I sold my first collection of these used covers. They were sold at auction, made into little bundles of ten covers each, and there were seven bundles as I recall. These averaged $4.50 per bundle, which, less the customary 20% commission would make these covers average some 35c per cover. You readers may have bought some of these, and perhaps traded them for Harding precancels, in which case you earned and learned as much as I did, and we'll say no more about it.

Pioneers always seem to have a tough row to travel; in philately, too. Yet they have the fun of finding out what is unusual, and what to look for next time, and their satisfaction comes from the knowledge rather than the remuneration in coin for the realm.

Soon after I sold my "Pats" they began to "look up," till right now they are so lofty that they enjoy looking down on the '47's for example. This was an early collection of Patriotics. Times change rapidly these days. Pedestrians hoofed it in the '60's, cycled in the '90's, motored in the '20's, and only the other day I asked a friend, "See you Saturday"? and he said, "No, Jack and I are flying over to Portland for the week end."

My good friend John E. Morse strolled into the office some days ago and said he had some Patriotic letter stuff written back in 1861, by a man who was making a collection of these Civil War Patriotic Envelopes at the time. That sounded interesting to me, and he has kindly loaned me the letters and allowed me to make use of them for the Forum, so by permission I'm quoting verbatim from these very interesting documents, two being letters, and two being notes penned on the faces of Patriotic envelopes.

First, the two letters. They have crossed Flags with inscription under—LIBERTY AND UNION, NOW AND FOREVER MORE, ONE AND INSEPARABLE. This is at top left of the stationery, while the writer's Return Address is in colorless embossing at top right of the page, . . . J. M. WHITTEMORE & CO., STATIONERS, 114 WASHINGTON ST., BOSTON. Here's the first letter, tho the second contains more about collecting these covers. Note reference to his starting the collection! "Boston, May 21/61. Mr. J. A. McAllister, Dear Sir, Your favor of the 18th at hand and we send you per this mail 45 Boston envelopes—15 of them for the stamps enclosed, and the balance you may send in Philadelphia envelopes—all the varieties you can find. They go at one cent per oz. prepaid and done up like ours now sent. Yours, Whittemore & Co., per Stodder." You will note he is sending an extra 30 different envelopes and asking for all the Philadelphia types that they can send to him. He was a collector!

Second Letter, . . . "Boston, May 25/61, Mr. J. A. McAllister, Dear Sir, Your favor with package of envelopes was duly received and we send this, all we can, of your order—Bell and Breckenridge are out of print on envelopes, have therefore sent them on paper. We have added a few more late styles, for which we should be happy to receive others. The writer of this has a collection numbering 240. We have put in one which is quite rare, namely the Flag with only 11 Stripes, and the Engraver's name. The artist was so much ashamed of it that he collected all he could find of these issued, and destroyed them.

The regulation in regard to mailing is a late instruction from the P. O. Department. There is one we should like if you can send, the Pirate Flag torn in strips and underneath 'A. L., his marks.'

Yours, Whittemore & Co.,
per Stodder."

One face of an envelope has the design of a U. S. Shield with Liberty Cap on a staff above the shield, and a ribbon reading "Liberty or Death," the shield supported by the "Holy Bible," and a scroll labelled "Constitution," while in front is a snake with an arrow through the neck. This is at the left side of this envelope, and under the design is this Company's Return Address, "John M. Whittemore & Co., Stationers, No. 114, Washington Street, Boston."

On this face of the envelope is much printing at the right, describing an album for holding collections of these envelopes, . . . "Haines Envelope Holder. PATENT APPLIED FOR. For holding and Preserving Illustrated Envelopes. Designed by R. F. Haines, Boston, Directions for Inserting the Envelopes. Raise one of the slits, or bands, and slightly bend one corner of the envelope and slip it under the band; should the slit be too narrow for some of the envelopes, take a sharp knife and cut it to the desired length.

These holders are made to contain 100 envelopes, they could be made to hold any number, and bound in any style desired, with ruled borders, and paged, at a reasonable added expense. By reversing the envelopes they will be less liable to deface, by off-setting.

PUBLISHED BY J. M. WHITTEMORE & CO., 114 Washington Street, Boston, 1861."

This envelope with design and reference to the holder is printed in red and blue ink. The last envelope is a much larger one than we find on Civil War Patriotics, it being the same size as the current stamped envelope as bought at the P. O. It has the design in red and blue, and shows the zouave with bayoneted rifle in his left hand, and flag in his right. He is moving toward the left side of the envelope, and glancing up at the sign on a post which he is just passing.

This cover has the sign filled in with S. H. SEMON, 144 Broadway. At top of this envelope is another address, NEW YORK UNION ENVELOPE DEPOT, NO. 144 BROADWAY. An odd error is noticed in that "York" is spelled "Yokk." The envelope is addressed in mss. to the Whittemore Co., in Boston, and the note reads in mss. across the top, "Mr. Tupper has just brought in 300 and I exchanged them for ours."

So you see Mr. Stodder had 240 varieties in May, 1861, and if he had good luck he may have swapped for quite a lot with the chap who just had the 300 fetched in.

Now here is a very odd coincidence. While I was on my way typing this Forum, a man walked in and asked if I bought old envelopes with Civil War pictures on them! And the strangest part of it all is that many of them went to this same Whittemore in Boston, others to Butler of Philadelphia, and I have one addressed to this same collector of Patriotics, his name being H. F. Stodder and I am glad that my spelling of his name was correct, as his signature is so flowing that I was not sure of the unusual name.

One of the Patriotics went to Montreal, it is the first that I have had to Canada. Another is a very handsome one of Jeff Davis, in a circle with flags draped at the sides. It has a 3c 1857 stamp pmkd. MEMPHIS, and was used to LOUISVILLE, KY.! It is doubtless just prior to the war, as under the Davis likeness is JEFF DAVIS OUR FIRST PRESIDENT. There are some Generals and some loyal states, and caricature of three officers riding on slaves' backs toward another officer on a slave's back, the trio having a skull and bones flag, and under all is "SECESSION CAVALRY."

I never had such a strange happening as these covers coming to me from an entirely different part of the country from where the above quoted letters emanated.

I'm afraid that with these covers before me, I shall have to start in collecting them once again. There is a fascination about them that is quite a relief from the study of minute detail as regards the engraved postage stamp.

Will try to take up the various print shops which printed these designs at a future date. I have a list of maybe 25 printers, who put these on their presses, and such an item is of some interest to the ardent enthusiast in collecting Patriotics. And maybe Mr. Stodder was the pioneer collector of them all.

TWO NEW COMMEMORATIVES

RUSH YOUR ORDERS

Two new postage stamps will be issued in connection with the International Civil Aeronautics Conference, called by President Coolidge for December 12, 13, 14. The conference and stamps will be in commemoration of the first airplane flight, made by the Wright Brothers twenty-five years ago.

There will be two denominations, a two cent and a five cent. The two cent will show the famous Wright airplane and the five cent will bear a globe with a monoplane flying over it. The stamps will be large, the size of the special delivery, and striking in appearance.

You will certainly want some of these beautiful stamps. Because of their romantic interest they will appeal not only to collectors but to everyone. At the time of their issuance, the Aero conference and the anniversary of the airplane will be in the popular eye. You can get a lot of pleasure out of showing them to your friends.

Be among the first to have them. We will mail you a sheet (50 stamps) of the 2c and a sheet of the 5c, for only $5.25. These will be mailed on the morning of the day of issue, special delivery.

For $1.00 we will mail you first day (December 12th) covers of both stamps, together with unused singles of both. The cover of the 2c will be a plain envelope, that of the 5c an air mail envelope, so that you have one cover by regular mail and one by air mail. These covers will be mailed at the special post office which the Postmaster General has ordered placed in the U. S. Chamber of Commerce Building, headquarters of the Conference, for the three days of the conference. A special cancellation die will be used. Covers will be sent direct to you.

For $1.00 additional, covers of the 2c and 5c will be mailed at the Aero Conference post office on the 13th and 14th also, thus giving you the complete "coverage" of the Conference.

Unused blocks of four and unused singles of both stamps, 10 stamps in all, will be supplied for $1.00.

Ten unused copies of each stamp, 20 stamps in all, will be sent for $1.50.

READY FOR ALL COMERS

The opening of the new season in philately finds us better prepared than ever before to meet the wants of various classes of collectors of United States and foreign stamps. Each year we find it necessary to develop and study new side lines in U. S. One year perhaps departments, another year Confederate States, next patriotic covers, then air-mails, now first-day commemoratives, or battle-ship cancellations.

EACH LINE A STOCK IN ITSELF.—As each line is entered upon we have to build up a stock to meet the requirements of advanced specialists in that line as well as those of the average collector who wants good things at considerable discounts from catalog prices.

19TH CENTURY U. S.

This was founded on several specialized collections and carried a wide range of very fine things, shades, plate varieties, pairs, strips and blocks, covers, combinations, etc. To this we are constantly adding as opportunity offers.

To secure the high premium items for the specialist, we often have to buy entire collections, 95% of which appeal to the general collector but not to the connoisseur. In this way we have built up a fine stock of 19th century U. S. which we believe we offer at the lowest prices known. Approval selections for the beginner, the budding specialist, and the student of early U. S. at very liberal discounts from catalog rates.

20TH CENTURY U. S.

For years we confined our business to stamps issued prior to 1890, but the commemorative issues finally attracted us to the issues of the 20th century. We now solicit want lists for used or unused 20th century U. S., and at present can supply all but the great rarities in inverts, part perfs., etc.

DEPARTMENTS

Neglect of these scarce and interesting issues seemed due to the intense specialization in single stamps in early U. S. after the discovery of the secret marks on the bank note issues. By degrees their old-time popularity returned, augmented by the new demand for fancy and colored cancellations, and for the past few years prices have been advancing steadily. Our stock includes regular issues almost complete in used and unused, with a number of strips and blocks, covers, "specimen" sets, etc. Purchases made years ago enable us to offer good, sound stamps at substantial discounts.

CONFEDERATE STATES

Like the department stamps, those of the Confederate States were neglected for a long time but in recent years the demand has made it almost impossible to keep superb items always in stock. Of fine things we have a good coverage, including used, unused, covers, etc., of the regular issues. Generally, a few of the postmasters' provisionals.

PATRIOTICS

The owner of one of the largest collections of patriotic covers advises us that a pair of covers we sent him recently were the finest he had ever seen. We are steadily buying finds, collections and accumulations of patriotic covers; Federal and Confederate Civil War covers; Spanish American and World War covers. Lincolns, Grant & Colfax campaign covers, almost always in stock. If you have any to dispose of, please send them along at your own price.

U. S. AIR-MAILS

Mechanical flight is the greatest accomplishment of modern times, and the covers whose markings record these still pioneer days in the history of the air-mail we feel sure will be increasingly sought so long as stamps are collected. Should the impossible happen and philately disappear, the historic value of the covers must continue.

Our stock of air-mails is far from complete, but it includes many of the pioneer exhibition trials, of the special and commemorative flights, and a good showing of the contract routes. We want to buy anything needed for our stock. Send them at your own price.

FIRST DAY COVERS

Beginning with the Victory stamps of 1919, we have a very nice lot of first day covers with commemorative stamps, bearing historic dates and postmarked in the localities interested. For the most part, these are still comparatively inexpensive, but the demand is increasing far faster than the supply. They make a side line so fascinating as to interest the most prejudiced anti-philatelist.

STAMPED ENVELOPES

Nesbit and other early issues have been studied and collected without intermission by specialists. Today their vogue is increasing, not only because of the interest attaching to the stamps, but also because many rare and beautiful postmarks otherwise almost unattainable are to be found on them. We have a fine lot, and always glad to add to it.

FOREIGN STAMPS

We do very little with 20th century foreign, but always have a nice lot of classic issues of Canada, Great Britain, France, Holland, Italy, Colonials, etc., of the 19th century.

WE WANT TO BUY

anything fine in U. S. or foreign postage, accumulations, finds, or single items. Also anything nice in 20th century U. S., the commoner varieties in quantities where free from paper and in nice condition. Returns by wire, if demanded.

Our guarantee always the same, "Your money back if you want it." Safest guarantee we know how to give.

Air Mail News

BY FREDERICK D. MARKEE,
40 Wilshire Park, Needham, Mass.

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Markee and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

Under date of November 8th, Mr. M. N. Cowan, Secretary of the El Paso Stamp Club, writes that "it is anticipated that Air Mail service will be inaugurated from El Paso, both Eastbound and Westbound, in the not very distant future, etc." The Club very kindly offers to attend to the despatch of covers sent them ready for mailing, such covers to be sent to El Paso Stamp Club, Box 11, El Paso, Texas, with instructions. This offer on the part of the El Paso Stamp Club will be appreciated by readers, I am sure.

From Mr. Albert N. Brown comes the following—"The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce will receive and cachet all Air Mail sent to it for the purpose of forwarding on the 1st day of the Speed Boat Service in connection with the Air Mail from San Francisco to the Oakland Air Mail Field. The Boeing Air Transportation further promises collectors that if we place sufficient mail in the hands of their agent at Sacramento, Mr. Dayton Baker, Mather Field, Sacramento, Calif., that in such event that the Westbound Eastern mail is delayed and there will be sufficient mail at the field that they will send a special plane to take it so we can have a First Day westbound speed boat (cachet). It will require at least 100 lbs. of mail to secure this consideration, so be liberal with your covers. The City of Oakland Chamber of Commerce is planning to have something, too." This leaves it up to we collectors to get busy. Send your covers to the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Baker, as above. Better do it now, as time is short.

Harry A. Meyer advises that the Evansville-Atlanta flight will come off on December 1st, with stops at Nashville and Chattanooga, Tenn. First Flight St. Louis to Louisville via Evansville, will occur on the same date. UNITED STATES POSTAGE STAMPS

I have just been rearranging the whole of my summer purchase of United States stamps in a series of new books mounted to suit the requirement of the middle class collector as well as of the advanced specialist. These books are priced at very reasonable prices, mostly based on original cost, and largely ignoring catalogue.

I should be very happy to send any of them that are available to clients known to me or after the usual business references.

The following books are now ready. Let me know which issues you wish to see, when writing.

Book 1. 1847. 5c, 3 unused and in used 2 pairs, and about 25 singles.
10c, 1 have a pair and 15 singles, among these being the big double transfer in the word "Post Office".
" 2. 1851-56, 1c and 3c, in singles and pairs. The cheaper varieties.
" 3. 1851-56, 3c, 5c, 10c and 12c. Scarcer varieties and unusual items, such as in the 3c line through "three cents" on cover. 3c two positions of the cracked plate.
5c vertical strip of three, superb horizontal pair and several singles.
10c and 12c, a number of fine pairs.
" 4. 1851-56, 3c, 5c, 10c and 12c and
1857-60, 1c, cheaper varieties only.
" 5. 1857-60, 1c to 24c, scarce varieties in singles, pairs and strips.
" 6-7. The cheaper varieties of the issues from 1857 to 1867, inclusive.
" 8. 1857-62, Unused and scarce used. This book includes several fine blocks and a few plate numbers and imprints.
" 9. 1862-68, Unused and special used, the scarcer varieties. This book also includes a fine series in immaculate condition of the re-issues of 1875.
" 10. 1869, Unused and used, including some scarce imprints.
" 11. 1870-73, Unused only, including scarce strips with imprint and rare varieties.
" 12. 1873-82, Unused only, including a number of strips with imprint.
" 13. 1882-83, Unused only, many strips with imprint and some very rare items, one of the choicest being a strip of six of the 2c red-brown, special printing of 1882. This strip has the top margin and the middle pair of stamps is imperf. between vertically, probably unique in this condition
" 14. 1873-88, Used stamps, including many scarce varieties.
" 15. 1870-73, All used, including many very scarce varieties.
The following three books contain rarities only:
" 16. 1857-62, Unused, including a number of very rare blocks and a few of the large 5c black Post Office, unused and used.
" 17. 1851, Strip of 3 on cover of the 5c, 1851, and many other very desirable pieces.
" 18. 1851-56, 1c scarce varieties, in singles, pairs and strips. Included here are no less than 5 conies of the 1c type 1a.

I also have 7 books of United States stamps on covers, scarce varieties only, including a number of exceptional items which I shall be glad to send on approval. [1f

Tribute to Coming Aeronautic Mee

(N. Y. "Times"—Irving Levine.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Postmaste General New has given orders for issuance of a new two-cent stamp and five-cent commemorative stamp in connection with the International Civil Aeronautics Conference to be held here Dec 12, 13 and 14. He directed also that a special postoffice station be established in the building of the United States Chamber of Commerce, where the meetings will be held. A special canceling machine with a new steel die will be used there.

The new stamps are to be the same shape and size as the special delivery stamp. The two-cent stamp will be printed in red ink and the five-cent stamp in blue ink. At the top is a dark border panel with wording "U. S. Postage" in white Roman lettering; a small scroll is at each end, and under the panel in small architectural Roman lettering are the words "International Civil Aeronautics Conference." On either side of the stamp are narrow border panels; within the borders are shown, on the left the Washington Monument, and on the right the United States Capitol; in the centre is a picture of the Wright aeroplane as first shown by the Wright brothers at Fort Myer, Va.

In the lower right and left corners are rectangular shields with numeral two (2) in each. A ribbon appears between the numerals and below the aeroplane with the dates "December 12, 13, 14, 1928," and under the ribbon is a base panel with the word "cents" in white Roman lettering.

The 5-cent United States postage stamp is similar with the exception of the Wright aeroplane being replaced by a globe showing the eastern and western continents, and a modern monoplane flying across it. The numeral "5" appears in place of "2."

The new stamps will first be placed on sale Dec. 12, at the Washington, D. C., postoffice, and for the benefit of stamp collectors and dealers they will also be placed on sale the same date at the Philatelic Agency, Division of Stamps, Postoffice Department.

OFF-SIDE—

THE Chicago Precancel Stamp Club has changed its meeting nights so that they will fall on the second and fourth Thursday of each month, at the Sherman Hotel. At the meeting of November 22nd, an auction sale of stamps, contributed by members, will be held for the purposes of meeting a small deficit incurred by the recent convention and exhibition of the national organization, which was so successful.

MR. ARTHUR BERGER, Boston, announces that he has found an unused pair of the 10c of 1857, common type, in an old hymn book, a short time after our "reference to the possibility of finding unused stamps in old dictionaries, Bibles, etc."

THE Los Angeles Philatelic Club held an auction sale of stamps donated by members, and was a great patriotic event on November 12th. Among the many lots entered was the "famous caveat emptor mystery packet." It is said that the buyer of this lot was sent to a private institution, and not the state asylum, as at first reported.

THE 1928-1929 price list of B. L. Voorhees, Chicago, recently issued, offers U. S. and revenues with especial attention to twentieth century U. S.

ON the convention photograph taken at Chicago of the delegates to the Precancel Stamp Society convention, sent to us by Mr. A. Hippchen, there are fifty-four persons shown.

WE have received The Flying Mail, a price list distributed by Mr. Charles A. Hall, Chicago, devoted to air mail covers and prices.

TO those who have written for information as to the Graf Zeppelin's last trip, word is given that particulars appeared in the WEEKLY as soon as they were available. Other correspondents are referred to the issue of June 11, 1928, for the list of Philatelic Agencies. Other inquirers are referred to the article, "How to Organize a Stamp Club," that was begun in the issue of Nov. 12th, by Mr. LeDuc. Further, all readers who send in clippings may know that they are gratefully received even though they may not be used in every case, or acknowledged by letter in each instance.

ON Nov. 1, the Panama Silver Centenary was observed with the issuance of the current 2c stamp bearing an appropriate overprint. First day covers are dated Nov. 1, and we have Emile Mizrahi, C. C. Lofler, and the Canal Zone Stamp Co., to thank for covers submitted.

A VISIT TO MR. HIND

We have received the cut shown here from Mr. K. A. Wallquist, Chicago, who is the representative in the U. S. A. for the Philatelic Society of Sweden, and who made a visit in August, 1928, to Mr. Arthur Hind, in Utica, New York, for the purpose of interviewing him; and he tells of the reception he received in the following words: "I was very glad to go through part of this famous collection, of whose magnitude few collectors can have the right idea. It makes a philatelist's heart beat fast when, as I did, he handles four beautiful Alexandrias, or the famous Boscawen 5c; and it is a treat to the eye to see a superb block of four of the ten cent, 1847, or just as fine a block of six of the 1869 inverted eagle, thirty cent.

Mr. Hind is not a specialist in any certain country, but only in rarities; and his foreign stamps are just as wonderful, among them being a beautiful block of 36 of the one penny black, Great Britain, V. R.

He is a patient entertainer, and we spent hour after hour among his stamp albums. The philatelic world can be proud of him, as he has the keenest interest in stamps, and keeps his collection intact. Mr. Hind by no means has retired from business, even though he has a right to retire, did he wish; instead, he is the active head of his plush mills, besides local business enterprises, such as the Utica Hotel, etc. Golf is one of his favorite sports, at which he makes a good showing."

EDITORIAL

BEHOLD the postage stamp as the preferred vehicle for the acclaim of persons and places. It is now accepted as establishing the quickest contact between the public and the object of attention that the authorities can hit upon. Of course, frequent issues of unnecessary stamps swell the sale of stamps to collectors who do not use them postally, but this profit is merely a drop in the bucket, and does little to influence the favorable decision of the post office department. Collectors must like the commemoratives, else they would not buy them so liberally, it could be argued; and the department believes that philatelists are pleased to have the new stamps. That the opinions of collectors on the subject of special issues has changed is not to be denied. The poll that the WEEKLY took some time ago showed that the opposition to them as simon-pure philatelic pieces was equalled by the favor with which many collectors received them. Since then, the scattered "boo" is lost in the applause that greets their appearance—possibly with the exception of the recent surcharges.

UNDER the date of November 11th, Washington despatches appeared in the newspapers telling of the decision of the post office department to issue new 2c and 5c stamps in honor of the International Civil Aeronautical Conference, called by President Coolidge, at Washington, on December 12, 13 and 14, 1928. The meeting will commemorate the feat of the Wright Brothers at Kitty Hawk, N. C., December 17, 1903, flying 852 feet, and remaining one minute in the air. Moreover, there will be a special postal station in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building, where the meetings will be held, with a special cancellation for letters that are mailed during the sessions of the conference. The two stamps are to be of the size of the special delivery stamp with the 2c printed in red, and the 5c in blue; and the description of the designs as given in the government circular is interesting. They are referred to as the International Civil Aeronautics Conference stamps, and they will be placed on sale on Dec. 12, 1928, at the Washington post office, and dealers and collectors may get them at the Philatelic Agency on the same day. The Associated Press distributed a story of over a dozen lines on the forthcoming stamps. We might add that the department's selection of the Wright plane as a stamp head-liner may have been influenced by suggestions that have been made to the department over a period of several years that the Wright Brothers be given stamp honors. We predict that these stamps will be popular.

GUARD your stamps. Mr. J. H. Ripstra, famous as a collector of medals, latterly has been giving much attention to stamps. Recently, his home at 2126 Gladys Avenue, Chicago, was entered by burglars in the absence of members of the family during the day. The thieves took many valuable articles, and made a ten-strike in the medals and such stamps as Mr. Ripstra had at home. He has not yet checked up his stamp losses. Crooks are attracted by coin collections, considering them prize booty, and if anything, over-valuing them. Stamps, they know little about, as a rule; and to that fact may be attributed a degree of immunity enjoyed by them. However, during recent years, this sense of security has been disturbed somewhat as a consequence of stamp thefts over a wide territory. If there is organized stamp thievery, there must be stamp fences. Non-philatelic crooks would not steal stamps if they were not encouraged to do so by the knowledge that the stamps would be taken off their hands. Some day, a stamp fence may be smoked out, hard as it is to prove an offense of the kind, and the culprit's name will be held up to scorn.

THE following letter has been received from Mr. W. G. Robb, Sterling, Illinois: "I think that it would be of interest to postmark fans to know that I wrote the secretary of the International Postal Union, at Berne, Switzerland, an inquiry about a list of post offices of the world, and he informed me that they had on sale a 'Dictionaire des Bureaux de Poste,' the latest issue being of the date of Nov., 1926. Price in Swiss francs, fifteen frances, fifty centimes, postpaid and registered. I have just received it at a cost of $3. Here we have the complete list in one volume. To be sure the names are in French, but are easily translated into English."

IN order that Honorary Member No. 1, of the Chicago Philatelic Society, P. M. Wolsieffer might have company, the C. P. S. at a recent meeting elected C. E. Severn, Honorary Member No. 2. Mr. W. N. Emerson voted aye with the proviso that Mr. Severn show the gold medal given him at the 1,000th meeting of the society, every so often to prove that he still had it. Walter is a subtle customer, even though not a mannerly one; and as an ex-publisher he knows the editorial mind.

WE thank Messrs. Stanley Gregory, A. N. Bonner, Charles N. Carnes, Abel Howells and L. DeMayer for copies of the new Canadian issues.

SOME time ago, a reader asked what is in store for Liechtenstein upon the death of the venerable prince, and now we have the following commentary from Mr. Richard Hughes Bailey, of Emporia, Kansas: "I am reliably informed by a history professor, who has been in Europe for some time, that upon the death of the present prince of Liechtenstein, who is now eighty-eight years old, and has no immediate heirs, Liechtenstein will give up its identity as a principality, nominally independent, and will become just another canton of Switzerland. Thus, the interesting little dot on the map will disappear in a geographic sense." The ruler, John, who has attained this advanced age is highly esteemed by the people of his country, whose interests he ever has at heart, and it is doubtful whether their affections would be extended to one who was not an intimate relation.

"I WANT to say even at this late date that I read every word of the account of your European trip. I sighed at the recital of the prevalence of collecting there. Here, in my city of nearly forty thousand, I do not know of a single collector other than I. All my friends think that I am in my second childhood, including my family, but I stand at the bridge, Horatius-like and defy 'em all," writes a subscriber who wants his name and city to remain unknown. By mentioning the city, we are sure that we could uncover other collectors there, and he even may find one in his Kiwanis crowd, if he would boldly proclaim: "I am a philatelist."

THE three pence Australia, to show the "Kookaburra" after the design of the bird on the 1914 six pence, which are to be printed at the Melbourne philatelic exhibition in sheets of sixty, as well as at the Stamp Printers in the customary sheets of 120, is receiving notice. In the Australian Stamp Journal, we find late information regarding the issue by courtesy of the Postmaster General's department. The stamp will be steel-engraved on unwatermarked paper, and although limited in number will be on sale at all the post offices. A cut of the stamp shows the quaint bird perched on a branch, and its very appearance is such as to excite interest, even amusement; and we predict that the stamp will be in demand. Our contemporary says that it has disapproved of issues of the kind by other countries, and it now shows its displeasure over this stamp at home.

ABOUT WANT LISTS

Many collectors do not realize that the Want List is the most satisfactory method of ordering stamps if the collection is past the beginner stage.

My specialty is filling want lists in Argentine, Chile, and Peru to any limit desired at each sending. If your limit is $3.00, you receive stamps to that amount only. You are not obligated to buy, but may keep the whole or any part of the selection.

Lists are kept on file and missing items reserved for you as they come in.

Send for my "Simplified Want List." Customary references required.

BOOK REVIEW

We have received from the Harris Publications, 112 Strand, W. C. 2, London, England, a check-list of South-West Africa, by H. Mallet-Veale. This is a very attractive booklet, exceedingly well printed and fully illustrated. Accompanying the check-list of stamps is a section devoted to "Some Interesting Occupational Postmarks." These, too, are well illustrated. The price of this book is 2sh2d postage paid, and it may be had from the Harris firm.

COLLECTORS CLUB, NEW YORK

By CHAS. J. PHILLIPS.

The magnificent collection of Danish West Indies formed by the late Johannes Elster of Berlin, Germany, and received by me on consignment, was shown at the October meeting.

The late Mr. Elster was noted for the wonderful general collection he had formed during the past thirty years. One of his great loves throughout most of his collections was to try and obtain entire sheets, and with the aid of his friend, Mr. Philip Kosack, and of the great house of Moens, he attained a great measure of success, many sheets being found in this collection that are not known to exist elsewhere.

The collection shown at the Club consisted almost entirely of unused stamps. First of all there are a few British stamps with the cancellation "C. 5." Following this we have a beautiful lot of singles and blocks of the early issues, amongst these an outstanding piece, which is very considerably under catalogued, the 3c imperf. on thin paper, but printed in a bright carmine instead of the usual dull rose.

In the 4c blue of 1872, there were pairs and blocks imperf. and imperf. vertically, and many shades and minor varieties. The issues of 1872 to 1896 were worked out in innumerable shades in every printing, both in singles and blocks, these being dealt with entirely separate from the large collection of entire sheets. In this section there is a fine inside margin pair of the 3c imperf., and many of the plate flaws.

The scarce 14c lilac and green was represented by two pairs, a block of four and several singles. Throughout this section special attention had also been given to the collection of varieties with inverted frame, which have been neglected by so many collectors. Noteworthy here also, were some of the very rare early printings in blocks.

In the 1887 issue, 1c on 7c lilac and orange, there was a fine block of 9, the middle stamp being clearly double printed. Here I also noted in the issue of 1895, a block of four of the 10c on 1c with the date 1895, which I do not find mentioned in any catalogue. This is noted as being worth $70.00. I do not know if it is an essay or a pure fake, but note it for what it may be worth.

The Provisionals of 1887 and 1902 included many varieties in addition to those usually catalogued, such as shifted surcharges, &c. Here also are found several blocks of four of the rare 2c on 3c with the small perforation 14.

Quite a feature of the collection was the sheets of the Postage Due stamps of 1902, showing all the different compositions and arrangements. Here I note 3 sheets of the 1c, 3 sheets of the 4c, 2 sheets of the 6c, and 3 sheets of the 10c, a series that probably could not be equalled in any known collection.

Junior Dictionary

Porto.—A German word (derived from Lat. portare, to carry) meaning postage. In combination, i.e., "porto-frei" it means postpaid, but as usually used by itself, it means postage due. It occurs (1) in combination as "Portomarke" on the Austrian dues, (2) as a surcharge on those of 1916, (3) as an inscription on those of 1916, (4) surcharge, 1917, (5) on the dues of Austrian Levant, where it constitutes the only inscription except the value, (6) on no less than 13 different sets of provisional Hungarian due stamps, as a surcharge, (7) as a surcharge on Italian occupation stamps used in Austria, (8) part of the inscription on the Bosnia dues, (9) surcharged on Jugo-Slavia and no doubt elsewhere.

Porto Stempel.—This inscription, meaning "postage stamp," appeared upon the first envelope stamps of Finland.

Abyssinia. — The new Abyssinian stamps, showing Negus Tafari Maknoen and the Empress Zeoditou have appeared. They were first on sale at the Addis-Abeba post office on September 5th. The first design, portraying Ras Tafari, is inscribed in native characters, "Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah." He is shown wearing the famous gemmed crown of Abyssinia, which is supposed to weigh 20 lbs. The empress' head is also circled with an inscription, "Ethiopia holds out her hands to God." The stamps are ⅛ mehalik, orange and blue; ¼ meh. blue and yellow; ½ meh. green and black; 1 meh. carmine and black; 2 meh. blue and black; 4 meh. yellow and sepia; 8 meh. lilac and sepia; 1 th. red-brown and lilac; 2 thalers yellow-green and brown; 3 th. sepia and yellow-green. The new Post Office was opened the same day, and 50,000 sets were surcharged: 1920—P. T. T.—Souvenir of the memorable Day. This year is 1920 in the native calendar, the date is not an error. P. T. Albania.—This country has another new set of surcharges. The new set has been surcharged (in black and red): Kujtim Mbledhjes Kushtetuese, 25.8.28. The values are 1 quindar red-brown, 2q grey, 5q green, 10q carmine, 15q brown, 25q blue, 50q rosé-lilac, and 1 franc blue and grey.

Ceylon. — The Ceylon Post Office have issued a new 5 rupee stamp, yellow-green and purple, watermarked script CA, in the old design. Reason for this change was the discovery that many Postage and Revenue stamps of higher values were cleaned and re-used.

Another Map Stamp

The Dominican Republic issued on May 31 an air post stamp of 10c value. Color ultramarine and of familiar design.

U. S. 3c Victory

By Henry Mayfield, Jr.

In 1919, the United States issued a stamp in celebration of the Allied Victory. The stamp was issued in two shades, violet and red-violet. The stamp was engraved and perforated 11, with no watermark. The entire design appears on a shaded panel with the inscription "U. S. Postage" across the top. Across the bottom, in the center of the stamp, is the word "Cents" with the numeral "3" enclosed by a circle at either side.

In the center is a picture of the Goddess of Liberty, with the flags of the five allied nations: Britain, Belgium, the United States, France, and Italy, in the background.

Barbuda

By Henry Mayfield, Jr.

Of the hundreds of stamps issued by British Colonies, the set from Barbuda were the least needed. Barbuda is one of the islands of the Leeward group. Previous to the issuance of this set, stamps from Antigua were used. The postal needs are small as there are not over ten white men on the island. Eleven stamps were issued, the first eight on Multiple Crown and Script C. A. paper, and the latter three on Multiple Crown and C. A. paper. The stamps were from Leeward Islands, 1912-22, Die II, surcharged "Barbuda" in black or red.

Fiume Fancies

By A. C. LeDuc.

This former city-state in existence for a few years directly after the World War, had a hectic career. Originally a city in the Austro-Hungarian empire, its final disposition was one of the many problems left by that war. It became semi-independent and proceeded to show the world that it was no longer an integral part of Hungary. The stamps of the latter country were overprinted in large serif capitals with the word "Fiume," in December, 1918.

On Jan. 28, 1919, the first definite issue of stamps for this municipality state appeared. These were lithographs, and showed liberty on three of the values. The clock tower over the market at Fiume is shown on three values. A symbolic statue is shown on the 25c, 40c and 45c values. The six varieties from 60c to 10cor show pictures of the harbor of Fiume, with the Italian flag waving over all. This issue was inscribed "Fiume," but later in the year eight varieties of this set appeared with the inscription changed to "Posta Fiume."

On the 18th of May of the the same year, a charity set of 12 values appeared. These were to celebrate the 200th day of peace since the end of the World War, and were sold at a premium of 5 corones each. The low values show the statue of Romulus and Remus suckling the wolf. The values 45c to 1cor show a Venetian galley in full sail. The 4 high values show the Plaza of St. Mark's at Venice.

Later in the year 13 varieties of the first definite issues, inscribed Fiume and Posta Fiume, were surcharged with new values, and the word "Franco" in fancy letters. This issue was followed by another charity issue of one stamp, 25c plus 2cor, showing a picture of Dr. Grossich.

Apparently the charity issues did not sell well, so all values were surcharged "Valore Globale cent. 5," etc. This reduced the value of each variety to its original postal value, cancelling the charity premium.

In 1920, 14 values appeared all showing the head of the great adventurer and Fiume patriot, Gabriele d'Annunzio. Very few bald heads are as well known as this one!

The next set consisted of 4 values, one showing a dagger cutting a knot, one showing a fountain, another a figure of liberty, and the fourth shows 5 daggers held by 5 strong arms. This issue commemorated the capture of Fiume by d'Annunzio and his legionaires. All values were inscribed "XII Settembre MCMXIX" (Sept. 12, 1919), and were in use only on Sept 12, 1920.

The remainder of this set of stamps was later issued surcharged "Regganza Italiana del Carnaro," and most of them with new values.

In Jan., 1921, the d'Annunzio set was surcharged "Governo Provvisorio." This was followed with the charity set of May, 1919, surcharged "24—IV—1921 Costituente Fiumana" (the latter diagonally). However, in 1922 this last set was further treated to a surcharge by adding "1922" at the bottom right corner.

In 1923 an entirely new set was issued, and consisted of 12 values evenly divided among four pictures, namely, a galley in full sail, a Roman arch, St. Vitus, and an Attic column.

Not to let any chance for a surcharge to pass, the 1923 set was overprinted in 1924, with a fancy scroll and the words "Annessione All Italia, 22 Febb., 1924." The same set was also surcharged "Regno d'Italia." These two sets were presumably issued to advertise the fact that Fiume had been annexed to the Kingdom

CHASE BOOK NEARS COMPLETION

One unexpected delay after another has delayed the appearance of Dr. Carroll's Chase's encyclopedic work on the U. S. stamps of 1851-57. After spending years in completing the work in serial form, Dr. Chase found so much new material in the course of that time that one-fourth of the book had to be rewritten. His copy nearly complete, Dr. Chase was laid up for a time, with a severe and painful illness. Upon his recovery he completed the revision of the book, the matter was set and corrected, almost ready to go to press, when it was discovered that nearly a hundred of the illustrations could not be found. Weeks were spent in searching for them, as the cost of new illustrations and half tones would have made the cost of producing the book almost prohibitive, at any popular figure. Now most of the cuts have been found, and with but some twenty-five new illustrations to be provided, the issuance of the work is expected during the month of December. Because of the nature of the delays it has been impossible for the publishers to give definite information regarding the date of publication, or the price at which the volume will be offered to non-subscribers and dealers. These announcements are expected to follow shortly.

BRITISH COLONIAL NOTES

Newfoundland apparently insists on dishing it out to us in small portions,—because my St. John's correspondent just writes me that the 12c value of the present "Publicity" series is "exhausted, and no future orders will be given for same." With the 9c value still fresh in mind it is only natural to get the impression that somebody up there must have gotten the idea that stamp dealing is a lucrative business!

I read with interest "Calabar's" article in your paper—particularly the reference made to the Falkland Is., 2½d on 2d Provisional. Judging from his remarks and the fact that they appeared without editorial comment, it must have escaped both his and the editor's eagle eye that the WEEKLY already some time ago contained the fullest details in regard to this rare stamp that have so far appeared in any philatelic journal. It may be immodest to make such a statement because these details happened to come from my own pen! Half a dozen mint copies are already in this country—one in my own reference collection, and four are held by collectors to whom I sold them. In a letter from my London agent a week or two ago I am told that reports over there have it that only about 200 copies were left over in unused condition. That estimate may be too low—yet there is no doubt that here is another outstanding rarity, a stamp which—in spite of its low face value—will always stay out of the collection financed by a purse of ordinary size.

That makes me think of those two extremely rare "small stamps," British Central Africa, Nos. 71 and 72, which once upon the time also took the outside world by surprise, by appearing and disappearing very much in the same fashion as the Falkland Is., Provisional. A copy of the 4d No. 72 was just sold in a public sale held by J. M. Bartels Co., and realized $1,120.00. It was described as one of 17 extant copies. It was well worth the price—and in saying so I am sincere. I happened to be the runner-up, and lost it at $1,110.00, and tonight I am sitting by my fire contemplating whether my noble opponent got it away from me too cheaply!

Let us brave dizziness and "parachute" down to other stamps also of low value, but which remain within the reach of the more modestly endowed collector.

The obsolete "Small Scripts" as a whole are still selling very well. The Virgin Is., 5d, and Montserrat 5d, are still leading—with the Leeward Is., 2½d orange in third position. The Ascension 4d and 6d have been going ahead fast—and would, no doubt, have gotten further by now, if their progress had been left unhindered. Mauritius No. 184, distinguishes itself by being consistently absent. And remember, "absence" means more than standard catalogue price!

By the way, it is surprising that the array of talent who make it their business to entertain us with market advice have entirely overlooked that the Leeward Is., Colonies are changing the colors of their 1d and 1½d back to their normal hue. In fact, stamps like the Virgin Is., 1d violet, and 1½d red have been obsolete already for some time, having seen service only since 1927.

Besides the postage and semi-postals already mentioned, there were 17 kinds of special delivery stamps, 4 varieties of newspaper stamps, including the triangles and 26 kinds of postage dues. STILL GOING

The unusual number of want lists which have come to hand asking for stamps from the J. Barton Townsend Collection has far surpassed my expectations. The collection, as previously announced, catalogues well in excess of $125,000.00 and covers the stamps of the United States, Great Britain and Colonies, as well as the balance of the world. While the Townsend collection contained practically everything in twentieth century, with the exception of the great rarities, there is, nevertheless, a fine general lot of nineteenth century issues, which includes practically all stamps listing under $100.

Two or three countries have been sold intact and specialists interested in certain countries or groups of countries will have these submitted for inspection.

If there is anything that you especially want in the way of United States Issues, I have on hand at the present time an unusual stock, including not only the general issues, but a great number of rarities which are only found when the larger collections are broken up.

If you have a fine property to sell, correspondence is solicited.

Aeronautical Conference Stamps

In this column last week, announcement was made that the Department contemplated placing on sale in Washington, on December 12th, a 2-cent and 5-cent stamp in honor of the convening on that date of the International Civil Aeronautical Conference, called by President Coolidge.

The 2-cent, which depicts the first Wright Brothers air plane with which they experimented at Kitty Hawk, N. C., was flown for the first time with Wilbur Wright as pilot, on December 17, 1903, flying 852 feet, and remaining in the air one minute.

The new stamps are officially described by the Post Office Department as follows:

"The new stamps to be issued for this occasion are the same shape and size as the special-delivery stamp, 144/100 by 84/100 inches. The two-cent stamp will be printed in red ink, and the five-cent stamp in blue ink. At the top is a dark border panel with wording U. S. Postage in white Roman lettering; a small scroll at each end; under the panel in small architectural Roman lettering—International Civil Aeronautics Conference—on either side of the stamp are narrow border panels; within the borders are shown on the left the Washington Monument, and the U. S. Capitol on the right; in the center is a picture of the Wright Aeroplane as first shown by the Wright Brothers at Fort Myer, Virginia. In the lower right and left corners are rectangular shields with numeral two (2) in each, a ribbon appears between the numerals and below the aeroplane with the dates, December 12, 13, 14, 1928, and under the ribbon a base panel with the word 'cents' in white Roman lettering.

The 5-cent U. S. Postage Stamp for the International Civil Aeronautics Conference is similar with the exception of the Wright aeroplane being replaced by a globe showing the eastern and western continents, and a modern monoplane flying across it; the numerals 5 in place of the numerals 2.

The new International Civil Aeronautics Conference stamps will first be placed on sale December 12, 1928, at the Washington, D. C., office, and for the benefit of stamp collectors and dealers, the new stamps will also be placed on sale the same date at the Philatelic Agency, Division of Stamps, Post Office Department."

Arrangements have been made for the opening of a special branch post office at the Chamber of Commerce Building, in Washington, where the Conference will be held, and at this office, a special cancellation will be used during the three days of December 12, 13 and 14, when the Conference is in session.

In discussing the matter with Mr. Warren Irving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, during the early part of the month, it was mentioned that a green, or some other bright color cancellation, would look extremely well on the new stamps. It is believed that this thought will be given special consideration, and that we may have some very attractive covers showing the new stamps with the special postmark.

Mr. H. M. Southgate has seen the working models for the two new varieties, and states that they are extremely attractive, the latter variety especially appealing to this experienced collector.

Mr. Glover in writing about them describes them as "knock-outs." The proofs were approved by the Postmaster General on November 8th. While the stamps will only be available in Washington, on the first day, they may be acquired in small quantities by other postmasters on requisition.

Campaign Covers

During recent years much interest has been taken in early Campaign Covers, and the collector runs across now and then a cover used when Lincoln was candidate for president and wh Grant and Colfax were can dates for the presidency and vi presidency, respectively. Late Campai covers are seldom met with, for t means does not seem to be adopted the present time to advance the inter of candidates of either party. Und the circumstances, two covers recent sent by Mr. Milton R. Miller, a extremely interesting. One shows a po trait of Hoover and Curtis in blue, wit in a red frame, while a second cov shows similar portraits of Smith a Robinson.

Odd Booklets

Mr. Southgate writes that a few Go ernment booklets were recently note wherein a glassine paper between t stamps was used instead of the regul wax paper, which the Department h been using for many years. These a to be found on the 1-cent in the 25-ce and 97-cent booklets, and the combin tion of the 1-cent and 2-cent in the 7 cent booklets. Our correspondent a vises that they were turned into t regular stock, and will most likely sho up anywhere. We would like to be a vised of the location of any of the booklets in the several post offices.

Borissues.—The announcement that King Boris of Bulgaria is affianced to Princess Giovanna of Italy is, in effect, to prophesy new commemorative stamps, perhaps from both countries. Princess Giovanna is twenty-one and the third daughter of the King and Queen of Italy.—Stamp Collecting.

Czechoslovakia.—Whitfield King & Co. submit for note the new 1918-1928 Jubilee set of stamps. The series is a very attractive issue comprising a variety of subjects and of the following values and colors: 30h black, 40h brown, 50h green, 60h red-orange, 1kr red, 1kr20h lilac-brown, 2kr bright blue, 2kr50h dark blue, 3kr brown and 5kr lilac.

Dutch Indies.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us the three additional values of Air Post surcharges. They are the 20 on 25c mauve, 40 on 80c orange, 75 on 1G sepia, and 1½G on 2½G carmine-rose. All the overprints are in black, except the 75c on 1G sepia, which is in blue.

Italian Colonies.—The commemorative series in "honor" of the Italian African Society, will probably be on issue shortly. It comprises four denominations, viz. 20+10c, 30+10c, 50+10c, and L1.25+10c, for each of the four Colonies, i.e. Eritrea, Cyrenaica, Somalia and Tripolitania.—Stamp Collecting.

Jind.—Mr. R. Roberts informs us that he has received the 10R green and carmine, Nasik printing, surcharged "Service."

Liechtenstein.—Further details of Prince John Jubilee commemoratives, to be issued November 12th.—(1) Portrait of Prince John II, Lithographed, 100,000 sets. 10, 20, 30 and 60 rappen. (2) Double portrait of Prince John II, Line-engraved, 50,000 sets: Fr. 1.20, Fr. 1.50 and 2 francs. (3) As (2), but only 25,000: 5 francs. The stamps are to be on sale at the local post offices until January 31, 1929, and will remain valid until November 12th next year.—Stamp Collecting.

Newfoundland.—Copies of the 14c brown-lilac, type as the 9c of the same issue, have been received from Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co. The perforation is 14x14.

Patiala.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the following new items from this native state: ½a green, 4a olive and 2R carmine and orange, all Nasik printings.

Portugal.—Mr. R. Roberts has submitted for chronicle a new provisional. It is the 40c on 2c chocolate.

Roumania.—Copies of the Air Post stamps with the error of inscription have been received from Whitfield King & Co., and Mr. R. Roberts. The values are 1 leu brown, 2 leu blue and 5 leu rose-red. Each bears the name of the country at the top with "Posta Aeriana" at the bottom. In the centre is an airplane with the name "C-Raiu" at the end. Whitfield King & Co. also submit the Dobrogea set of seven values as follows: 1 leu green, 2 leu brown, 3 leu grey, 5 leu lilac, 7.50 leu bright blue, 10 leu blue and 20 leu red. Each stamp bears the dates "1878 1928," and are of four different types, the 1 leu and 3 leu, bearing two portraits, and the others being of pictorial designs.

BRITISH COLONIAL COLLECTION

I have just secured a nice collection of these stamps in eighteen albums. While it contains no very great rarities, it shows hundreds of good stamps, used and unused, in fine condition, and would make an excellent foundation for a first class collection. I should prefer to sell as a whole, and can make a close price for a quick sale. Lacking such a sale, I will sell the non-American portion by countries: or will fill want lists as far as the material goes.

SEEN AND HEARD

"YOUR letter of October 23, to the Postmaster General with reference to the two recent issues of surcharged postage stamps commemorating the anniversaries of the discovery of the Hawaiian Islands and the Battle of Monmouth, has been referred to this Office. Your views to the effect that commemorative stamps of this character are unsatisfactory to collectors have been noted, and will be taken into consideration should future requests be made to the Department for the issuance of other surcharged commemorative stamps."—R. S. Regar, Third Assistant Postmaster General, to J. M. Bartels.

THE Bridgeport (Ct.) Philatelic Club will hold a Stamp Exhibition and Junior Contest at the Public Library, Dec. 4 to 6. This will be the first exhibition held in Bridgeport in twenty years, and we look for a good attendance, as the interest here is keen, especially among the Junior Collectors.—FRED J. WILSON.

SPOKANE, Wash., dedicated Fancher Memorial Beacon on Armistice Day, Nov. 11, and a non-official cachet resulted. The beacon is pictured in purple. Cover from E. Strasser.

THE special ear of corn cancellation that has been used at the Fairfield, Iowa, post-office on registered mail has been ordered discontinued by the P. O. Department. We are indebted to F. A. Spielman for this information. As he suggests, this order probably sounds the death knell of all special registry cancellations.

WE are informed by Francis J. Field that the Dutch East Indies issued 20,000 of the 2½g stamps overprinted for the air service and surcharged 1½g.

A MUNICIPAL airport dedication took pace Nov. 12, at Davenport, Iowa, and we are indebted to F. H. Grace for a cover showing an attractive cachet in green. It is, of course, non-official.

ROGER HACKETT sends us an account of the philatelic contest recently held at Bosse School, Evansville, Ind., by the stamp club. 75 questions were used covering a wide range, and first prize was awarded Henry Ruley, with a percentage of 85. Robert Mueller was second with 69%, and Jack Slade third, with 67%. We may publish the set of questions later.

TRISTAN DA CUNHA

By "CALABAR".

Nowadays hardly anyone, it seems, takes any interest in the postal affairs of those few remaining out-of-the-way spots which, strangely enough, are still muddling through without benefit of stamps. The never-ceasing flood of new issues is of course largely responsible for this; it is a hard enough task to keep an eye on all the stamp-issuing Colonies, let alone the others—if, as some people will question, there are such places.

And there are, curious as it may seem. Lord Howe Id., for example; and Christmas Id., and that tiny islet in the Pacific—Pitcairn, whose first settlement was founded by a group of mutineers from the now-famous "Bounty." But the most interesting—and most isolated—of all the present "stampless" Colonies is Tristan da Cunha—a group of three islands lying midway between Cape Town and Buenos Ayres, in the vast wastes of the So. Atlantic. The principal island—Tristan—is about seven miles across and rises 7,640 feet above the sea, it being the crater of an extinct volcano. With ref. its past history, which is most interesting, Capt. A. E. Hopkins (Bath) writes:—

"Although discovered in 1506 by the Portuguese navigator from whom it takes its name, it was quite uninhabited until 1816. In that year a detachment of troops was sent over from Cape Town to garrison the island. It was feared that it might be used as a base by the French in possible attempts to rescue Napoleon from St. Helena, 1,200 miles to the north.

"When the garrison was removed a year later, one William Glass, a native of Kelso, Scotland, with two companions, asked to be allowed to stay behind. They were later joined by three others. All these men had fought under Nelson, or had done guard duty over Napoleon at St. Helena. One of them was a married man, and the others apparently envied his state. They accordingly commissioned a friendly skipper of a whaling vessel to fetch them wives from St. Helena. Some time later the whaler duly disembarked five ladies of colour, who had agreed to take pot luck in the marriage market. They were lined up on the beach and inspected, and each man picked his fancy. They were duly married, and lived happily ever after, so the story runs. From these five couples are descended the whole present-day population of 150."

Now as to its postal affairs. There are of course no stamps, and all letters from Tristan to the outside world are handed into the missionary (who is, amongst other things, the Postmaster) and, after being postmarked, are forwarded via whatever ship happens to call next. Two types of postmark are employed: one reading "Tristan da Cunha" in a double-lined circle, and the other "Tristan da Cunha—South Atlantic" in a single-lined circle. The latter is apparently the commoner of the two. These are both handstamps, of course, and are in purple or blue-black. The purple varies, however, and is almost black in some examples.

In England, postage due is usually collected on letters arriving there from Tristan, the amount collected normally being 1½d, though sometimes it is 2d and 3d. I have one cover, for example, which was stamped on arrival with the current English 2d postage due stamp (also with the "2d" postage due handstamp, in black). The cover shows, besides the Tristan pmk. in the upper right corner, the receiving pmk., which was used to cancel the postage due stamp.

I have also two covers bearing the "London Paquebot" cancellation, which consists of a small single-lined circle reading "London F. S." and the date, and five parallel wavy lines at the right, the centre one of which is broken and the word "Paquebot" inserted. (Both these are assessed 1½d postage due.) Two other covers which I have, and which were posted in 1926, show the usual "grid" postmark of the Foreign Branch, London. This pmk. is not found on later covers (at least, not on those I

1917-28 POSTAGE DUE STAMPS

The Postage Due stamps are amongst the most neglected of United States issues. These contain a wonderful variety of shades and form a most interesting study. The present issue has been in use for over ten years, during which many distinct shades and colors have been employed. These can be divided into six very distinct varieties. We list these below together with prices we can supply those in stock. These prices are for singles, blocks of four can be supplied at four times the single price where there is the letter "B" after the price, at six times where the letter "C" follows.

We can supply a good many of these varieties in plate blocks and also showing the 2mm and 3mm spacing at reasonable prices.

We shall be pleased to forward a specialised selection to interested parties.

have)—on these only the letters "F. B." (The letters are not always present, however.)

Covers are found, of course, franked with the current English 1½d stamps, as some people who have correspondents in Tristan send them out small supplies for use on their letters. I have one cover franked with a 1½d Great Britain, which bears, in addition to the Tristan pmk., the transit pmk. of Montevideo (both these being on the face), whilst on the reverse side is the receiving pmk. Covers are also known with the Port Elizabeth (transit) pmk., and there may be others also. I understand that covers are sometimes found franked with So. African stamps, but I have not seen any so used.

The present postal situation is well set forth in a petition, which was presented by the people of Tristan to the Home Government two or three years ago:—

"Petition from the Inhabitants of Tristan da Cunha respecting Letter and Parcel Mails to the Island to—

The Right Hon. The Secretary of State for the Colonies.

SIR,—We, the undersigned inhabitants of Tristan da Cunha, beg to call your attention and that of H. M. Government to the difficulty that this British Colony is placed in by the extreme infrequency of letter mails to this island. It is now two years since we received any mail, and about twelve months since we were able to despatch any letters or parcels.

The obvious reason of the mail difficulty is that the island lies off the main trade routes, so that few or no vessels can be induced to call in at the island. As this is the case, we are thrown upon our own very slender resources, and, whilst the island produces sufficient food to maintain life, yet our health suffers from the impossibility of obtaining a variety of food such as flour, rice, tea, or sugar.

We look to get all our stores from passing vessels, or more usually such as bring us the mail, and, in the absence of such, we suffer great hardships which press most heavily upon sick persons here.

We feel most chiefly the difficulty of obtaining flour for bread making, soap for washing, medical supplies, and clothing, all of which must come to us by mail; also paint and canvas to maintain our fishing boats. We can get none of these vital necessities without a regular mail.

We beg that when it is not possible for the Postmaster-General to fix an annual mail with some steamship company he may try and arrange that by favour of the Lords of the Admiralty a warship from the Cape Station or elsewhere may bring us our mail."

The following letter, which I received on 2nd April, last, may also be of interest:—

"Sir,—Your registered letter of 23.6.25 arrived on 27.3.27!

There are no stamps or money here, hence, if stamps were issued, no one here could buy them! By all means make suggestions to the Crown Agents. We need much help at Tristan. Get stamps for the isle, and if they are sent on letters from here (without penniless folk paying for them), the amount raised by the sale of them in other countries could be remitted here, after paying reasonable expenses, not in money, but in food in tins, clothes, candles, etc. People would send here for stamps after first sending payment as suggested above.

All success and thanks to you.

Yours truly,
(Signed), R. POOLEY,
and General Fac Totum!!

Please read 'The Lonely Island' by Mrs. Rogers."

The book referred to is "The Lonely Island," by Mrs. A. C. Rogers, and published by Geo. Allen & Unwin, Ltd., 40 Museum Street, W. C. 1. "The long intervals between mails at the island," she writes, "often extending over periods of two or three years, are the cause of great distress and inconvenience amongst the people. The natural resources of Tristan da Cunha are perhaps the most limited in the world; there is little arable land; internal communication over the island is extremely difficult; there is a struggle with rats and climatic conditions; the livestock has deteriorated and pasturage is poor. There is no trade opportunity for barter with ships. The people are not idle, but what can they do to better things without mails or regular outside assistance and supervision?"

Which brings us to the question: should Tristan da Cunha have its own postage stamps? The answer, in my opinion—and which is based on the above facts—is "yes," most decidedly. Since Barbuda and Ascension, whose inhabitants had no real need for stamps, were allowed them, why not Tristan? Stamps for the isle would be welcomed not only by collectors, to whom such issues have always a special appeal (as witness the Barbuda's, Ascension's, Kuwait's, Nauru's, etc.), but above all by the people of Tristan, whose plight is so simply testified to in the above excerpts. True, the stamps would be unobtainable locally-inasmuch, as Mr. Pooley points out, there is no money on the isle—but if sold under some such plan as he outlines in his letter, they would not be a whit more speculative, in my humble judgment, than the issues of many other Colonies whose stamps are sold wholesale in London. It is only a question of degree, from selling a part of an issue in London, to selling the entire issue there; and bearing in mind the charitable nature of such an issue, there is no reason why special stamps for Tristan should not be issued. What have readers to say?

ADDENDA

Since writing the above I learn that prior to 1921, the pmks. in use at Tristan were of a different type than those described in the above notes. Perhaps some reader can give us further details re. them?

With ref. the "transit" pmks., I understand that Mr. Percy A. Hill received a cover from Tristan, which was backstamped Singapore. As he says, "Evidently having been brough direct by some wandering whaler."

TWO NEW COMMEMORATIVES

RUSH YOUR ORDERS

Two new postage stamps will be issued in connection with the International Civil Aeronautics Conference, called by President Coolidge for December 12, 13, 14. The conference and stamps will be in commemoration of the first airplane flight, made by the Wright Brothers twenty-five years ago.

There will be two denominations, a two cent and a five cent. The two cent will show the famous Wright airplane and the five cent will bear a globe with a monoplane flying over it. The stamps will be large, the size of the special delivery, and striking in appearance.

You will certainly want some of these beautiful stamps. Because of their romantic interest they will appeal not only to collectors but to everyone. At the time of their issuance, the Aero conference and the anniversary of the airplane will be in the popular eye. You can get a lot of pleasure out of showing them to your friends.

Be among the first to have them. We will mail you a sheet (50 stamps) of the 2c and a sheet of the 5c, for only $5.25. These will be mailed on the morning of the day of issue, special delivery.

For $1.00 we will mail you first day (December 12th) covers of both stamps, together with unused singles of both. The cover of the 2c will be a plain envelope, that of the 5c an air mail envelope, so that you have one cover by regular mail and one by air mail. These covers will be mailed at the special post office which the Postmaster General has ordered placed in the U. S. Chamber of Commerce Building, headquarters of the Conference, for the three days of the conference. A special cancellation die will be used. Covers will be sent direct to you.

For $1.00 additional, covers of the 2c and 5c will be mailed at the Aero Conference post office on the 13th and 14th also, thus giving you the complete "coverage" of the Conference.

Unused blocks of four and unused singles of both stamps, 10 stamps in all, will be supplied for $1.00.

Ten unused copies of each stamp, 20 stamps in all, will be sent for $1.50.

oneer Air Mail Says Rockport, Ind.

(Evansville "Press"—R. C. Hackett.)

ROCKPORT, Ind., Nov. 27.—Direct air ril service, speeding letters and parcels t their destination at the rate of 100 rles an hour, might be a big thrill for t cities, but it's just another yawn to ckport residents.

'Humph! We had air mail service 16 yrs ago. It's old stuff to us," they'll t you.

And more than one Spencer county rident can dig into his box of souvenirs c pull out a dusty album and point to cds bearing a special stamp, "Mailed i the Air."

n August, 1912, one of the first air nil lines of history was established in ncer county by special order of Postnster General Hitchcock.

The line wasn't very long—it only gre service between the fairgrounds and t Rockport postoffice. And it wasn't lg-lived—only for the four days of the fr, Aug. 20 to 24.

But it wasn't any play air line, either. I was part of the experiment with airlis being made by the postoffice dptment of the United States. And its lile success was a step in the establishnnt of the network of mail air lines of tday.

Congressman Lieb appealed to Postnster General Hitchcock and the official athorized the line. Horace Kearney pted the plane, the first that many ncer countians had seen, and the serve went on for the four days without a itch.

A sub-station of the Rockport postice was established on the fairgrounds. It was a tent, with a counter, where stmps were sold and letters received at sent out by the air mail.

There was no extra cost—regular two-cet stamps were the only postage reired. Most of the cards and letters we sent by fairgoers to themselves to ccept as souvenirs.

t might not have been much of a line, Rckport residents will admit, but don't r to tell them anything about getting ai mail service—they knew about that n912.

NEWFOUNDLAND BOOKLETS, 1926

By HARRY E. HUBER.

In his report (dated February 10, 1927), for the year ended June 30, 1926, the Minister of Posts & Telegraphs of Newfoundland (W. J. Woodford), writes—

"We had prepared 10,000 books of stamps containing 40c worth of stamps in each, as stamps made up in this way are found convenient and safe to carry by travelers, lumbermen and fishermen. The books contain Postal and Telegraph information, and the advertisements pay for the cost of production."

The booklets, issued on August 15, 1926, contain eight 1c green (Twin Hills, Tor's Cove), and sixteen 2c carmine (Southwest Arm, Trinity) pictorial stamps of the July 9, 1923, pictorial series, in panes of eight (2 horizontal by 4 vertical). The stamps are comb perforated 13½x14, and have a narrow margin at the top (or bottom) of the pane, through which wire staples pass and secure the small sheets of stamps, with five interleaving sheets (white) of advertisements between pink covers. All letter press is in black. One of the advertisements reads—"These stamps are one of the productions of Whitehead Morris, Limited, Contractors for engraving, printing and stationery of every description. London. Agent for Newfoundland, W. J. Edgar, St. John's."

As both the 1c and 2c stamps are horizontal rectangular in shape, the panes are inserted between the covers (pink), sideways, with the top to the left or right. The booklet panes are made from regular 100 stamp sheets; i. e., the upper four, and the lower four horizontal rows, the 5th and 6th rows being discarded. The five panes (of eight stamps each) from the top of the sheet, have the margin at the top, and those from the bottom of the sheet, have the margin at the bottom.

The booklets bear no indication on the outside cover as to their official character, or what they contain, and both the front and back of the cover bear advertising matter of Ayre & Sons, Ltd., a large mail order house on Water Street, in St. John's. Inside, however, on the cover, at the front, are "Rates of Postage from Newfoundland," and at the back "Newfoundland Postal Telegraph" information.

The booklets measure 71x49mm, which is the size of a pane of six stamps (2 horizontal by 3 vertical), sideways, with margin, the other horizontal pair (of the pane of eight), being folded over. The booklets are sold at face, 40c, and were still obtainable when I was in St. John's the latter part of September, 1928.

August 15, 1926. Stamp booklets (10,000) containing 8-1c green, and 16-2c carmine (in panes of 8), of pictorial series of July 9, 1923. Engraved and printed by Whitehead Morris, Ltd., London, England. Unwatermarked. Comb perforated 13½x14. Pink cover (black letter press).

Molly Pitchers Are Not Acceptable

(Red Bank [N. J.] "Register"—T. I. Brown.)

When the United States government issued the Molly Pitcher postage stamps a short time ago, Ensley E. Rogers of Branch Avenue, assistant postmaster at the Red Bank postoffice, who had read that the King of England was a stamp collector, sent a block of the Molly Pitcher stamps to the King. Mr. Rogers does not class himself as a collector; but having just read about the King of England's collection the thought the King might be interested in getting some of the Molly Pitcher stamps before the issue was exhausted.

Mr. Rogers did not have in mind at the time he sent the Molly Pitcher stamps across the seas that they were commemorative of a victory of the American army here in Monmouth county during the Revolutionary war, or he might have hesitated about sending the stamps; but he had heard so much from local stamp collectors about their wish to possess transient issues of stamps that he felt only a desire that a great English collector of stamps might have copies of the stamps relating to the county of Monmouth, in New Jersey, which was named after the county of Monmouth in England.

However that may be, Mr. Rogers got back last week the Molly Pitcher stamps which he had sent to the King of England. Accompanying the stamps was this courteous letter from the King's private secretary:

BUCKINGHAM PALACE.

The Private Secretary is commanded to thank Mr. Ensley E. Rogers for his letter of the 20th October, and for the stamps which he was so kind as to offer for the King's acceptance, but as His Majesty only collects stamps of the British Empire, the stamps are returned to Mr. Rogers herewith.

1st November, 1928.

Want Lists and Enquiries for Anything in British Colonials Solicited

I invite you to compare the above prices with those quoted anywhere, and you should not lose sight of the fact that these stamps are fresh, beautiful copies—all well centered unless otherwise stated. I do not sell "shop-worn" copies with layers of hinges at the back of them. My stamps are just the kind which the present-day discriminating collector wants—the kind of stamps that bring top prices when you again come to sell.

My stock is a real stock—not a job lot of odds and ends. Never was as valuable a stock of modern British Colonials built up either in this country or abroad—indeed, my stock of twentieth century British Colonials alone rank among the few really great stamp stocks in the world, and this in spite of the fact that these others include all countries.

Regardless of whether you are looking for a low priced or medium stamp—or a rarity, you will do well by getting in touch with me. I have always a wonderful lot of great rarities, ultra-high values, blocks, etc., on hand, and few, if any, foreign dealers handle as many outstanding modern British Colonial rarities as I do.

12½% British Empire New Issue Service---Prospectus on request

This is a real New Issue Service—run on a business-like basis. Just as my stock is easily the outstanding stock of its kind—this Service is second to none, and is now generally considered the leading British Colonial New Issue Service in this country.

SPECIAL

I have for sale a few mint sets of the rare PHILIPPINES AIR-MAIL stamps, Scott's #305-318 (not including #310a). These are offered at $100.00 per set as long as the supply lasts. This is anywhere from $25.00 to $50.00 below other quotations.

BEST AND CHEAPEST YET
UNITED STATES POSTAGE STAMPS

I have just been rearranging the whole of my summer purchase of United States stamps in a series of new books mounted to suit the requirement of the middle class collector as well as of the advanced specialist. These books are priced at very reasonable prices, mostly based on original cost, and largely ignoring catalogue.

I should be very happy to send any of them that are available to clients known to me or after the usual business references.

The following books are now ready. Let me know which issues you wish to see, when writing.

Book 1. 1847, 5c, 3 unused and in used 2 pairs, and about 25 singles.
10c, I have a pair and 15 singles, among these being the big double transfer in the word "Post Office".
" 2. 1851-56, 1c and 3c, in singles and pairs. The cheaper varieties.
" 3. 1851-56, 3c, 5c, 10c and 12c. Scarcer varieties and unusual items, such as in the 3c line through "three cents" on cover. 3c two positions of the cracked plate.
5c vertical strip of three, superb horizontal pair and several singles.
10c and 12c, a number of fine pairs.
" 4. 1851-56, 3c, 5c, 10c and 12c and
1857-60, 1c, cheaper varieties only.
" 5. 1857-60, 1c to 24c, scarce varieties in singles, pairs and strips.

" 8. 1857-62, Unused and scarce used. This book includes several fine blocks and a few plate numbers and imprints.
" 9. 1862-68, Unused and special used, the scarcer varieties. This book also includes a fine series in immaculate condition of the re-issues of 1875.
" 10. 1869, Unused and used, including some scarce imprints.
" 11. 1870-73, Unused only, including scarce strips with imprint and rare varieties.
" 12. 1873-82, Unused only, including a number of strips with imprint.
" 13. 1882-83, Unused only, many strips with imprint and some very rare items, one of the choicest being a strip of six of the 2c red-brown, special printing of 1882. This strip has the top margin and the middle pair of stamps is imperf. between vertically, probably unique in this condition.
" 14. 1873-88, Used stamps, including many scarce varieties.
" 15. 1870-73, All used, including many very scarce varieties.
The following three books contain rarities only:

Local Society May Give Bronze Table

(White Plains "Reporter"—Dr. J. S. Parker

At a meeting of the Westchester Cou ty, N. Y., Chapter of the American Phi atelic Society held Nov. 16, at the Cit Club, it was suggested that the War painting of the Battle of White Plain be reproduced in bronze and be place in some public place, preferably, the ne Post Office.

It will be recalled that the picture i question is the one that was painted b Edmund F. Ward, of Gedney Farm, an was used as the model for the Sesqui centennial Stamp commemorating th Battle of White Plains, on October 2 1776. This two cent stamp was put i circulation by the government in 192 and was, and still is, of great interest t citizens of this city.

The picture shows a gun crew o four privates in action, representing par of Alexander Hamilton's battery, in th Battle of White Plains. Major Alber W. Draves, formerly professor of Amer ican History at the United States Mili tary Academy at West Point, referring t the picture said that it was absolutel correct from a military standpoint, an that it portrays faithfully the spirit o the situation and the intensity of th action.

Another interesting thing about th picture and the stamp is that it is th first time that private soldiers have ever been featured on any stamp. Usuall nothing less than a general is used as the feature, but in this case, the four private compose the entire group.

Several paintings were made by various artists in the vicinity, and the one made by Mr. Ward was finally chosen as the most representative of them all.

Stamp collectors, and philatelic societies all over the world are unanimous in their belief that this White Plains stamp is one of the ten most beautiful stamps in the world.

Twenty-five members of the county chapter attended the meeting and took part in the discussion of the proposed tablet. The next meeting of the society will be held on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, December 15th, at the home of the president, K. N. Woodward, Brevort Road, Chappaqua.

Waterbury Club Has A Memorable Meet

By REV. A. T. GESNER.

The 150th meeting of the Waterbury (Ct.) Stamp Club held on the evening of November 20, was made memorable by the reception of a party of distinguished philatelists representing the Collectors Club of New York City. After a dinner served at the Country Club to the visiting guests, the Club gathered in the Guild room of All Souls' Episcopal Church, where each of the visitors, after a brief introductory talk, presented for view the fine things he had brought with him.

Sidney F. Barrett showed a portion of the great Hawkins Collection of United States Stamps, which contains, as is well known, a wealth of rare 19th Century early issues of great value, in immaculate condition. Farrar H. Tows had a nice little selection from his famous Hawaiian Collection, which was worth a long journey to look at. Charles Curie, the well-known general collector of 19th century stamps, brought a big book with pages filled from top to bottom with the stamps of nearly every nation under heaven.

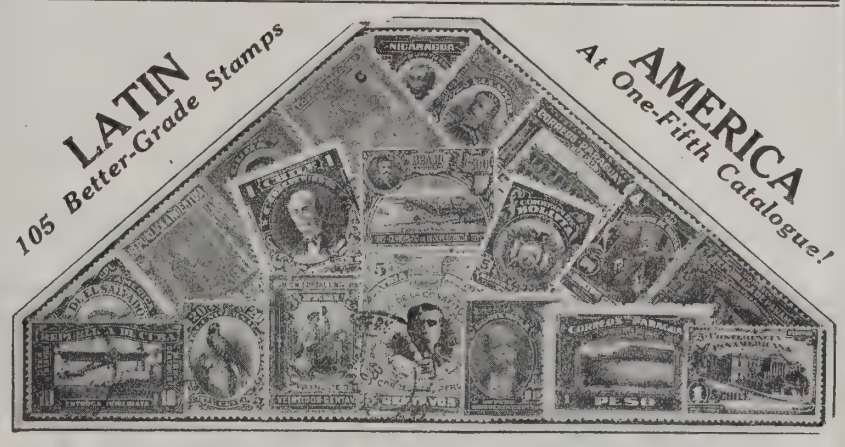
Harry Linquist, President of the Collectors Club, had an amazing display of Norway stamps of every denomination, shade and variety, punctuated with pairs, blocks and splits to a degree that made some members "see stars." J. M. Bartels, one of the philatelic deans of Nassau St., brought with him his prize winning collection of Denmark stamps, which has been decorated at exhibitions both at home and abroad. Elliott Perry exhibited by "himself" a most fascinating collection of Sanitary Commission stamps, recalling the period of the Civil War.

Charles J. Phillips, chairman of the delegation, modestly concluded the Exhibition by a display of a considerable portion of the famous collection of stamps of Afganistan, gathered by Sir David Mason during his journeys of research in that land, and which has now found a temporary resting place in one of Mr. Phillips' burglar-proof safes. At the conclusion of the Exhibit, Mr. Phillips spoke a few words of the work that the Collectors Club is endeavoring to do, and invited those present, who were not already members, to join the Collectors Club and share in the privileges of the Clubs' great library, and receive the Society's ably edited quarterly review. On February 6, the Waterbury Stamp Club will send a delegation of its members to meet with the Collectors Club in New York.

F. J. JACKSON AGAIN WITH US

This week Frederick J. Jackson of Dos Rios, Cal., returns to our advertising columns after an absence of many months. Mr. Jackson is now located out in the country, where he is having his share of trouble, although he is very much of an optimist. We take the liberty of quoting a few sentences showing some of the difficulties under which he is laboring:—

"For a couple of years I have been homesteading 640 acres of stockraising land in the mountains of Mendocino county, Calif.,—and so far from civilization that if this were in the old days I would have to grease the axles twice every time I went to town. They haven't even heard of Rural Free Delivery up here. I built a mile of private auto road over my private set of Alps, up from the atrocity known as a county road. I thought that this county road was just about the world's worst road. I was wrong. My private road was worse, after a couple of snows melted off and softened it. Then a few assorted landslides obliterated in spots all trace of the insult that I had fondly hoped was a road, but I got it open again in the gentle spring. It was a fine summer road, if you had the nerve and confidence to try it with a car. A narrow shelf along a cliff, in some places. I now hope to keep it open for auto travel all winter—which is the height of optimism."



105 different better-grade stamps from the well-liked countries of Latin America—Costa Rica, Panama, Haiti, Uruguay, Bolivia, Paraguay, etc.—at less than one-fifth catalogue!

Replete with high values, commemoratives, pictorials, and other hard-to-get stamps. Notable for the total exclusion of Seebecks and stamps of doubtful value, as well as cheaper varieties that catalogue less than 5 cents.

THE TOTAL CATALOGUE VALUE EXCEEDS $12.50, all in fine conditioned stamps. Exchangers and dealers, as well as collectors, will find this Latin America lot an exceptional bargain, for it can be readily resold at half-catalogue.

THE CATALOGUE OF NORWAY

By ELIAS RASMUSSEN.

Again comes the annual event of the arrival of Scott's catalogue; and as usual I have perused the interesting volume. Specializing in Norway, I am of course, most interested in what has been done to that country. Scott is improving, even though the most important and necessary change has not taken place, giving the 20 and 21mm stamps their individual catalogue rank, as separate stamps and issues. Scott will have to come to this in order to catalogue Norway intelligently and fairly. The best plan would be to follow "Norges Frimarken 1855-1924," by Dethloff-Anderssen, whose catalogue is complete and accurate.

There are other changes that would improve the list. I think the small N variety of No. 44, which was given place in Senf many years ago, is worthy of attention much more than the "no period" variety. This stamp was used in 500,000 copies, and this little N variety occurs only once out of 200 impressions, making it very rare. It was catalogued in Senf, 1907, at 25 marks, unused, and 6 marks used. In Senf of 1925, the price is 25 marks used and unused, while the ordinary variety is only 1.25 marks. Another stamp that deserves catalogue recognition is the 5 ore moss green, perf. 12½. It is catalogued in "Norges Frimarken," and would be 36a. There are but twelve copies known of this stamp, but I have owned three of them myself, and so know that it exists!

Regarding the price changes, we want to compliment Scott. Even though the increase in Norway, No. 4, is not as great as it deserves to be, still I am glad to see my pet stamp get some recognition. The dealers have been out of this stamp practically for some time. If there was any fear that someone would corner No. 4, if the catalogue value was increased, it was silly; it would be easier to corner a stamp at 10c than at 50c or a dollar. Anyway, this old classic, aged 72 years with an issue of only ten million in a time when there were few collectors, is now beginning to climb, and those who laughed at my prediction that some day this stamp will be worth a dollar will please remember that sometimes he who laughs last, laughs best. The trouble is that most collectors believe as I do, and they keep their No. 4's, judging them to have a good future,—and they are going to.

No. 3 received a just increase; it is worth $2.25 used. I am glad that No. 1 remained at $4.50, as it is too high now. The price for it in Norway right now is 8 to 10 kroner retail. It is interesting to see that No. 15 is now $1. The fact is that it is a scarce stamp, more so than No. 9. The paper of No. 15 was so poor that one will find a very large percentage more or less torn. The increase in price of No. 21 is a sensible one, to 85 cents unused. The remainder of this issue was used for No. 72, and thus, No. 21 is much scarcer unused than used. The price could have been put to one dollar. The fact is that Norway stamps are usually much scarcer in unused than in used condition. The only exception to this rule may be in the case of blocks which often are rarer in used than in unused condition, especially in the ore stamps before 1890.

We wonder if the cataloguers are aware of the fact that the actual issue of the 1 krone, 1878, No. 32, was only 697,200; of No. 33, the 1½k 1878, only 216,100 and of the 2k 1878, only 277,600. The reason for this small issue was that in 1915, the government of Norway burned all the remainders, as follows: 1k, 350,700; 1½k, 836,700 and 2k, 745,100 stamps. Norway, No. 38, issued five years later than No. 33, had an issue of 200,000 stamps, and is catalogued today at $20 unused, and $10 used. Nearly everyone knows that you see very many more of this stamp used than unused, and the catalogue price does not show the relative scarcity of used and unused in this instance.

The most neglected stamp is No. 39, the 12 öre yellow-brown. In 1895, No. 38 was catalogued by Senf at 1.50 marks unused, and 1mk used; and No. 39 was then priced at 1mk unused and 75mk used. Norway, No. 1, was only 40mk used. In 1905, Senf priced No. 38 used at 4.50 mk, and No. 39, 1.75mk, used and 1.25mk used. If we then knew that the total issue of this stamp was only 395,000, it follows that this stamp deserves more attention. There are few enough of the used stamps, but the unused are about a hundred times as scarce. No. 39 is certainly a good stamp.

No. 79 has taken another jump from $5 to $7 unused, and from $2 to $3.50 used. It is still too low. Only 51,000 were issued. The stamps were badly perforated, and it is hard to find a decent copy. I hold that No. 79 is harder to find and rarer than No. 80; it deserves attention. However, No. 80 is scarcer used than unused. Even No. 81, which is only 20c used, is not such a poor stamp, as it was issued to the number of only 273,000, which is not large in later times. Of the later issues, keep an eye on No. 107. It is a real stamp and has advanced; it was in use for a few months only. No. 135 is worth more than No. 114. No. 136 will be better than 107, as it was used only a month or so before it became obsolete, and superseded by the 20 öre of the same color, No. 145. No. 136 was printed late in August, 1927, and No. 145 had taken its place in October, 1927. The 40 öre dull blue was replaced by No. 148 slate, in almost an identical way. In the later issues the stamps that I think will advance rapidly are Nos. 107, 115, 117, 130, 136, 138, 142, 143 and 144.

COLLECTION OF UNITED STATES STAMPS

One of our clients who needs money quickly has asked us to dispose of his collection, which is neatly mounted in a national album. The collection contains about 750 varieties, well balanced in postage, departments and revenues, no envelopes or telegraphs. The catalogue value of stamps in good condition, damaged not counted, will run well over $1200.00 (guaranteed) and our special net price is only $375.00 net.

We notice among others the following good stamps: 5c 1847 (fine unused), Nos. 46, 47, 48, 52, 53, 5c buff No. 67, 90c blue No. 72, 24c grill No. 99, 1869 issue to 90c complete, the bank notes without grill complete except 2 stamps, Columbian set to $1.00 mint, 1898 Trans-Mississippi complete to $2.00, 20th century commemoratives complete mostly mint, Department of Justice to 12c, Navy to 30c, Post Office complete, fine state departments, many nice revenues, etc.

A wonderful opportunity for the person just starting with U. S. collecting, or for a small dealer to break up. It would cost at least double to duplicate this fine lot. Would make a fine Christmas present for a friend. Sold under our money back guarantee for only $375.00 NET CASH.

EDITORIAL

IT is somewhat amusing to witness the critics of the recent U. S. surcharges going through their exercises; and we cannot enter with real enthusiasm into their campaign of more or less polite objurgation. In our opinion, there is an incongruity between the Hawaiians and the Molly Pitcher commemoratives and the events they celebrate, but that belief is not sufficient to justify the uncorking of the vials of wrath on the luckless issues. While we may say that we do not quite feel that some of our correspondents are entitled to speak as harshly as they do, we assure all who have written on the subject of the Hawaiians, and particularly, the Molly Pitcher issue, that their letters are scanned with interest. While speaking of U. S. commemoratives, we shall reprint the following criticism of "U. S. A.: Utterly Speculative Abortions" that appeared in Gibbons Stamp Weekly of April 27, 1907: "The great and mighty republic is at it again. There are to be more speculative show labels for milking stamp collectors. This time it is to be a series for the Jamestown Exposition of 1907. This local show rubbish is increasing at such a pace that it would soon outstrip the ordinary postal series of the United States. By and by, we may expect a Chicago Tinned Meat series." By this time, our editorial friend's reason must have tottered on its throne. Incidentally, that 5c Jamestown is about as good a stamp as there is in the catalogue, and if anybody tried to organize a movement for a Tinned Meat series in Chicago, the sponsor would fall to earth, he'd know not where. Mr. Michael Miller, Baltimore, sent in this echo of the past.

MR. E. O. HOWLE, Chicago, has shown us a buying list of U. S. stamps that was copyrighted in 1899, and bears on the front page the following description: "Price 25 cents. The Philatelic Stamp Value Book. Compiled from Standard Authorities Containing Values of Hundreds of Rare Stamps Wanted by Collectors." Overleaf is the explanation in answer to the question, "Who buys rare stamps?" that dealers in the large cities, some of whom are named, do so; and that by consulting the directories of the different cities, other dealers may be found. It looks as though this verbally pretentious, but actually ridiculously inadequate list is an unfinished job, since it consists of a single page on which relatively few prices appear, and then only up to the 1862-66 issue. Here are some of the prices "by the hundred" that are appended to certain of the stamps. Brattleboro, $50 a hundred; Baltimore, 5c and Millbury, each $50 a hundred, while the New Haven drops to $10 a hundred, which is the same quotation on the St. Louis, 10c. The 5c St. Louis emerges at $25 a hundred, and the highest price in the book is given to the 25c St. Louis (sic!) at $250 a hundred. The 5c of '47 is named at the comparatively high figure of ten dollars a hundred, and the 1c of 1851, the imperforate (shades of Ashbrook) has the buying price of one dollar a hundred. Other stamps are given at proportionately liberal prices, revised downward. The leaflet is a curiosity certainly of philatelic literature, and whether it was ever circulated, we cannot say, but at any rate the compiler was off to a poor start with a poor mount.

A CHICAGO postal employee, Mr. U. L. Johnson, writes to tell of the first day's service on the air route, Chicago to Evansville, Indiana. He says the mail was the heaviest ever transported on an air route out of Chicago, distances considered, and that the four cities on the route contributed nearly fifty thousand pieces. The poundage of mail was reported as follows: out of Chicago, 172 pounds; Evansville, 161 pounds; Champaign, Ill., 222 pounds, and Terre Haute, 110 pounds. After December 1st, this Chicago-Atlanta route will be extended to Atlanta, Ga., with stops at Nashville and Chattanooga, Tenn. Mr. H. A. Meyer sent us covers on the first flight from Evansville, Ind., and Messrs. E. G. Young and L. L. Steimley from Champaign, Ill.

IN the 1924 catalogue, under Sweden, 1855, No. 1a, appeared for the first time, as 3s orange (error); and in the recent catalogue, it is priced at $9,000 in used condition. In the Chicago Abendpost of November 14th, there appeared an interesting history of this rarity, which has been translated for us by Mr. Joseph Goder: "One of the most valuable stamps in the world is the yellow three skilling stamp of Sweden, which is an error, since the color should be green. Engineer C. A. Tamm sold the copy to John Ramberg, notary at Goteborg, for 37,000 Swedish kroners, about $10,000. The history of the stamp is as follows: in 1885, a fourteen-year-old school-boy, G. W. Backmann, found the stamp while searching for specimens in old correspondence at his grandfather's place in the country. He offered his find to a dealer in Stockholm, who, on examination, shook his head, saying that the stamp was yellow instead of green, but he paid the boy the price of the normal copy at that time. Soon, it was reported in the paper that Lichtenstein, the great European collector, had shown the stamp at an exhibition as one of his great rarities. In 1894, Lichtenstein sold the copy to Friedl in Vienna. Later, it came into the collection of Ferrary, Paris, and in the German Postal Museum. In 1922, the stamp was sold to Sweden for the sum of 35,200 francs." While this story may not be absolutely correct in all its details, it is something to find news of the kind in this old German newspaper.

FROM Mr. Jos. L. Regensburger, Albuquerque, N. M., we have received a registered letter, the stamps on which have received the impression of a special "killer" that takes the form of the "thunderbird," which is "the Indian symbol of the sacred bearer of happiness." He adds: "From to-day, the cancellation will be used on all registered mail at this office." However, it is possible that this piece of Indian ornithological symbolism will not flap its wings for any great period of time, in view of certain rumblings from Washington.

THE Associated Press recently told in a despatch that the assistant postmaster at Red Bank, New Jersey, sent specimens of the Molly Pitcher stamps to King George for the royal stamp collection. In due course, a letter came from the private secretary of the king with a polite declination to accept the stamps, inasmuch as King George collects the issue of the British empire only. The newspaper treatment of the story was varied, and judging from some of the head-lines, there was an editorial disposition to associate the refusal of the stamps to the subject that they extol, since Molly Pitcher replaced her husband, a sergeant in the Continental army, who fell in the battle of Monmouth, and served the cannon, thereby immortalizing her bravery. We refuse to impute any subtle motive to the action of the royal collector, who, as is well known, gives his collecting attention to the stamps of his own domains.

WITH regret, we announce the death of Godfrey Schirmer, Denver, Colorado, on November 15th, at the age of sixty-five years. Mr. Schirmer's interest in philately was of no ordinary kind, and we remember how he asked for our assistance in preparing a talk on stamps for use over the radio. His collection has not been described to us, but it is reasonable to say that it contained good stamps. Mr. Schirmer was the German consul for Colorado, and was highly esteemed in financial circles, having been president of the American National Bank at the time of his death, as well as a director in various other enterprises. Too, he was a real philanthropist, and his death deprives philately of a friend, and the world of a useful citizen.

MR. G. VAN DE KIEFT, New York, writes: "I received on the regular mail on November 14, the 1928, Netherlands, No. 190, changed in color to No. 191, which means that No. 191, ultramarine will have to be changed, also. The rate on the regular mail seems to have been changed from 15c to 12½c."

U. S. LOCALS

Stamps of the Local posts and independent mail routes occupy an important niche in American philately, and no stamp collection pretending to reveal a comprehensive history of postal adhesives used in the United States can be considered complete without specimens of some of them.
The earliest stamped postage paper—predecessor of the government stamped envelopes of 1853 and later—was used in the district of Northern Liberties (Philadelphia) several years before the Mulready envelopes and Penny Black adhesives of Great Britain were even printed.
Philadelphia competes with New York City for the honor of having used the first adhesive postage stamp issued in the Western Hemisphere. Nine or ten years after the first adhesives of Blood's Dispatch were issued, they were used as a model for the first issue of British Guiana—the circular stamps of 1850. Several stamps of the independent posts are fully as rare as the famous British Guiana 1c of 1856 and are much rarer than the "Post Office" Mauritius, early Moldavias, Reunion and other famous rarities.
I own and offer to my customers some of the rarest local post stamps (mostly on covers) at prices which are only a fraction of the values placed on well known rarities of the world referred to. Only one, two or three specimens of some of these are known to exist. Of course I have many of the medium or lower priced stamps, also.

Air Mail News

BY FREDERICK D. MARKEE,
40 Wilshire Park, Needham, Mass.

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Markee and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

Here is some bad news. The Pan American Airways, Inc., advise that they will NOT apply any cachets, or handle mail for collectors over the West Indian, Cuban and Porto Rican routes. This word comes direct to me from the General Traffic Manager, who states that, while the Company regrets that it cannot help collectors out, the task would be beyond their facilities to handle. It looks as if we will have to depend on the local postal authorities to come to our assistance.

The Amarillo, Tex., Board of City Development has sent notification to collectors that their covers will be held for a short time pending the completion of the Airport, possibly during December. Evidently a cachet will be applied, so get your covers down there quickly.

Clipping from Chicago paper states that another Mexican route is being considered. The proposed route will be from Los Angeles to Nogales, Hermosillo, Culican, Mazatlan, Tepic, Guadalajara, Queretaro and Mexico City. Courtesy of Mr. D. Abernathy.

The Postal Bulletin of November 17th does not include Louisville as a landing point on CAM No. 30, which begins operations on December 1st. Our item of last week stated that Louisville would be connected up with St. Louis, which was not the true fact. Information was taken from a Chicago paper, which led to the error.

Louisville, Ky., applied a three-line cachet to mail carried on the First Night flight on CAM 16. The cachet reads: "First Night Flight—CAM 16, Nov. 12, 1928—Louisville to Cleveland." As covers sent to the Postmaster at Louisville bear this cachet, we believe that it is OFFICIAL.

Covers from the First Flight U. S.-Germany via "Graf Zeppelin" have been received back in this country and make very welcome additions to these Trans-Atlantic hops. The cachet was carefully applied both at New York and Lakehurst, and my covers are exceptionally clean and give the appearance of having been handled with respect to their collective value.

For the information of readers who sent covers to Mr. Henry O. Meisel, to be given motorcycle service on Nov. 12th, Mr. Meisel writes that the large cachet on the covers was applied by the Chamber of Commerce and the small one, reading "Nov. 11th, 1918—Armistice Day—Nov. 11th, 1928", was applied by himself at the time he autographed the covers. Mr. Meisel acted as "pilot" and carried the mail himself to Green Bay, Wis. NOT OFFICIAL.

Davenport, Ia., dedicated an Airport on Nov. 12th and a cachet was applied to 2952 pieces of mail on that date. Mr. Frank H. Grace states that this mail was received from 519 collectors, residing in 258 different cities, located in 42 states and provinces—ample evidence that Airport dedications are popular affairs to the minds of a FEW collectors! I thank Mr. Allen P. Harding for information on this dedication, also. NOT OFFICIAL.

The Albany, N. Y., "Times-Union" of Nov. 7th carried a fine piece of publicity for Air Mail cover collecting, through the efforts of Mr. Chas. G. Riess of that city. The article pictured Mr. Riess holding a cover that had been carried by Air Mail from Mexico City to Montreal and back to Albany, a map of the routes covered by the letter and a close-up of the cover. The story occupied a prominent place in the paper and was a nice piece of work. Mr. Riess is to be congratulated for his efforts.

The election must have interfered with a lot of my co-operators' work! Look at the list this week! The star indicates a cover received from some point, kindness of the co-operator*—Jesse E. Baker, Anna M. Schafer*, Donald E. Dickason*, Erwin Strasser*, Claude W. Parker, Boleslaus Jarzembowski, Clarence Montgomery, Geo. T. Bush, Henry O. Meisel*, F. O. Nelson*, Glenn M. Kidder, Frank H. Grace, D. Abernathy, Carroll L. Weber*, R. M. Hayes*, Wilfred T. Foster*, Burt Williams*, O. H. Phinney*, Frank W. Wright*, Allen P. Harding, Wm. H. Conkling*, Dr. Jos. H. Beattie, Albert N. Brown.

Dr. Beattie sends a clipping that is well worth giving here. "Astonished farmers of Bradford, Conn., saw an airplane swoop out of the fog and land in the stubble of an oat field. The pilot jumped out, brisk enough, and asked, 'Where's Cleveland?' 'He's dead!' replied a farmer. 'No, no,' replied the pilot, 'I'm an air mail pilot out of Hadley Field, N. J., for Cleveland, Ohio, and how far from Cleveland am I?' When he found out, it was his time to be astonished. He had been flying eight or nine hours in the fog and through some mishap to his compass, had been flying east instead of west."

A small sketch of Butte, Mont., was incorporated in a cachet applied to Air Mail on Nov. 12th at the official opening of the Butte Airport. Cachet reads: "Official Opening—Butte Airport—Nov. 12th". NOT OFFICIAL.

The American Legion Airport at Connellsville, Pa., was also dedicated Nov. 12th. The American Eagle has a prominent place in the cachet applied to Air Mail, together with the place, date and particulars of the dedication.

Springfield, Ill., celebrated the convention of the 33rd Division War Veteran's Association on Nov. 17th, and the Chamber of Commerce applied a cachet to Air Mail. Cachet is in the form of a white cross in the centre of a circle, the circle being solid and carrying the words "33rd Division—War Veterans Association." Over the circle, "Chamber of Commerce Welcomes"; under the circle, "Convention—Nov. 17th, 1928—Springfield, Ill." Courtesy of Mr. Wm. H. Conkling. NOT OFFICIAL.

Mr. Geo. T. Bush sends a sketch of the cachet that will be applied to Air Mail on December 18th, by the Bellefonte, Pa., Kiwanis and Associated Clubs. Collectors desiring this cachet applied to covers on that date, the tenth anniversary of Air Mail at Bellefonte, may send their covers, ready for mailing to Mr. Bush, care of the Bellefonte Kiwanis Club.

Antonito, Colo., dedicated an Airport on Nov. 13th, but no cachet appears on covers received from that point.  Here are three possible chances for cachets—McAlester, Okl., Shawnee, Okl., Matamoras, Pa. They may be "pulled off" any day, so send your covers along.  An additional service on CAM 16 between Cleveland and Akron went into effect on Nov. 15th. No cachet was used, I believe.  Claude W. Parker reports that a special cachet was used at Ranger, Tex., for the dedication of the Airport on Nov. 10th. The Chamber of Commerce made the application. NOT OFFICIAL.

Flint and Pontiac, Mich., will be added to CAM 27 on December 1st, as forecast a couple of weeks ago. Pontiac becomes a terminal of the Chicago-Detroit leg, while Flint will be included in the Bay City leg.

The Canadian Postal Authorities announce the beginning of an Air Mail service between Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Edmonton and Saskatoon and return on December 10th. The service will continue over the holidays, ending on Dec. 29th. Special cachets will be applied at the various terminals and the mail will be handled about as the recent Toronto—east and west flights. December 10th, the plane will leave Winnipeg at 9.15 A. M., fly to Regina, and relays will be used on to Calgary, Saskatoon and Edmonton. The return trip is scheduled to leave Edmonton at 7.00 A. M., arriving in Winnipeg at 4.15 P. M., in time to connect with east and south bound trains. If you contemplate following this through, handle your covers the same as you have been doing for U. S. contract flights, only using Canadian Air Mail stamps instead of U. S. The postmasters along the route will probably have their instructions as to how to handle collectors' mail and you should experience no trouble. Canadian Air Mail stamps can be secured, or if more convenient, send money orders to the amount of postage required, not forgetting the RETURN POSTAGE for any covers sent to yourself in care of a postmaster. December 10th is the date.

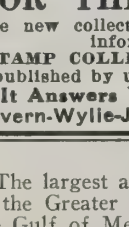
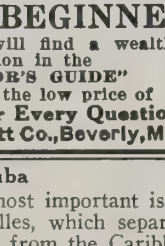
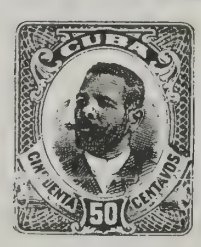
Cuba

The largest and most important island in the Greater Antilles, which separates the Gulf of Mexico from the Caribbean Sea. Postage stamps for the combined use of Cuba and Porto Rico were first issued in 1855, and separate stamps for Cuba did not make their appearance until 1873.







Fiji "C R" Stamps

The meaning of the script capital letters "C R" under the crown on the 1871 stamps of Fiji has puzzled a good many collectors. They stand for "Cakobau Rex," i.e., King Cakobau. In 1871 a number of Englishmen set up a Fijian government and nominated the principal chief, Cakobau, as King. At the end of the year a national post was established to take the place of the private post then operated by the proprietors of the Fiji Times. Postage stamps of the values of 1p, 3p and 6p were ordered from Sydney, New South Wales, and these were engraved and printed at the Government Printing Office there. They were placed on sale on December 17, 1871, and early in the following year (January 12th, to be exact) they were surcharged with values in cents, as this latter was the currency most generally in use. These stamps remained in circulation until October 10, 1874, when the Fiji Islands were ceded to Great Britain, and all the stamps on hand were overprinted with the letters "V R" (Victoria Regina) before being placed on sale.—Philatelic Opinion.

Luxemburg Charity Issue

We illustrate herewith the new charity issue of Luxemburg. There are five values, 10c+5c, 60c+10c, 75c+15c, 1fr+

25c, 1.50fr+50c. The set was issued December 1, and the supply is plentiful. We are indebted to the Home of the Postage Stamp for these particulars.

Junior News Release

By BEACH CONGER, JR.

Kelantan.—The Malay State of Kelantan is to have a new $1.00 stamp. Instead of the current native design, the stamp will show the Sultan of Kelantan. The stamp will be inscribed: "Kelantan Postage and Revenue," in both English and native.

Liechtenstein.—Stamps commemorating the 70th birthday of Prince Jean II have appeared, October 5th being the 1st date of issue. The values which show a portrait of the Prince, and are as follows: 10 rappan, 20r, 30r and 60r. The 1.20f, 1.50f, 2f show two pictures of the Prince, at the age of 60 and a current portrait.

Poland.—Another scholar and writer is honored this month on a postage stamp. Poland has issued a commemorative in honor of Henryk Sienkiewicz, the author of "Qou Vadis," and other books.

Russia.—Because of the fact that the government printing office found it impossible to print the desired quantity of stamps in time for their issue on the correct date, the Soviet government has announced that the Tolstoi commemoratives will not make their appearance.

Saargebiet.—This territory has two new airmail stamps, depicting an airplane in flight over the city of Saarbrücken, the center of the state. The values are 50c carmine and 1fr violet.

Transjordania.—The current set was surcharged "Dastour," or in English, constitution, on September 1st, to commemorate the formal recognition of this Arab nation by the British Government. The report states that only 5,600 complete sets were surcharged, which implies surcharging of individual values. The stamps were only in circulation for one month.

Turkey.—Another Smyrna Agricultural and Industrial Exposition is being held, and rumor has it that another commemorative set will be issued, on sale at the fair only. Further details have not yet been received.

New Leeward Stamps

New postage stamps on order from the Leeward Islands Colony embrace thirteen varieties, with a total value of £4 8s 9d, as compared with eighty-six at present in circulation (face value £8 9s 10d). A peculiarity of this colony is that, in addition to a uniform series of Postage and Revenue stamps inscribed with the name of the Leeward Islands, each of the five Presidencies comprised therein has its own distinctive stamp issue. Not only are the designs of the six issues to undergo immediate change, but a number of denominations now current are to be abolished and two additional values added to the uniform series only. The design in each instance to take the form of twin medallions, the one embracing the King's head, and the other the device of the public seal of the Presidency in which the stamps are issued.—Stamp Collecting.

Swiss Child Welfare

The annual event of issuing Child Welfare stamps for this country takes place on December 1st, and four denominations are to be issued. The 5 centimes will show the Arms of Lausanne, the capital of the Canton of Vaud, printed in red and black with a violet frame, on both sides will be represented bunches of grapes symbolizing the vine cultivation of that Canton. The 10 centimes will bear the Arms of Winterthur, Canton of Zurich, printed in red and black on white with frame in green, on each side of the Arms is an anchor. The 20 centimes will show the Arms of St. Gall and represent a black bear with yellow collar and red tongue, standing on a white ground. The frame is in red, and at the left is seen the Caduceus (the wand of Mercury) encircled by two snakes, at the right side is seen the crosier and tiara of a bishop, St. Gall being the seat of a bishop. These three values are all on buff papers. The 30 centimes will be printed in blue, and will be of a larger design, similar to the Pestalozzi issue of last year, and will portray Henri Dunant, who was the founder of the Red Cross, this stamp celebrates the centenary of his birth, which was this year; on the left the Red Cross is seen surrounded by rays. The 5, 10 and 20 centimes will be printed at the Federal Mint and the 30 centimes in Holland.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

Chambre de Commerce de Valenciennes

An inscription found on a 10c provisional war stamp issued in 1914 by the Valenciennes, France, Chamber of Commerce.

Porto Rico.—A fertile West Indian island lying 75 miles east of Hayti. It was a Spanish settlement until 1898, when, as a result of the war with the United States, it was ceded to the latter country. Civil government was conferred in 1900. Postage stamps under Spanish dominion were first issued in 1873.

Portugal Continente.—Found on many Portuguese stamps, and meaning "Portugal-Mainland." This is meant to emphasize the fact that though Madeira and the Azores are integral parts of the republic, they have their own separate series of postage stamps.

Portuguese Congo.—The Portuguese section of the Congo district, excluding Angola, which has its own postage stamps. Postage stamps for this region were first issued in 1893.

Portuguese East Africa.—A dependency of Portugal situated east of Rhodesia, and consisting since 1891 of the three provinces of Mozambique, Zambesia and Lourenzo Marques, each of which has a separate postal administration. The territory as a whole is now known as the "State of East Africa."

AN editorial appeared in the Ne York Sun, on Thursday, Nov. 1 entitled "Precancels." It is a well-writ ten editorial and indicates a very goo knowledge of the subject upon the par of the author. The annual report of th Smithsonian Institution, in which is in corporated a report on the National Mu seum, shows the receipt of contribution to the precancel postage stamp collectio through the president of the Precance Stamp Society. The editorial calls th precancelled stamp "the perfect symbo of the collector's folly." The argumen used is the impossibility of securing complete collection, a very familiar on indeed to those general collectors wh persist along the lines of collecting th issues of the entire world. Clippings ar at hand from J. M. Bartels and F. C DePuy.

NOTWITHSTANDING the passin of Bertrand L. Drew, the invitatio "Come in and browse around" is no destined to be lost to philately. W. A NEW magazine devoted to airmail stamps and covers has just been issued from Holton, Kans. It is called the Airmail Collector, and a sample copy will doubtless be sent to any interested party. With the great interest that is now being taken in airmail philately this magazine hould fill a real need. It is a monthly iagazine of fifty-two pages, and the pa-er before us is a remarkably good first umber.

THOSE of our readers who sent letters to the Chamber of Commerce, Cle-urne, Texas, for Nov. 10 and 11, special achet, can secure return of their letters y forwarding return postage to Mana-er C. C. Patterson. As it turned out, o special cachet was used.

F you are a collector of precancels you will do well to write 2758 Clarkson v., Omaha, Nebr., for a sample copy f the Precancel Bee. Volume 2, Num-er 7, is before us, and it is a creditable ublication.

A collection of unique interest and nsiderable magnitude has just come on e market, comprising engravers' proofs id trial printings of stamps of British ssessions. Formed by Mr. C. I am indebted to Mr. Roberts, the purchaser of the collec-n, for the opportunity of making some tes on the rich collection of New uth Wales proofs.

The New South Wales stamps com-he artistic with philatelic interest. We ow little of the three local engravers o produced the famous "Sydney iews," or, as they used to be called, old diggings." They were Robert ayton, John Carmichael, and H. C. rvis, all of Sydney, who engraved the , 2d and 3d respectively, and treated e design in different ways. Carmichael, o was a deaf mute, was the best en-aver of the three, and his 2d stamps, om the early state of the plate, are autifully executed and free from er-rs and omissions. When one remem-rs that each of the twenty-four stamps the plate had to be engraved separate-l by hand his fidelity to detail is re-arkable. Both Clayton and Jervis itted various details from a number stamps on their respective plates. But rmichael's fine work, being on cop-r, wore very quickly, and the heavy rin of Jervis was employed in re-ching it.

Mr. Mortimer's collection contains autiful contemporary proofs of the 1d d 3d, including a very rare one of the latter in black, and the curious litho-graphed essay of the 1d in bright red. This "litho" used to be regarded as a forgery, but is now known to be due to a proposal of Clayton's to print the stamps by lithography; there is a pair of the essay in the Tapling Collection.

Valuable Records

There are two essays for 6d and 1s stamps designed by the Postmaster-General, Mr. James Raymond, himself, and engraved by Carmichael, but the artistic origin of the next issue, with the Queen's head "laureated," is attributed to Mr. A. W. Manning, the Inspector of Stamps. Most of these were engraved on steel by Carmichael (1d, 2d and 3d), each repeated separately by hand fifty times to form the printing plate, and in the case of the bi-coloured registration stamp there were two steel plates bearing fifty heads and fifty frames respectively. As the proofs show, the finest quality in the engraving for this series was Carmichael's 6d stamp which he engraved on copper. Jervis also took a hand in engraving the laureates; he did the 2d and 8d on copper, and the retouching of Carmichael's plates when they became worn.

A clerk at the post office department, Mr. T. W. Levinge, prepared the original rough sketches for the "diadem" series, but they were re-drawn in London by Mr. Edward Henry Corbould, and engraved by Mr. William Humphrys. In the case of the larger design, the 5d green, introduced in 1855, had the longest life of any stamp, being in use for over half a century. In these two diademed types the collection of die and plate proofs is very extensive, and most remarkable of all are the small trial plates with impressions which have been subjected to a great variety of tests for colour and for protection against cleaning. Even the original mixings of the pigments for the ink are noted in a contemporary hand.

There is also a rare die proof in black of the beautiful coin design by Corbould for the 5s stamp; this was engraved by Frederick Heath. It was, however, Mr. Levinge's idea to have the design circular, to make it readily distinguishable from the other values, and to show the young Queen crowned, with sceptre, and the four stars of the Southern Cross, and a sprig of waratah, representing Australia.—Postage Stamp.

Culture

—A Strong Plea for the United States to Have "Cultural" Stamps.

(A. W. Claflin—"Prov. Journal.")

Germany is employing her postage stamps as propaganda for her highest culture.

The portraits on these stamps, seen daily by millions of people, impress them with the importance of what the subject of the portrait stood for. For instance, Goethe's glorious front looks out from two of the most popular stamps. On two others Beethoven's face is a silent witness to the greatness not only of himself but of his country in the world of music. Other faces on the German stamps are those of Schiller, poet and dramatist; Frederick the Great, who was not only king and general, but also an author of distinction; Kant, the philosopher; Lessing, philosopher and poet; Leibnitz, mathematician and philosopher, perhaps the most universally minded of modern men; Virchow, natural scientist; and Durer, the great artist, whose fourth century has just been celebrated.

Contrast with these the portraits on American stamps. With the exception of Franklin and Martha Washington, they are now all portraits of Presidents. The stamps of the denominations from one to twelve cents are distinguished by the portraits of Franklin, Washington, Lincoln, Martha Washington, Roosevelt, Garfield, McKinley, Grant, Jefferson, Monroe, Hayes and Cleveland. On the stamps of higher denominations the pictures are symbolical or scenic. Earlier stamps bear the portraits of Webster, Clay, Admiral Farragut, Chief Justice Marshall, General Sherman, Commodore Perry, President Madison, General Scott, Alexander Hamilton, the statesman; Secretary of War Stanton and President Taylor. Very beautiful stamps have been issued in commemoration of various events or industrial activities, but these do not rival the cultural German stamps.

One would never have known from our postage stamps that the greatest metaphysician of the eighteenth century, Jonathan Edwards, was an American. He would have seen nothing to remind him of the existence of our spiritual philosopher Emerson, or of our great poets, Bryant, Longfellow, Whittier, Lowell, Poe and Whitman; or our prose masters Irving, Cooper and Hawthorne; or any of our great jurists except Marshall; or any of our great diplomats except Franklin; or any of our great masters of theoretical or applied science, Willard Gibbs or Edison, Asa Gray or Joseph Henry. Neither Whistler nor Sargent is held up by our Postal Department as an American who has been a world figure in art.

America in her three hundred years has given to the world enough names of the first rank to furnish with portraits a whole postal series and many times that number of men only less distinguished who might properly be kept in living memory for the inspiration of their fellow countrymen.

WHY? WHY? WHY?

Why is our approval business with collectors in the United States and Canada increasing enormously year by year?

Why do those who are making use of our services speak so highly of our firm and recommend us to their friends?

The reasons are not far to seek. Here they are:—

(1) We have a wonderful stock of stamps of all kinds, and are ready to send any part of that stock on approval to any part of the world.

(2) Our service is based on courtesy, promptness, and efficient attention to individual needs.

(3) We pay the same attention to the small buyer as we do to the big men of the stamp world.

Why Not Test Our Service For Yourself?

BELA SEKULA CATALOG

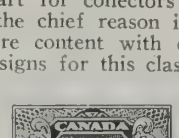
From Bela Sekula of Lucerne, Switzerland, we have received a catalog of the firm's December sale, to be held from Dec. 10 to 15 inclusive. This sale is remarkable for the wonderful collection of Finland that is contained. It requires forty-seven pages to list the Finland numbers, and in the accompanying book of illustrations twenty-four full pages are given to illustrating these items. This collection was the property of a well-known Finland collector by the name of Lindberg. It was offered at auction in 1927 by a Berlin firm, but in consequence of limits only a small number of lots were sold.

This sale is also strong in other European countries, and several pages are given to British Colonies and countries in North and South America. The extent of the sale can be understood when it is known that 6,023 lots are listed, and the book of illustrations runs to 116 pages. The firm will have another big sale in January, and auction patrons will do well to have their names placed upon the firm's mailing list.

TOPICAL NOTES ON NEW ISSUES

Liner "Provisional." — An unprecedented postal incident occurred on a recent eastward-bound trip of the French liner "Ile de France," which carries an aeroplane to be catapulted from the deck to expedite the delivery of mails. Letters to be delivered by this ship to shore air service cost an extra 10 francs postage, and the ship's post office on this occasion ran out of 10 francs stamps. The postal officer in charge created provisional 10 francs stamps by surcharging 1,000 of the 1.50 franc blue and 2,000 of the 1.50 red stamps. The overprinting is said to have been done in the presence of a French Consul on board, and the novel stamp varieties thus created have been selling for 300 to 400 francs each in Paris.

Collecting Postage Due. — Postage Due stamps are not so popular with collectors as ordinary postage stamps. The fact that they represent a fine or double tax on insufficiently paid mail may account in part for collectors' neglect of them, but the chief reason is that most countries are content with conventional numeral designs for this class of stamp.



A novel exception is the new series printed at the United States Bureau of Engraving and Printing for the Philippine Islands, in a pictorial design by a Filipino artist, A. Garcia. His theme is both appropriate and amusing, representing the postal clerk refusing to give up a letter until the fine has been paid. There are seven values, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 16 and 20 centavos, all in carmine.

New Issue for Gold Coast.—The new stamps for the Gold Coast are a departure from the printing processes hitherto used for British Colonial stamps. They have been printed by Messrs. Harrison and Sons, Ltd., of Hayes, in their photogravure method known as "collogravure," as used for the stamps of Egypt with the fine photographic portrait of King Fuad. The design and small size of the Gold Coast stamps do not lend themselves so well to this class of printing as the larger Egyptian designs did. The medallion bearing the profile of King George is too small, and gives neither the character of a photograph nor the modelling of Sir Bertram Mackennal's medal head. The view beneath the King's head is of Christiansborg Castle, near Accra, which is now the residence of the Governor of the Colony. Like the historic Cape Coast Castle and Elmina Castle, it is a relic of the days of the slave traders.

Rajah of Kelantan.—Kelantan, a State on the east of Malay Peninsula, was transferred along with Kedah, Perlis, and Trengganu from Siamese to British protection in 1909. The first Kelantan stamps were issued on January 11, 1911, bearing as their central device a group of Moslem and Malayan emblems. It was reported at the time that the Rajah, on seeing the stamps of the neighbouring State of Trengganu, on which the portrait of the Sultan is used, expressed himself as dissatisfied with the Kelantan device. A correspondent of the Straits Times at Kota Bharu stated at the time that the Rajah wished to buy up the whole issue and have it replaced by a set bearing his portrait.

Nothing further was done about the matter until the present year, when arrangements were made through the Crown Agents for the Colonies to have a new 1 dollar stamp engraved in intaglio with the Rajah's picture, surrounded by an ornamental border, inscribed in English and Malay, "Kelantan Postage and Revenue."

New Issues for Air Services.—There is a sheaf of new air post stamps from Canada, Germany, Roumania, the Saa and Uruguay. Canada and Rouman are newcomers to the albums of the a stamp collector. The former has used five-cent stamp of large size, showing map of Canada, over which are tw angels and an aeroplane. Roumania contribution is a set depicting a mon plane in flight, the body of the machi bearing the name of the pilot, Capta C. G. Craiu, but the name has been mi spelt C-Raiu on the first edition, and corrected issue is in preparation. Ge many's new two-marks and four-mark stamps were issued just in time fo franking some 50,000 letters and pos cards sent by the Graf-Zeppelin t America.

Two handsome photogravure stamp printed by the Vaugirard firm in Pari and showing an aeroplane in flight ove the Saar, have been issued in that terr tory; they are fifty-centimes carmine an one-franc violet. The new Uruguay ai stamps are in the old design of a futuris bird, but this has been re-drawn, and i smaller; the stamps are now perforate and in a full series of twelve denomina tions in place of the four original im perforate stamps.—Postage Stamp.

"DIFFERENTIAL PRICING"

In presenting this edition of the Gibbons Catalogue we wish to draw particular attention to a new method of pricing, which has been introduced into the British Empire section, and which, if it meets with the approval of collectors, will in the next edition be further extended.

The present-day insistence on the importance of condition and the very wide variation in condition found in the early imperf. issues of most countries, make it impossible that a single price figure shall be, in such issues, any real idea of the value of an individual stamp. In recent editions we have stated that our prices, in such cases, were for good average copies of the stamps in question, but it must be admitted that, for the ordinary collector who possesses but one or two specimens of each stamp, the definition is very little informative value.

It is as a result of the single-price method that abuse of the term "catalogue value" has arisen, to the detriment of collectors, particularly the inexperienced, who naturally try to buy all their stamps at a bargain price, and who fall easy victims to those who offer, by advertisement, or through other market channels, mixed lots which purport to contain scarce stamps of the older issues, and which are offered and sold at a small fraction of the "catalogue price," this latter being, of course, prominently stated, without any reference to the condition of the specimens offered.

On examination, such lots, if they do contain (as they too often do) a proportion of forgeries, or stamps cleaned or cunningly repaired, are found to consist in large part of damaged, cut close, or heavily cancelled copies, which are either worthless or whose market value bears no relation to the catalogue price.

As a result of these abuses there are numerous collectors who, priding themselves on their business acumen, have got together large collections of stamps, purchased at low rates, and which they fondly believe to be worth five, ten or twenty times what they paid for them. When they, or their hopeful heirs, attempt to dispose of such collections, and find that, far from showing them a large profit, they can only be disposed of, if at all, at a very heavy loss, deep disappointment naturally results, and the blame which should rest on the collector himself, or on the unscrupulous persons who have misled him, too often falls on the reputable dealer who is unable to pay a large proportion of catalogue price for almost worthless rubbish.

While it is impossible by any method of catalogue pricing to guard the inexperienced against forgeries and faked stamps, our new method, which we term "differential pricing," should be of great assistance to collectors when buying those early imperf. issues which vary greatly in condition. In effect, we have quoted low and high prices which cover the ordinary saleable range of stamps, from poor, but not hopelessly defective, specimens to fine copies in first-class condition. It should be particularly noted that beyond this range of pricing there lie, on the one hand, very heavily cancelled, cut into, or otherwise damaged specimens, which have practically no value, and on the other those superb copies (not to mention pairs, strips, blocks, and stamps on cover) which are the cynosure of wealthy collectors, and whose value often bears no calculable relation to the catalogue price of stamps normally met with or of single specimens.

This new method of pricing effectually prevents the quoting of fictitious catalogue values to the detriment of inexperienced collectors, so far as the issues we have dealt with are concerned, and, of course, in relation to their condition only. Where catalogue price is quoted in connection with the sale of forgeries or faked stamps, the buyer has the ordinary means of legal redress, as the mention of catalogue price is a representation that the stamp offered is that to which our catalogue price applies, i.e., a genuine, unfaked specimen.

It should be noted that, while "differential pricing" has been applied to the issues where condition has the greatest influence in fixing values, the factor of condition applies throughout, and has to be taken into account in all philatelic transactions. In all issues we can supply inferior specimens at a figure much below catalogue price, and in all issues (except in the case of great rarities) there are stamps in such poor condition as to be quite valueless.

Apart from the safeguarding of inexperienced collectors, we anticipate that this method of differential pricing will result in establishing a market value for specimens of imperf. stamps which, while not in fine condition, are not damaged or too heavily cancelled to find a place in collections. With the present keen competition for stamps in fine condition, the ordinary collector must be content to fill his albums with specimens of not quite the highest quality, or else go without such stamps altogether. The demand for copies of second quality must therefore grow, and our new pricing will provide purchasers of such stamps with some guidance as to the prices at which we can supply them.

It should be noted that we are not in any way advocating the collection of stamps in really poor condition, but between the fine stamps on which the wealthy collector insists and the unsightly "cripples" of the old-time collections, lies a wide range of legitimately collectable specimens, which can be supplied at reasonable prices, and which enable the ordinary collector to approach completeness in a way which is now impossible if he limits himself only to stamps in fine condition.—Gibbons' Stamp Monthly.

BOOK REVIEW

Those who are familiar with the famous Melville stamp books will be interested in knowing that Nos. 24 and 25 have just been issued. One deals with Virgin Islands and the other with Baden. The latter book is dedicated to Carl Lindenberg, who died this year, and "to whom most of our knowledge of Baden's postage stamps is due." It is enough to say that both of these booklets are printed in the familiar form of the previous books and are even more fully illustrated. The books are 36c each, and may be obtained from the Philatelic Institute, 26 Plumstead High St., London, S. E. 18., England.

U. S. REVENUES

Those who have been watching the market during the last year, and especially those who have been following the auctions, have appreciated that the demand is constantly increasing for fine things in the way of United States Revenue rarities. Don't let anyone convince you that the catalogue is too high on this invert or that invert, for after having sold during the last year possibly more of these than any other professional, I am in a position to definitely state that fine Revenues of the Civil War Period are excellent property.

Right at the present time, I am especially anxious to buy at substantial prices any of the rarer inverted centers of either the Second or Third issues or the Proprietaries. I would like to buy copies of other rarities, but will be satisfied with even single individual offers of the items cataloging around $100 or more.

In the meantime, if you are thinking of filling in your Revenue spaces, or want anything in the way of United States Postal Issues, I offer those interested a wonderful stock from which to make choice selections.

At the present time, there happens to be in stock several revenues worthy of mention, which are offered subject to prior sale.

$20 Probate of Will — imperforate and perforate.
$200 Imperforate horizontal pair.
Second Issue magnificent—$20, $25, $50, $200, $500.
Second Issue—50c inverted pair, $1 inverted center, punched.
Third Issue—2c and 30c inverted center.
Proprietary on violet—50c, $1, $5.
1898 $3 Horizontal pair—imperforate between.

Don't forget that the Townsend Collection of the World, cataloging in excess of $125,000.00, is being broken up and want lists are solicited.

Aeronautic Conference Stamps

By the time these notes appear in print, the new 2-cent and 5-cent stamps, issued in behalf of the International Civil Aeronautics Conference, will about be ready for issue. It is learned that the first order placed with the Bureau of Engraving and Printing by the Post Office Department, calls for twenty million of the 2-cent, which are to be printed in red, and five million of the 5-cent blue. At the present time, it is not the intention of the Department to increase this order, although, of course, when the Bureau actually does the printing, the quantities usually run slightly under or slightly above the amount specified.

On the day of issue, December 12th, they will be available at Washington only, although a small supply may be obtained by other postmasters upon requisition. The stamp being larger than the normal variety, it is not likely to prove popular with the average postmaster, and as a result, if they hold the quantity in Washington, they are likely to last for some time.

The official announcement of the issue of these stamps, appears in the Postal Bulletin for November 13th, which contains a communication of the Third Assistant Postmaster General of November tenth.

5-Cent Air Mail, Bi-Colored

Mr. Malcolm H. Ganser, in our contemporary the Weekly Philatelic Gossip states that the current 5-cent Air Mail stamp offers the first opportunity that we have had for ten years to find an inverted center. He is not far wrong in this assumption that there is such a possibility, for at the present time, the demands of postmasters for the 5-cent Air Mail red and blue is so great that the Bureau is working to the full capacity plates available for producing the stamp. As a matter of fact, I am reliably informed that they are being turned out so fast that there is a great possibility of such an error being found. It is suggested that collectors watch their post offices most carefully, for it will not come as a surprise if one of our many readers finally locates such a variety.

Cancellations

In the Chronicle for November fifth, mention was made that the Lansford, Pa., postmaster had used a special four-leaf clover on certain political circular letters sent out from that post office, the sending out of the circulars without proper postmarks resulting in the dismissal of the postmaster. The information given relative to the design of the postmark was officially received from Washington.

Evidently one or two other cancellations were used, for Mr. Henry C. DeWitt, Jr., has sent for inspection one of the Lansford covers, with circular enclosed, which shows a postmark consisting of two horizontal lines about one-sixteenth of an inch wide and one inch long, no doubt applied by means of a cork. The clover-leaf has not been seen, although the information being official, no doubt, it was used on thousands o circulars.

Mr. H. M. Brehm kindly sends a reg istered cover, showing the special Ap pleton registration postmark, which h states was discontinued on Novembe 17th, due to special instructions fron Washington.

The cancellation which was placed i use on October 8th, was previously de scribed in this column and consisted of black mark in the shape of an apple showing the word "TON" across th center in white letters. It is to be re gretted that the postal regulations d not permit these special markings, whic are unusually attractive, and add interes to the collection.

Abyssinia.—Post Office Commemoratives.—The series of five stamps has a last appeared. We are indebted to Mr F. Mayhew for copies: ⅛ mehalik, orange (blue centre), ¼ mehalik, green (black centre), ½ mehalik, blue (orange centre), 1 mehalik crimson (black centre), 2 mehaliks, dark blue (black centre).

Souvenir Sets.—In addition to the ordinary issue, Mr. Mayhew informs us that 100 sets of five were overprinted in Ethiopian characters, "Ethiopia stretches out her hands to God," and one set was presented to each invited guest.

Currency.—The new currency is: 16 mehaliks=1 thaler=13 French francs=2/2. One mehalik is therefore worth about 1¾d.

New Post Office.—This was opened at Addis-Abeba on September 10th, and was the occasion for the issue of the stamps described.—Philatelic Magazine.

Austria.—We understand that on November 1st, there will be issued a Charity set of four values (10, 15, 30, and 40gr) with the portrait of President Dr. Michael Hainisch. The stamps will be recess-printed, and as Messrs. Junk and Schirnböck will be in collaboration as designer and engraver respectively, we may hope they will attain the same high standard of artistic merit as the 1922 and 1923 Charity sets.—Gibbons Stamp Monthly.

Canada.— From Mr. R. Roberts comes a copy of the new 5c air mail in sepia shade. The stamp is oblong in form, and pictures two winged figures with clasped hands above the map of Canada on the hemisphere. Above the clasped hands is an airplane, while beneath is the word "Air." The name of the country is at the top with "Cents" at the base, and the figures of value in each lower corner. On the left panel is

NEW BELGIAN TUBERCULOSIS STAMPS

ISSUED THIS MONTH AND ON SALE DECEMBER 1 TO JANUARY 15

"Postes," and on the right "Post." The stamp is a very attractive one finely executed.

Cirenaica.—Whitfield King & Co. advise that a set of stamps has been issued for this colony in the same design and colors as noted under Tripolitania.

Egypt.—Prince Farouk.—In March last we forecast a coming distinctive stamp in honour of the birthday of Prince Farouk, son of King Fuad. The August anniversary was stated to be February 12th, but our Amiens friends inform us that actually it occurs on Armistice Day, November 11th. In that case we hope the philatelic Egyptian ruler will grant a thanksgiving armistice to his commemorative stamp mass production department. A friend of ours, with characteristic cynicism, remarks that it is a good job his Fuadian Majesty doesn't possess eighteen sons.—Stamp Collecting.

Eritrea.—Whitfield King & Co. call our attention to a set of stamps recently issued for this colony in the same values and designs as noted under Tripolitania.

Falkland Islands.—Mr. B. S. H. Grant tells us that the actual number printed of the 2½d on 2d provisional was 1,179, and that the type used for surcharging has been destroyed.—Gibbons Stamp Monthly.

Federated Malay States.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts copies of the 35c red on yellow, script watermark.

Finland.—A stamp Exhibition is to be held at Helsingfors early this month, the arrangements being in the hands of the Helsingfors Philatelic Society. Special permission has been granted by the State to overprint 100,000 each of the 1 mark and 1½ marks stamps; we are not informed the nature of the overprint, but it is stated that it will be in three lines. As usual with these Exhibition issues, the sale will be restricted to 50 stamps of each denomination to every purchaser of a ticket of admission to the Exhibition.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

Iraq.—From Mr. A. J. Batten we receive a specimen of a two annas Railway Letter stamp, together with a newspaper cutting relating to the new Railway Post Service introduced by the Iraq Railway on the 1st September last. By this service letters can be dispatched by passenger train from any railway station upon the addition of the special 2 annas stamp to the ordinary postage fee.—Gibbons Stamp Monthly.

Italian Somali.—Whitfield King & Co. note that they have received a set of stamps for this colony, which are in the same colors and design as reported for Tripolitania.

Monaco.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us two new provisionals of this country. They are the 1fr25c blue on bluish, type A13 surcharged "50" in red, and the 1fr-05c red-violet, type of A11, surcharged "50" in black. Two short horizontal bars obliterate the original value.

Netherlands.—Whitfield King & Co. advise that they have received the 12½c blue, and 27½c grey, watermarked circles.

San Marino.—Mr. R. Roberts submits for chronicle the L.30 postage due stamp in orange figure of value in brown, perf. 14, watermarked as before.

Spain.—Seville—Barcelona Exhibition.—We have now obtained official news direct from the Spanish Exhibition authorities. The following is a complete translation:

"In the month of November next the Fabrique Nationale de la Monnaie will issue commemorative postage stamps for the Exhibitions of Seville and Barcelona.

This issue will comprise of eight series, including nearly all the current values. These series will be for Spain, Aviacion, Morocco, Tangiers, Cape Juby, Sahara, Fernando Poo and Guiana.

These stamps will circulate for only three days, which dates will be fixed by the Government, and the sale will be entrusted by the Postal Administration to the Central Committee of the two Exhibitions (Ministerio del Trobajo, Madrid). The revenue from the sale of stamps will be devoted to advertising the Exhibition."—Philatelic Magazine.

Tripolitania.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 1928 issue, commemorating the forty-sixth anniversary of the African Society of Italy. The values and colors are 20+5c green, 30+5c red, 50+10c violet and 1 lire 25c+20c blue.

Uruguay.—In connection with the recent celebrations of the centenary of the signing of the preliminary peace terms between the Empire of Brazil and the United Provinces of the River Plate, a special set of stamps was put on sale on August 25th, showing a portrait of General Garzon. These stamps were issued in sheets of four, but we have been unable to obtain any. Our agent at Montevideo informs us that the stamps were on sale only at the Central Post Office, and only one sheet of four of each value was sold to each person. The stamps were printed by Messrs. Waterlow & Sons of London, and only 7,500 sets were issued. Our agent goes on to say that the public crowded round the two Post Office windows where the stamps were sold, and so great was this crowd that it practically turned into a fight to get anywhere near the counter, and even then many people had to go away without any 5 centesimos green, and 8 centesimos stamps at all. The denominations and colours are as follow:—2 centesimos red, blue.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

Virgin Islands.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the 1½p brown, a new color for this value.

PHILATELISTS

Old Classic Stamps

BOUGHT AND SOLD

COMMONWEALTH NOTES

Commonwealth specialists, particularly those who are interested in the varieties of the 1d Georgian stamp, were treated to a considerable surprise last month when printings from the left-hand plates of this value were placed on sale at the various post offices. It will be recollected that for the last ten years printings of the 1d denomination have been confined to the right-hand pair of plates, i.e., during the printing of the 1d violet, and the 1d green with single watermark, no watermark and large multiple watermark. The advance of the postage rate to 1½d naturally brought about a lessened demand for the 1d value, for which reason, no doubt, two of the plates of the latter were laid aside. We should imagine that Mr. Ash has now resumed printing from the four plates set together.

It is interesting to inspect sheets from the left-hand plates and to locate varieties which were well known in the 1d red, and which are, therefore, so to speak, old friends. The upper plate continues to show the two vertical columns of die II in the 2nd and 3rd vertical rows of the right-hand pane. As was the case in the sheets printed in red from this plate, the little "spur" in the left-hand value tablet, the distinguishing mark of die II, is only faintly marked on the 2nd stamp of the bottom row. In the left-hand pane the variety "saddle on emu" on the 6th stamp of the 6th row is still to be found.

There is one point concerning the little "spurs" on the stamps of die II which we have not previously seen referred to in print. In the left-hand vertical column of the two rows of die II, these spurs are not only less distinct, but they project from the base of the tablet in a slanting direction. In the right-hand column they project upwards almost at right angles, and are considerably more apparent. It would be interesting to know the reasons for these differences, which are constant in each of the ten pairs of die II on the sheet.

The left lower plate contains several interesting varieties, but, alas, "the substituted cliches" and the retouched "age" of "Postage," which were in the right-hand pane, have been rectified. In the left-hand pane the "Penavy" variety, the 5th stamp of the 4th row, is still in evidence, and immediately beneath this is the "retouched corner," which was only recorded in the 1d red quite recently. Another variety, also found on the 1d red stamps, is a white dash just below the right-hand value table, the position of which is the 6th stamp of the 7th row of the left-hand pane.

All the sheets we have seen have been perforated by the 13½ x 12½ machine, and bear the John Ash imprint. This imprint in the upper plate is fairly close to the stamps, but on the lower plate there is a 7mm space between the marginal lines below the stamps and the top of the imprint; consequently many of the sheets printed from the lower plate have had the imprint wholly or partially cut away before they left the printing office.

We should suppose that a large number of sheets have been printed, and as the left-hand plates show no sign of wear there is no reason why they should not be used regularly in the future. We expect Mr. Ash will correct some of the varieties, such as the "Penavy," in the near future, but whether he will think it necessary to rectify the twenty impressions of die II on the upper plate is more doubtful.

As however he has retouched less obvious varieties it is quite possible he may see fit to eliminate these also.

Mr. J. Howard Johnson has drawn our attention to a variety which exists on the upper right-hand plate of the 1d stamp, and has been found in all printings of that value from the red penny until recently. The variety consists of a distortion of the right-hand frame line from just below the tail of the emu to the right-hand bottom corner. In some printings, notably those in violet, it is very marked, and once seen can be easily picked out.

EUGEN SEKULA "VILLA HEIMELI" LUZERNE 22 (SWITZERLAND)

Its position is the 6th stamp of the 5th row of the left-hand pane, and we have seen examples of it from the red penny down to the early printings on small multiple watermark paper. The later sheets with the Ash imprint, however, show that it has been corrected, we think, by retouching.

We are indebted to Mr. A. A. Rosenblum for the information that at the forthcoming Melbourne philatelic exhibition the Postmaster-General's Department intends to install, as part of their exhibit, a working plant which will be in operation printing and perforating stamps. These stamps will bear a special imprint, and will be on sale only at the exhibition post office. We do not know whether, apart from the imprint, this stamp will be a definite variety, but we hope, for the good name of Australian philately, that it will not.—Australian Stamp Journal.

Rothschild

—Well Known New York Collector Promoting Philately in Detroit.

(Detroit "News"—Laurence Randall.)

Into the select educational fraternity of the textbook and encyclopedia, college curriculum and radio, there now comes the tiny bright colored postage stamp with practical knowledge from the a, b, c's to zoology, according to Sigmund I. Rothschild, veteran New York stamp collector, who this week is giving a series of lectures on stamp collecting at the J. L. Hudson Co. store.

A postage stamp's face is a generous liberal education in everything from history to architecture, mythology to astronomy, he says.

"Too much emphasis has been given to stamp collecting as a hobby," he added, "but it is much more than that. It is an education."

Artistic Division

By way of proof he produced an album with 8,000 stamps in it divided into pages on all the familiar classroom subjects, agriculture, sculpturing, literature, industry and the like.

Every stamp gave silent information, plowers at work on the blue stamp of Kedah, the library of Louvain on a Belgian stamp, Joan of Arc gracing one from Bolivar; Dante, Cervantes, Byron and Goethe looking out from stamps of four nations; Mozart, Strauss and Schubert framed on Austrian issues, and Pegasus, Diana and Cupid spreading mythology's fame on the stamps of Spain, Crete and Spain, respectively.

Robert Fulton's steamboat pictured on an old United States stamp, Pasteur's portrait on a French one, radio shown on a stamp of Guatemala lent to science and invention. The shimmering green Bosphorus on a Turkish stamp, the white-capped Alps gleaming from a Swiss stamp, famed Mt. Ararat crowned on an Armenian issue—here was the beginning of a world tour.

Southern envelopes made from a bookkeeper's ledger, from a circular and from wall paper, here a vivid story of the North's blockade of the South in the Civil War.

"All these stamps," Mr. Rothschild explained, "tell wonderful stories. They made their collector do a little research to be true, but reward him with a vivid little picture that he will forever associate with the information he digs up.

"I do not believe in expensive stamp collecting. Study stamps is my slogan. As an example of how they can be studied to profit by a school boy or by an adult, take the common 2-cent stamp of today.

"It shows a picture of Washington sculptured by a French artist, and the bust reposes at the capital of Virginia. Its color is carmine. What pigments compose carmine? Study the art work and design of the stamp, note how perfect it is. Now what have you? You have a biography of Washington by research, and knowledge of sculpture, of colors and of art. That is the way to study stamps.

"How much is my collection of stamps in this book worth? I am not interested in that. What do those stamps tell? That is true stamp collecting."

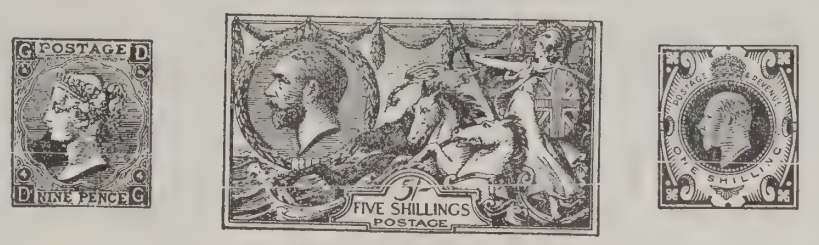
BRITISH STAMP EXHIBITION



THE BRITISH STAMP IN THREE REIGNS

From the delicate and dignified "Penny Black" to the latest automatic postal "Frank," every phase of the philatelic history of the United Kingdom and the Irish Free State will be represented at the Stamp Exhibition to be opened at the Memorial Hall, Farringdon Street, on November 16. It will be the most comprehensive display of British stamps that has ever been brought together at one time.

Not only official postage stamps, but postmarks, fiscals, newspaper tax stamps, non-government local stamps, air post-card and letters; in fact anything and everything that has the slightest bearing upon the story of the post and the postage stamp in Great Britain is included in the scope of this exposition of philatelic history.

Rowland Hill's First Postage Stamp

"A small square of paper, just large enough to bear the design, and coated on the back with a glutinous wash," was Rowland Hill's conception of the postage label that was to facilitate the carrying into effect of the postal reforms for which he had laboured so earnestly and so long and to revolutionise international communications.

The idea was novel, merely in its application, for stamps had been used in payment of fiscal duties for many years previously. But in the choice of a design real genius was displayed.

Against all counsels he refused to entertain the suggestion that the Royal Arms should form the subject of the stamp, and adhered staunchly to the portrait of the soverign as providing the surest safeguard against forgery, since any deviation from the original must be readily detected by even the most casual observer.

Much difficulty was experienced in finding a firm of engravers capable of carrying out Hill's scheme, but, as all the world knows, the London firm of Perkins, Bacon and Petch (now Perkins, Bacon and Co., Ltd.), finally undertook the work, the original die of the "Penny Black" being engraved on their behalf by the eminent engraver Frederick Heath, after a watercolour sketch by Henry Corbould, after Wyon's City Medal.

The stamp thus evolved, eighty-eight years ago, has served as a model for postage labels issued in all parts of the world, and will continue to do so until in years to come it is finally displaced by the severely practical but unæsthetic postage meter frank.

Postage Stamps on Exhibition

Class A in the London Stamp Exhibition of 1928 is given over entirely to the study of the first Postage Stamp and its successors of the beautiful line-engraved series from 1840 to 1879, which have rightly engaged the attention of generations of British philatelists and is likely to prove a revelation to those collectors whose philatelic interests have been centred upon "Foreign stamps," unmindful of the wealth of fascination and romance that lies in the postal issues of their native land. Then follow the embossed and surface printed series of the later Victorian era with their many printings and varieties down to the Twentieth Century issues bearing the heads of King Edward VII and his present Majesty King George V, than whom there is no more ardent devotee of the stamps of Great Britain.

Survey of British Philately

Subsequent sections cover the whole of British philately, embracing the erstwhile "Official" stamps of certain government departments, British stamps overprinted for use in Turkey, Morocco, and certain British possessions, British stamps used by the Packet Agencies once maintained by the Postmaster General in places abroad, telegraph, telephone and fiscal stamps, railway letter fee stamps, college stamps of Oxford and Cambridge, private stamps of the circular delivery companies, postal stationary, automatic and mailmeter "franks," etc., etc. Not the

NEWFOUNDLAND CABOT TOWER, 1928

By HARRY E. HUBER.

At Signal Hill, St. John's, on Saturday, December 14, 1901, signals were received across the Atlantic, for the first time in history, without the aid of ship or cable. Signor G. Marconi had his instruments in one of the rooms of the old barracks on Signal Hill, and his aerial was suspended from a kite. Before leaving England, Marconi had arranged with his assistants at Poldhu, Cornwall, that on receipt of a cable from him advising that all was ready, they were to send the three dots, which in Morse code stand for the letter "S," beginning at 3 p. m. (11.30 a. m. Newfoundland time), and continuing until 6 p. m. Despite the fact that high winds were prevailing on December 14, and the kite was by no means stationary, the first signals were heard at 12 o'clock noon, and regularly from 1 p. m. on.

Although Marconi had been experimenting in wireless telephony for many years, his first serious attempt at communication across the Atlantic was in 1920, in connection with the visit of the delegates from Great Britain and the Overseas Dominions to the Imperial Press Conference in Canada. The delegates left England on the R. M. S. "Victorian" on July 20, 1920, and to enable the ship to communicate with land on either side, during her voyage, powerful installations were made at Chelmsford, near London; at Cabot Tower, Signal Hill, St. John's and on the ship herself. All the way across the steamer was in touch with Chelmsford, and audible conversations took place on Sunday, July 25, 1920 (when the ship was 650 miles east of St. John's), between Premier R. A. Squires, at Signal Hill, and Lord Burnham, head of the delegation, on the steamer.

"It was chiefly for this reason" (i.e., the association of Cabot Tower with wireless telegraphy and telephony), wrote the Minister of Posts & Telegraphs of Newfoundland (W. J. Woodford) on Jan. 31, 1928, in his report for the year 1926-27, "that we selected it as the design for one (the 9c) of our postage stamps." In his 1925-26 report, he had announced (under date of Feb. 10, 1927) that plans were under way for a complete new series of stamps (to replace the pictorial series of 1923-24), which would show not only the geographical position of Newfoundland, but also its many lines of communication with the outer world.

Cabot Tower stands on the crest of Signal Hill, at the entrance to St. John's harbor, 510 ft. above sea level, and is used as a signal station for reporting all incoming vessels. Its foundation stone was laid in 1897, when the island was celebrating the 400th anniversary of its discovery by John Cabot on June 24, 1497.

The stamps of the so-called Publicity series were received at St. John's early in December, 1927, and the official notification of their issue appeared in the Evening Telegram of Tuesday, December 27, 1927.

"General (Royal Arms) Post Office
New Stamp Issue

On and after 3rd January, 1928, complete sets of one each of the new postage stamps, costing one dollar and a quarter ($1.25), may be obtained on application at the Stamp Window of the General Post Office. For the present separate varieties will not be sold.

Signed, W. J. WOODFORD,
Minister, Posts and Telegraphs."
General Post Office,
December 27, 1927.
Dec. 27, li.

The orders for the new stamps which had been accumulating in the Wholesale Stamp Department, from collectors and dealers abroad, were filled and dispatched by the mail leaving Tuesday, January 3, 1928. The cross country express leaves St. John's every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, at 1 p. m., for Port aux Basques (546 miles), and connects there with the Cabot Straits steamer for North Sydney, N. S. (102 miles).

In selling the new stamps at first in complete sets only, the idea of the postal authorities was to withhold them from general use pending the reduction of the very large stock of the pictorial series of 1923-24, of which there had been, in the G. P. O. vaults and in the Wholesale Stamp Department, on June 30, 1927, total of 16,107,047.

The 9c of the Publicity series is vertical rectangular in shape, 19½x25½mm line engraved and recess printed in dar green, on unwatermarked paper, b Messrs. Whitehead, Morris, Ltd., Lon don, in sheets of 100 (10x10), and per forated single line 13x13½, with th usual cross marks in the four margin for aid in perforating.

Under the central vignette (Cabo Tower), in two lines of small colore caps is "Cabot Tower, Signal Hill, S John's—First Trans-Atlantic Wireles Signal Received, 1901." At the top o the stamp design is the denomination i words "Nine Cents," with the numera "9" on octagonal tablets in the corners and across the foot, "Newfoundland–Postage" in two lines; the lettering an numerals are colorless. At the sides o the design is fruit and foliage ornamen tation.

Although the 9c of the pictorial serie of 1923-24, had exhausted in June, 1927 and there was no stamp of this denomi nation on sale at any of the Post Offices the 9c Publicity was not sold separatel until towards the end of March, 1928 when two denominations (9c and 30c were released. By July all others wer to be had, and although only a few wer in general use, they could be obtained o request. Of the 9c Publicity approxi mately 42,000 were received at St. John's from the printers, and about 6,000 addi tional were sold in London to the stamp trade through the Office of the High Commissioner for Newfoundland.

For many years, three registration rates were in force in Newfoundland, i.e. 3c (inland), 4c (British Empire), and 5c

INTERNATIONAL AERONAUTICAL EXPOSITION

During the period December 1 to 9 there was held in Chicago the first International Aeronautical Exposition ever held in America and a special U. S. Air Mail Booth was operated at the Exposition during that period.

The Post Office Department authorized a special cachet placed on all air mail covers dispatched from the Post Office sub-station at the Coliseum during the Show.

We will supply an actually flown air mail cover, mailed at the Exposition on the opening day of the show, for only 25c.

Hudson City Sta. Jersey City, N. J.

Foreign), but on July 15, 1920, the local nd the British Empire rates were raised o 5c, so that when the pictorial series of 923-24 was issued, 9c represented the ombined letter (4c) and registration 5c) rate to the British Empire and the Jnited States. However, on June 1, 1926, the fee required for registering a letter ddressed out of the country" was increased to 10c, making the combined rate o the British Empire and the United States, 14c. (On February 1, 1926, the ound parcel post rate to Canada and the Jnited States was raised from 12c to 4c.)

The inclusion of the 9c denomination n the Publicity series was an error on ne part of the postal officials, as it no onger represented any particular rate. t was therefore decided, soon after issue f the stamps, to discontinue the 9c and eplace it with one of 14c denomination, or which there was a very pressing need. When this was learned, there was heavy uying locally of the 9c, and stock exausted on May 18, 1928. The last 3,000 in the Wholesale Department were sed to fill an order from Grand Bank, n the south coast.

The 14c stamp, printed in purple-rown, and perforated 13x13½, single ne, was issued at St. John's, on August 3, 1928, and duplicates in all respects ne design of the 9c, except for the necesary change in the denominational letters nd figures at the top of the stamp.

When at the St. John's G. P. O., on eptember 22, 1928, I learned from Mr. V. B. Jennings, the Wholesale Stamp lerk, that the centering of the perforaon of the stamps of this series is very ad, and that great difficulty is experinced by him in securing stamps that are erfectly centered to fill orders from ollectors and dealers. However, he nds the best to be had from his stock, nd retains the badly centered ones for cal use. Stamp printers, unfortunately, o not attach the same importance to the entering of the perforation, as do collctors and dealers.

Air Mail News---

By Frederick D. Markee, 40 Wilshire Park, Needham, Mass.

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Markee and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

Who said there wasn't a Santa Claus? Here is your present, all ready for opening! December 15, Milwaukee to Green Bay, Wis., via Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton. Special cachets at the above points and possibly at Chicago. This route is a spur of CAM No. 9 and will be operated by the same contractor. Good chance for Round Trip covers, as the Northbound plane is to leave Milwaukee at 7.30 A. M., arriving in Green Bay at 9 A. M. Returning, plane leaves Green Bay at 3.45 P. M. and arrives in Milwaukee at 5.10 P. M. Distance of route, 100 miles.

Another present! Kitty Hawk, N. C., will apply an official cachet to all mail despatched on December 17th. Kitty Hawk is not located on either a railroad or Air Mail route, but is away out on the fringe of land that separates the Atlantic Ocean from the mainland of North Carolina, about 50 miles north of Cape Hatteras. Your covers should be there as early as possible.

Getting into the toe of your stocking you will find some few odds and ends left there by St. Nick himself. Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 17, special cachet. Covers to the Chamber of Commerce. Bellefonte, Pa., Dec. 18, covers to Kiwanis Club. Youngstown, McKeesport and possibly Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 17, covers to Mr. J. P. Penning, 124 E. Eugene Ave., Homestead, Pa. (See note elsewhere for full directions.) A very good chance is offered at Dayton, Ohio, home of the Wright Brothers and the scene of their early experiments. Covers to Chamber of Commerce.

Henry O. Meisel of Clintonville, Wis., is going to shoot down to Green Bay, Wis., and connect with the First Trip of CAM. Mr. Meisel writes that the Postmaster at Clintonville is trying for a special cachet for Dec. 15, but if not successful, the Chamber will do something. We don't envy Mr. Meisel that motorcycle trip one bit. However, if you want to get covers through, send them to Mr. Meisel, R. F. D. 4, Box 76 A, Clintonville, Wis.

A clipping, received from Mr. R. S. Daykin, taken from a Phoenix, Ariz., paper of recent date, makes the assertion that an Air Mail service between Los Angeles and Ft. Worth, with stops at Phoenix and El Paso, will begin operations on January 1, 1929.

Night Flying over CAM No. 25, Chicago-Atlanta, will go into effect about February 1, according to latest information.

Here is the latest list of "possibles," published by the Dept. of Commerce Airports, all of them. St. Johns and Phoenix, Ariz.; Lynwood and Temecula Calif.; Ft. Myers and St. Petersburg Fla.; Lake City, Ill.; Clarinda, Eustol and Ruston, La.; Andover and Southbridge, Mass.; Bessemer, Ewen and Gladstone, Mich.; Hibbing, Minn.; W. Yellowstone and Kalispell, Mont.; Las Vegas, N. Mex.; Lake George, Westport and Olean, N. Y.; Cliffside and Sanford N. C.; Westimber, Ore.; Sky Top Lodge (Monroe County), Pa.; Dennison, Tex.; Blacksburg and Charlotte, Va.; Riverton Wyo.; Los Moohis and Sinaloa, Mexico. If you haven't anything to do, get the "dope" and let us have it for the benefit of all readers!

However, leave out St. Petersburg, Fla., as I have just received word from the Chamber of Commerce, under date of Nov. 24, that their dedication date has not been definitely decided. Covers will get a cachet when the event takes place.

Harold Rosenthal and Ralph Moffett both send information that Douglas, Ariz., has postponed Airport Dedication until Feb. 16. A special cachet will be applied to all covers despatched and it is hoped the cachet will be official.

Hope Turkey won't interfere with the coöperators' list for week of November 27-Dec. 3! Everybody hot after news the past week! Wm. Esselen, Jr., Roger Morse, John W. Stanton, Wilfred T. Foster*, Henry O. Meisel, L. B. Gatch-

BEST AND CHEAPEST YET
UNITED STATES POSTAGE STAMPS

I have just been rearranging the whole of my summer purchase of United States stamps in a series of new books mounted to suit the requirement of the middle class collector as well as of the advanced specialist. These books are priced at very reasonable prices, mostly based on original cost, and largely ignoring catalogue.

I should be very happy to send any of them that are available to clients known to me or after the usual business references.

The following books are now ready. Let me know which issues you wish to see, when writing.

Book 1. 1847. 5c, 3 unused and in used 2 pairs, and about 25 singles.
10c. I have a pair and 15 singles, among these being the big double transfer in the word "Post Office".
" 2. 1851-56, 1c and 3c, in singles and pairs. The cheaper varieties.
" 3. 1851-56, 3c, 5c, 10c and 12c. Scarcer varieties and unusual items, such as in the 3c line through "three cents" on cover. 3c two positions of the cracked plate.
5c vertical strip of three, superb horizontal pair and several singles.
10c and 12c, a number of fine pairs.
" 4. 1851-56, 3c, 5c, 10c and 12c and
1857-60, 1c, cheaper varieties only.
" 5. 1857-60, 1c to 24c, scarce varieties in singles, pairs and strips.
" 6-7. The cheaper varieties of the issues from 1857 to 1867, inclusive.
" 8. 1857-62, Unused and scarce used. This book includes several fine blocks and a few plate numbers and imprints.
" 9. 1862-68, Unused and special used, the scarcer varieties. This book also includes a fine series in immaculate condition of the re-issues of 1875.
" 10. 1869, Unused and used, including some scarce imprints.
" 11. 1870-73, Unused only, including scarce strips with imprint and rare varieties.
" 12. 1873-82, Unused only, including a number of strips with imprint.
" 13. 1882-83, Unused only, many strips with imprint and some very rare items, one of the choicest being a strip of six of the 2c red-brown, special printing of 1882. This strip has the top margin and the middle pair of stamps is imperf. between vertically, probably unique in this condition.
" 14. 1873-88, Used stamps, including many scarce varieties.
" 15. 1870-73, All used, including many very scarce varieties.
The following three books contain rarities only:
" 16. 1857-62, Unused, including a number of very rare blocks and a few of the large 5c black Post Office, unused and used.
" 17. 1851, Strip of 3 on cover of the 5c, 1851, and many other very desirable pieces.
" 18. 1851-56, 1c scarce varieties, in singles, pairs and strips. Included here are no less than 5 copies of the 1c type 1a.

I also have 7 books of United States stamps on covers, scarce varieties only, including a number of exceptional items which I shall be glad to send on approval. [tf

MOLLY PITCHER VS. BUREAU PRINTS

By C. A. CARROLL.

Probably the only collectors who have greeted the late Molly Pitcher issue with genuine satisfaction have been the precancellists, particularly the specialists in Bureau Prints. These have greeted the issue with unfeigned glee and high enthusiasm, not because they will ever reach the albums of a precancel collector (in fact, this is one "commemorative" that is not likely to be precancelled by favor), but because many leaders in the hobby contend that it proves a very important point in their favor.

"We have maintained for a long time," says one leading Bureau Print specialist, "that every stamp that is overprinted in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is a legitimate variety of United States stamps. It bears all the authority of the Post Office Department, and because it is overprinted during the same operation that the stamp is manufactured, it most assuredly is both a legitimate and authoritative emission. That its use is restricted to permit holders in one particular city does not alter the essential character of the stamp. For that matter, an air mail stamp is restricted to use on air mail, but it is none the less a variety of U. S. postage.

"Now that the Department has precancelled our regular two cents stamp, both for the Hawaiian sesquicentennial and to commemorate the brave deeds of Molly Pitcher, it seems to me that our case is proved. Of course, the use of these two issues is unrestricted; but every phase of their manufacture is identical with that of the Bureau Print, and even the type is the same as the new Universal Type in the Bureau Print series. I can't see, for the life of me, how Scott can fail to give the Bureau Prints a place at least in the specialized catalog if he accepts the Hawaiian and Molly Pitcher overprints as standard varieties."

Probably this spokesman of his hobby has been led by excessive enthusiasm to jump at a conclusion, but one part of his contention is certainly true; the two recent commemoratives have been manufactured in the same identical manner as Bureau Prints. Their appearance is identical with the new Bureau Prints, with the exception of the bars, and numerous postal clerks who have not read their Daily Bulletins carefully, have held up mail stamped with the new stamps on the theory that the stamps were Bureau Printed precancels.

—The Aeronautics Conference at Washington will Have Special Cancel.

An International Civil Aeronautics Conference will be held in Washington, D. C., from December 12 to 14, and invitations sent out by the President to foreign governments to participate in this conference have been accepted by all the large countries.

In commemoration of this event, coming as it does on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the first successful flight of a heavier-than-air machine, the Department has authorized the use at Washington, D. C., in the temporary post office station to be placed in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building, a regular machine cancelling die, bearing an appropriate inscription, to be used on all air mail letters sent out from that station.

There has been authorized for use in the temporary post office station to be established at the International Aeronautical Exposition, Chicago, Ill., December 1 to 9, a special rubber hand stamp to be placed on all air mail letters sent out from that station during the period December 1 to 9.

EXCHANGING

As a constant and interested reader of MEKEEL'S for a good many years I was much interested in "Collecting by Exchanging" by Percy A. Hill. Having been building up my collection for about twenty years, mostly by exchanging, it has occurred to me that a word of testimony might not be amiss.

As one who collects with the amateur spirit, my first word is that I have been all along an exchanger.

As one's collection grows it becomes more and more difficult to add to it by exchanging, but the principal difficulty with me is not finding what I want, but getting the stuff to exchange. Some day I shall release some of the specialized pages in my U. S. and I will have some exchanging stock, but not yet.

Mr. Hill's experiences seem to have majored in unfortunate or unhappy endings, if I do not misjudge. This has not been my experience. Some of the greatest pleasures I have had in the pursuit of the hobby are in the friendships formed in exchanging and often with correspondents whom I have never met. Oh, yes, occasionally I have been stung and have met folks who do not play fair. But so does the dealer. I have had as unhappy deals in buying as ever I have had in exchanging.

I have always been a liberal taker, because mine is a general collection, and I gather blocks, strips, used pairs, shades and all the minor variations I can find. Interchanging I have built also a splendid precancel collection, U. S. and foreign revenues and cut squares.

I have and am still taking all sorts of mixture and allowing a very liberal allowance in exchange. I often find cancellations and other items I can use and the rest go into packets which I frequently have exchanged wholesale.

Finding correspondents is not always easy. Occasionally I have advertised for exchangers with good results. The best have come thru the mention of friends. I have taken this liberty and I think often helped correspondents.

No, it does not help the dealers very much, but to me exchanging is the ideal way of pursuing the hobby as a hobby only. It has done much for my collection and I hope the end is not yet.—REV. A. Z. MYERS, D. D.

WINNIPEG PHILATELIC SOCIETY

The programme of activities of the Winnipeg Philatelic Society for the season of 1928-1929 is a feast for the mind and eye. Beginning with October 31, 1928, every Wednesday night (with a single holiday exception), is assigned to entertainment of so varied and interesting a nature that we commend the resourcefulness of the Winnipeg philatelists. The programme is well worth filing as an example of how interesting a schedule of events may be. However the feature of the five-sheet list of meetings is the illustrations which show an originality and general ingenuity that must be seen to be appreciated. The artist who did the work must be given all credit for earnest application and active mentality. We suppose that some of the great critics could pick flaws with these pictures on the score of non-observance of some of the primary principles of art but to us they bespeak a genius that refuses to be trammeled by man-made rules. The success of the season in Winnipeg is assured by this programme which when once seen will not be forgotten, even though the beaver is somewhat, let us see, futuristic, we say just to show that we know something of art.

EDITORIAL

CHICAGO is taking time by the well-known forelock and already has organized a committee on committees to plan for the stamp exhibition that is to be held in that city in connection with the World's Fair, in 1933. A meeting has been held and steps taken to incorporate the Chicago International Philatelic Exhibition, 1933. The intention is to combine all the philatelic interests in Chicago in order to present a solid front and sweep on to ultimate accomplishment. The supposition is that the work will progress under the sanction of the Society for Philatelic Exhibitions, the American Stamp Dealers' Association and the American Philatelic Society; and it is felt that the regulatory influence of these bodies will be a valuable adjunct in promoting the plans. These societies are preparing rules for the uniform conduct of philatelic exhibitions so that a maximum of benefit in a public sense may be obtained. Chicago wants the national conventions in 1933, and being aware of the great amount of preparatory work necessary to achieve distinction is making an early start to map out a general campaign of action.

WE have seen letters from Germany asking that covers that were carried by the Zeppelin on its flight to this country be bought and returned to Germany at prices rather higher than those that were quoted here at first. A correspondent says that these out-going letters from Germany are increasing in popularity and that the demand for them there is greater than ever. The U. S. to Germany, Graf Zeppelins, are being shown in various shop-windows where they attract no little attention. Dr. S. Konwiser of Newark, New Jersey, has sent one of these covers for inspection, showing the cachet, "First Flight Air Mail, via Graf Zeppelin, United States-Germany, Oct. 28, 1928," flanked with representations of the two hemispheres. In this connection, he sends the advertisement of the great store of L. Bamberger & Co., of Newark: "Return flight covers carried on the Graf Zeppelin. These envelopes, especially designed by the Bamberger Stamp Department, were mailed to our foreign office, via the Graf Zeppelin, and have just been returned to this country on the Berengaria. On exhibition, and for sale at various prices, in the Book Shop." This is a bit of enterprise that collectors will commend. Different newspapers have shown cuts of these later covers, and all in all, it is seen that the Zepp flights captured the public fancy.

"APROPOS of the paragraph on the Swedish error of No. 1, in the catalogue, it is evident that the Chicago Abendpost's article that you quoted was based on an Associated Press despatch sent from Gothenburg, Sweden, saying that a copy of the great rarity has been bought by a philatelist of that city, John Ramberg, for 37,500 crowns," writes Mr. O. Udberg of Boston. What's a matter of 500 crowns between philatelists? The German paper named the price as 37,000 crowns.

THE information comes that the American Stamp Dealers' Association has sought and will soon secure a definition of "unsolicited approval sheets" in a legal as well as a working significance. When a rule is adopted generally by which cases involving this "bane of philately" are under scrutiny, they may be measured accurately. Supposedly, a satisfactory definition will be accepted by the American Philatelic Society, as well, and with a standard as a lever, the nuisance may be hoisted out of the way. With a guide showing a dividing line before us, there will be no excuse for overstepping it, and there will be little room for argument. There seems to be some elasticity to the term at present.

ONE of the most extraordinary newspaper editorials that we have ever read appeared in the Sun of New York, on November 15, 1928, under the heading "Precancels." It begins by citing the note in the annual of the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, containing the report of the National Museum, that acknowledges the receipt of "further" contributions to the precancel postage stamp collection by the Precancel Stamp Society, through its president. Then the flood-gates of scorn are opened and the luckless precancelled stamps and their exponents are swept away by the force of the verbal tide that sweeps down on them. The hopelessness of the task of the collector of these stamps is emphasized, and it is said that precancelled stamp collectors "know that dynasty of Methusalehs" could not complete the collection, in view of the multiplication of varieties. The astral shade of James Smithson is invoked, and its thoughts are sour in contemplating precancelled stamps as a means to "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." There is no disputing that the writer of the editorial knows something of his subject, but nevertheless, we should say that he is shooting at it with a gun whose bore is too big. Collectors are so schooled in the premise that they may give attention to any stamps that they select, that any argument to the contrary is rejected. Completion is not the sole aim of the collector who finds a pleasure in the process of collecting rather than in the attainment of the end, itself. Precancelled stamps represent a postal phase, and it is well to have a record of them as they are not without historic interest. It would seem that the Bureau prints, for instance, occupy a position of some importance viewed in any light. Whether or not the merits of precancelled stamps are such as to justify their place in the stamp section of the National Museum depends upon the point of view, but they are a record of the times in a postal sense, and on that score could be included without violating the spirit of the Institution.

AN old Chicago collector, Irving Dickinson, who served for years as secretary of the Chicago Philatelic Society, while mentally unbalanced threw himself from the tenth story of an office building, meeting the instant death that he courted. In his pocket a letter was found, which read to the effect that his friend, a local stamp dealer, could understand why he had been "driven to this dreadful deed." Mr. Dickinson was fifty-nine years of age, and over twenty years ago was a leader in Chicago's stamp circles. He was a keen collector and we remember particularly his prize-winning special collection of Scandinavians; and his interest in his secretarial duties in the C. P. S. was whole-hearted. Only recently, he had been collecting U. S., and got together a good lot, even though latterly, his enthusiasm for stamps was not so great as formerly. Mr. Dickinson was of alert and agreeable personality, and had established friendships with some of his city's collectors that endured through the years. Of a sensitive disposition, worries that descended upon him could not be dismissed, and he must have brooded over them until as he wrote that his mind was "nearly gone." Mr. Dickinson leaves two sons and a wife. Many of the older Chicago collectors will remember Irving Dickinson as the smiling secretary who gained a place in their affections, and his memory will never fade from the minds of some of them.

IN the New York Times of Nov. 21, 1928, Mr. Crane has one of his strikingly readable articles over a column in length. In it he weaves an interesting story of new issues the world over, which is topped off by a bit of philatelic philosophy that so squarely hits the mark that it must be presented here:

"The microscopical specialization of many collectors which constantly insists that the discovery of an additional dot, the minute breakage of a hair line or other minor changes not observable to the naked eye and which in no way alter the engraving of the main design should be listed as a new variety on the same basis as a legitimate new issue also plays a great part in this increasing volume of stamps to be recorded by the catalogue compilers. Some collectors are already feeling that the artistic and other simple pleasures derivable from the hobby of stamp gathering are being seriously curtailed by the inroads of excess commercialism and trivial technicalities.

As long, however, as certain collectors will cheerfully pay several dollars more for a stamp with one dot more or less than can be found on the general run of stamps of the same issue, the accumulation of eccentric varieties will doubtless go merrily on."

A GREAT PORTION OF THE "FERRARI" COLLECTION PURCHASED

The important portion of the collection of the late Marquis Ferrari de la Renotiere contains many countries and great rarities which were not in the collection commandeered by the French Government and sold in Paris — realising £300,000. Through the courtesy of Count Spingardi and Baron G. Massola—acting on behalf of the heirs and the Swiss Government—we have been fortunate in securing the first pick of the collection.

Mr. Ferrari had several nationalities, including Swiss, and when he died the Swiss Government considered him as a Swiss subject, and, therefore, imposed a huge death duty upon the heirs, amounting to nearly three million Swiss francs, seizing as security, stamps, money and all private property owned by Marquis Ferrari in Switzerland. For several years, the heirs and the Swiss Government did not agree and the collection of stamps had gradually been forgotten. An agreement, was, however, reached two months ago, and the heirs came into possession.

The countries by far the most interesting are the genuine specialised collections which Mr. Ferrari had been able to bring with him to Switzerland (it is well-known that he tried to bring to Switzerland all his collections, but he was not successful in doing so). It is not known if there was any particular reason why he had with him the collections of Greece, Sicily, Siam, etc., rather than any others, but most of these were in the transition stage, mounted on cards, with all his own notes. It is possible that he wished to re-arrange and transfer into albums.

The specialised collections include one of the "M" volumes: Monaco—a small lot with several copies of the first 5frs, two copies of the 1fr, first issue, imperf.—second issue 15c on cover, double printed—a forgery of the 40c, first issue, genuinely used on registered cover. Montenegro. An exceptional lot, bristling with uncatalogued errors and varieties, and, undoubtedly, the finest collection in the World of this country. Montserrat. (The only British Colony not disposed of in Paris.) This is a very fine lot, and includes a number of items not mentioned in the catalogue. All in magnificent mint condition.

Siam. A wonderful display, containing innumerable errors and rarities not included in the "Row" collection at the British Museum. Great Britain. Blacks and Blues, 1840, octagonals, mint, etc. Swiss, which is very strong, particularly in the 1854 Silk Thread issues in perfect mint condition. Spain. A magnificent, picked, single copy collection, including all the great rarities in mint condition, also a complete set of the "Habilitado" overprint.

Belgium. This includes perfect mint copies of the first issue and many other rarities. Sweden. Specialised collection, including about 6 each of all the values and papers of the "Skilling Banco" issue in fine shades. Mint, well-centered condition, also many pairs and strips on original letters. France. A complete collection in mint condition, 1849 1fr vermilion, 1fr carmine, 1852 10c bistre mint, 1853 1fr carmine. In the Bordeaux Issue 20c Blue, Type 1 and the 40c Scarlet Vermilion. 1c, Prussian Blue of 1877, etc., etc., including errors 15x10, 1872.

Sicily. This is a most important lot. It includes the famous error, ½gr blue, used on large piece and in superb condition. The error is fully described by Dr. Diena in his book. Originally, this was in a pair, but this was divided and one copy was sold to Prince Doria for his collection, which will certainly never come on the market. Also a complete mint sheet of the 10 grano and several important varieties; the 5gr double print, two copies, 2gr printed both sides; 1gr double print, second plate; a separate vertical pair from the corner of the sheet and a single used. All the rarest shades are represented by many copies, mostly in mint condition, as well as several retouched and many large blocks.

Greece. This is also a superb collection, in 7 volumes. There are three different collections of the first type, the stamps being arranged according to Yvert, Stanley Gibbons and Gelli. There are not blocks of the Paris Prints—but the first issue is represented by a complete set in strips of 4 unused—all showing the bottom margin with the inscription of the printer and address (the 40 Lepta does not show inscription). Almost all the copies are unused. There are hundreds of each value, and all the rare shades are represented of the 20 Lepta. 1st Athens print, there are not less than 6 copies. Perhaps the most important section is that of the errors of figure, which are many hundreds, in strips, also blocks, many not listed, and previously unknown like 1st Athens print 5 Lepta with inverted "5" (1st type). There are three copies of the rare variety 10 (figures) on face, which is considered by Pemberton the rarest error (S. G. 48a). The following issues show all perforations and overprints varieties. The Postage Dues include 1dr and 2dr, inverted center and some splits used on cover. The list of the specialised collections end with a superb lot of all the stamps issued in the Balkans during the War, e.g., Turkey (Lemnos, Cavalle, etc., etc.), including Albania, with over one hundred 1st type and all big rarities.

Roumania. All the Moldavia are there, including a very fine copy of the 81 mint. The whole of the German States are represented, but these cannot be considered as a very important section of the collection. Other countries represented are:—Japan, Norway, Holland, Portugal, Russia, Denmark, Finland, Luxembourg and a very fine lot of Italian States.

The Europe collection is exceedingly valuable, and contains many of the great rarities which were taken out of the "Paris" collection and forwarded to "Ferrari" in Switzerland during the War by Mr. Mahi, his philatelic secretary.

Charkhari

Of Indian Native States stamps we might mention that some of the most curious are those forming the first set for Charkhari issued in 1894. These stamps were printed singly from a single die which, we are told, was kept in the personal custody of the Maharajah. The letters "P O" in the upper corners signify Post Office and "B.C. INDIA" in the centre stands for Bundelkund, Central India. There were five values in the set, all of which were produced from the same die. This had a hole drilled before the word ANNA and the necessary denomination was plugged in this hole before printing. Charkhari is a state in Bundelkund, having an area of 703 square miles and a population of about 200,000. The State Post Office was inaugurated in 1893, and the five stamps issued in the following year. They were in existence for some time before they were generally known to collectors.—Philatelic Opinion.

SWISS 1928 "PRO JUVENTUTE"

Water on Postage Stamps

By B. W. H. Poole.

The liquid element, which comprises about three-quarters of the total surface of old Mother Earth, is shown in profusing array on postage stamps. From such a wealth of material it is possible to make but a small selection and the difficulty is to choose the most worthy and interesting.

However, we must give our own country pride of place and here undoubtedly first mention must be made of the Atlantic ocean in connection with the Columbian issue, where it is shown on several values. On the 12c 1869 we find a steamer on the ocean, while on the 1c of the Omaha issue we are shown the Mississippi—the father of waters. On the 1901 issue water is well represented for we are shown a steamer on one of the Great Lakes, the Niagara Falls and the Canal Locks at Saulte Ste. Marie. The Pacific ocean is shown on the 10c value of the Panama-Pacific issue and on this same series the Panama canal which connects the two great bodies of water, the Pacific and Atlantic oceans is depicted. On the Hudson-Fulton issue we are shown the Steamer Clermont on the River Hudson, while three of the stamps of the issue now current show New York harbor and the Niagara Falls as well as another view of San Francisco Bay. The sea is also shown on one of the parcel post stamps as well as on certain values of the Pilgrim, Huguenot-Walloon, and Norse-American issues.

Seascapes are particularly numerous like the pretty views on the ½p, 1p and 1sh values of Aitutaki, the harbor full of shipping on the 6p Jamaica, the docks of Port Rosario on the Argentine Republic 5c of 1902, the view of Valetta in the Mediterranean on the Malta 4p stamp of 1915, as well as those on such stamps as Papua, British Solomon Islands, Martinique, Uruguay, Barbados, Panama, China, Cuba, Dominica, Haiti, Ireland, Newfoundland, Porto Rico, New South Wales, Costa Rica, Brazil, etc.

Many rivers will be found, including the Euphrates on an Iraq stamp, the Nile on Egyptian issues, the St. Lawrence on a Canadian stamp, the Congo on stamps of the Congo Free State, and Brunei.

Waterfalls are very plentiful and will be found on certain stamps of British Guiana, Congo, the Colombian Republic, Newfoundland, Tonga, St. Helena, and Rhodesia, to mention only a few.

Then we may find a lake, as on New Zealand; a bay, as on Cape of Good Hope stamps; a strait, as in Greece; a gulf, as in Mexico; a spring, as on Nevis—in fact water, salt and fresh, is found in bewildering array in even the smallest general collection.—Philatelic Opinion.

How To Collect Stamps

By Paul Floyd Cornish.

When I was a boy of 11 wonderfu years I saw one day on the family mai a blue oblong stamp with the picture o of Columbus in sight of land. I save it in connection with my history stud and became interested in securing a many different kinds of stamps as could find. I lived in the country wher there were no other collectors, so my col lection grew slowly indeed. I mounte my stamps at the start in a small blan book and wrote the name of the countr at the top of the pages as I started eac new country. After a year or two moved near a young lady, who was collector and we spent some happy hour trading our duplicate stamps.

About this time I met a stamp deale who gave me some stamps and told m many things about collecting that wanted to know. I purchased my firs album with the pictures of stamps in an remounted my collection in the new al bum. Then I left my home and went t work in a new strange town where knew no one and had no friends. Her for two years my stamps were my con stant companions. Many pleasant hour I spent in sorting packets and mixture for new varieties of stamps. I begar to buy stamps from approval selections sent to me by dealers. I took grea pleasure in looking over these approva lots and adding new kinds to my col lection. I secured my stamp hinges fron the stamp firms who sold me stamps.

Then I left the country and went to a large city where I met several collector and stamp dealers. I always collecte stamps in a general way. That is I add ed all kinds of stamps to my collection I always collected singles, pairs, block and strips both used and unused of al countries. I collected envelope stamps revenues, precancels, plate numbers an cancellations. Some of my friends pre ferred to collect from one or two certain countries or perhaps one class of stamps only, but I found that a general collection was the most valuable, when offered for sale.

I made one fine collection in a blank loose leaf book which I purchased at a book store. Where the rings went through the leaves I glued a small piece of cloth over the edge of the leaf and re-punched the holes in the cloth. This homemade album gave fine service for several years and could be enlarged at any time. I have also used several kinds of the larger printed albums.

I found that a study of a standard stamp catalogue was of a great benefit to me in learning many things about stamps. In the purchase of packets and mixtures I found that I obtained many duplicate stamps. These I made up into packets for exchanging with other collectors. Some of these exchange packets I sent to collectors in other countries vho sent me in return some very fine tamps.

I have often found stamp collecting a estful change from other work. Dur- ng stormy days and long winter even- ngs I have spent many a pleasant hour vith my stamps. They are always eady to entertain me and take up but ittle room. It is an art to arrange tamps neatly and to harmonize colors. Stamp collecting teaches one about the lifferent kinds of paper and how they re made. It will impress upon your nemory important facts about the his- ory and government of different coun- ries. Much of their progress in the rts and sciences can be learned from the tamp issues of each country. Stamp col- ecting has taken me on some interesting rips into the large cities. It has helped ne to form some valued friendships. It as led me to explore old attics and torerooms among old trunks and boxes n search of letters and papers bearing ld and rare stamps. I have sold stamps s an agent for reliable stamp firms and nade a nice lot of money in this pleasant vay which has aided me in building up ny own collection.

I have subscribed to several good tamp papers and from them I have ained much information about stamps nd stamp dealers. I have learned that vatermarks shown on the back of stamps re made by the paper making machines n the paper to prevent the counterfeiting f stamps. That holes are punched in tamps by firms to prevent their being tolen. That perforations are holes unched between stamps so that they can e readily separated. Imperforate stamps re those without holes at the edges. 'hat fancy and odd cancellations on old J. S. stamps make them eagerly sought fter by cancellation collectors who will ay high prices for rare designs. That tamps with the names of cities printed n the front are precancelled to save 'ork in the post office and can be used nly in the city that they are printed for. 'late numbers are printed on the edge f sheets of stamps to keep a record of ne sheets that are printed. A collection f these numbers both used and unused re of valuable interest.

Original covers are envelopes and rappers with used stamps on. A fine ollection of these can be made of all inds of stamps from all the different ountries. Rare stamps, especially of the J. S. are much more valuable if kept n the covers where they were first sed. Mint O. G. stamps are those hich have a perfect gum on the back nd have not been used. Commemora- ve stamps are picture stamps issued to elebrate some discovery or event. They re the most instructive and beautiful f all stamps and look well in a collec- on. Revenue stamps are used to collect noney from their use. There are a great nany kinds of these interesting stamps nd they always add to the value of a ollection.

Prices for stamps in the catalogues re not a fixed standard but are a guide o values that are always changing. ome stamps are worth one-half cata- gue price, others full catalogue price, hile others are worth more than full talogue price. Prices depend on many ings that change every year. Good ean stamps are sure to increase in value the years go by. Collect the stamps ou like best. Be your own guide and ounselor. Buy the stamps you can af- rd to pay for. Deal honestly and fairly with dealers and collectors. Measure all your stamps with the golden rule and you will find much to enjoy in your stamp collection for many years.

be considered in their collection. I suggest the inclusion of these issues in every Bureau Print collection. Perhaps the precancel collector will prefer to mount them as cut squares, or cut two by four inches. I suggest the latter as the more practical.

From the above brief survey of the developments in the field of government printed precancels, it can be readily seen by readers that a fascinating branch of philately lies open, which can be followed at slight expense, with much pleasure and profit. In order to further acquaint you with the charm of Bureau Prints, the editor of this department will be glad to furnish a complimentary packet of these stamps, containing over 100 obsolete varieties, for a start if you are sufficiently interested.

In the next issue a complete account will be given of all new varieties of Bureau Prints that have appeared or been ordered since July.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW

FREDERICK W. ALLEN, Editor, 401 Oak Street, SE., Minneapolis, Minn.

GA.

During the summer months the editor of this department finds it difficult to keep apace with the movements of the precancel new issues. For that reason it has been over three months since the last installment of the "Review." Readers may, however, look for its appearance at least once every three weeks or possibly every fortnight, from now on.

Because Bureau Prints are popular with nearly every collector of precancels, and becoming esteemed by collectors of regular postage stamps, we shall consider in this article the numerous changes that have taken place in that field.

The official cataloguing of Bureau Prints is done by Dr. W. I. Mitchell of Berkeley, Calif., who is the recognized authority. The catalog, a small pamphlet, is published by the Gossip Printery of Holton, Kansas. The present edition, the third, appeared in April, 1928. The fourth will appear in January, 1929.

The Bureau Print specialist today has four changes in the field of the present issue to consider if he is to collect intelligently and with profit to himself. These are as follow:

1. Change of perforation on the rotary press stamps, which are the only ones precancelled at the Bureau.
2. Change of styles of overprint.
3. Change of rates on printed matter.
4. The precancelling of Government envelopes by the official contractor.

I. The Perforation Change

When the precancelling of the rotary stamps was instigated the perforation employed was ten perforations to each twenty millimeters of space. It was several years before experimentation by the government, to solve the próblem of the stamps tearing across the face when being torn apart, decided that the practical perforation was the compound one which we term "11 x 10½." As a result of this change, many perforated 10 Bureaus have become scarce. Chief among these are: Dallas 4c; Scranton 4, 9c; Columbus 4c; Newark 4, 6, 9c; New Orleans 6, 7, 8c; Indianapolis 9c; Atlanta 7, 9c and Boston 9c. It will not surprise me to see all of these stamps bringing over a dollar each in a few years.

II. The Style Change

It was not until early this year that the Bureau adopted a standardized overprinting in a uniform style. There were seven distinct varieties in the entire field of Bureaus prior to this time, not counting the 1916 Experimental type. This standard precancellation appears in two or three lines, depending upon the length of the city name.

CHICAGO ILL.

The following cities are to be found in the two line set up, illustrated by the Chicago overprint: Oakland, Muncie, Baltimore, Detroit, Framingham, Minneapolis, Omaha, Camden, Brooklyn, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Scranton, Warren, Columbia, S. C., Dallas, Huntington, Boston, Richmond, Va., Milwaukee, and Brockton.

The three line set up, as shown by San Francisco is now in use on many denominations at the following offices: New York City, Kansas City, Saint Paul, Port Washington, Wis., and Los Angeles.

To the great surprise of all, there appeared early this summer a genuine error in spelling on the 1½c and 8c Milwaukee. The "MIKWAUKEE" error, occurring twice on each sheet of 100, was first discovered by Dr. W. R. Hiller of Minneapolis. He immediately communicated his discovery to the Bureau and the old plate, which had been used for these two denominations only, was destroyed. A number of the 1½c, which is far more plentiful than the 8c, have changed hands at $2.00 each. On this basis the 8c should be worth about $10.00.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing sets up a form in type, of the overprint—repeating the subject (for the ordinary stamps), 50 times in five rows of ten each. This form is then used to make a matrix from which the rolls are cast. In making the form for the new Milwaukee overprint a "K" was substituted for an "L" on one of the 50 subjects. Thus the overprint occurs twice in each sheet.

III. The Rate Change

Section 435½ P. L. & R., permitting printed matter to be mailed under a one cent rate, has effected an important change which will necessitate a price readjustment of many Bureau precancels. The 1c coil variety from Manville, N. J. furnishes the most striking example. This stamp has heretofore been extremely scarce as it has carried mail matter to foreign countries and few copies ever found their way back. $3.00 has been willingly paid for a specimen during the past year, but 25c will be more in line under the new rate, for the 1½c Manville has been a common Bureau Print. The 1½c will, of course, be discontinued in favor of the 1c.

1½c Bureau precancels in the new perforation will, in some cases, rise rapidly in value. For instance, I expect the following to turn out to be mighty scarce in a few years: Birmingham, Bridgeport, New Haven, Batavia, Muncie, South Bend, Davenport, Sioux City, Girard, Waterloo, Wichita, Worcester, Battle Creek, Saginaw, Hastings, Kokomo, Jersey City, Omaha—both types, Rochester, Oklahoma City, Dallas, Houston, and Wheeling. The 1½c coils will bear watching as this fractional value will hardly be requested on any future orders from the Bureau.

IV. Precancelled Government Envelopes

The illustrations at the beginning of this article exemplify the style of overprinting which probably will have little deviation. In a recent number of this paper Mr. Ward explained the awarding of the envelope contract, and the provisions for precancelling them. I expect to see hundreds of offices stocking them. To date (October 15th), but four have come to my attention—Atlanta, Fresno, Philadelphia, and Perry, N. Y. The only denomination will presumably be the one cent. Watermarks and dies will have to Jarzembowski. Pretty good work, I'll say! Twenty-nine in all. Let's break through the 30 mark for the week ending December 22.

The First Flights over the new route, CAM No. 30, went through on schedule and covers received back from the various points carry one of the most attractive cachets used on a CAM route so far. Although a trifle large, the cachets indicate that someone put a lot of thought into the design and I believe that collectors are exceptionally well pleased with this particular effort. I note that the letter "I" in "Champaign" was missing in the cachet applied to all my covers mailed from this point. Also that all my covers from Terre Haute to Chicago were backstamped Denver, Colo., on the 20th and Chicago on the 21st. Must have been a slip somewhere, as other collectors report the same backstamp. Round Trip covers went through 100% perfect!

December 17 will be celebrated on CAM No. 11 and a special cachet will be applied to Air Mail at McKeesport and Youngstown, by the contractor. There has been a long drawn out argument at the Pittsburgh P. O. relative to accepting covers bearing any cachet previously applied by the contractor, but if someone in authority can get this bunch together, it is possible that this point will be included. J. P. Penning advises he will handle collectors' covers for them and will also secure and affix the new 5c Wright stamp to covers sent him accompanied by postal order or draft for the necessary postage. No stamps, personal checks, or pants buttons! Postal order or draft. Mr. Penning's address is given above.

Page Dr. Stork! "An Air Mail trip from Colombia to Ecuador is the experience of a 7-month-old baby delivered here today from Cali, Colombia. Outside of a little whimpering, the baby arrived in excellent condition and passed the customs without difficulty." American Press despatch dated at Guayaquil, Ecuador, Nov. 26.

The cachet used at Chicago during the International Aeronautics Exposition, December 1 to 9, was official. The sanction for its use came through the Post Office Dept. and its application to covers was handled by the Chicago Post Office. Collectors are indebted to Hon. W. Irving Glover for his interest in their behalf in connection with the above cachet, as well as that to be used in Washington and at Kitty Hawk.

Several collectors have written that both Cleburne, Tex., and Philadelphia, Pa., fell down on the use of any cachet for their respective events. It is surprising that the Aero Club of Phil. failed to apply any special impression to covers, for their interest in Aeronautics dates back to the days when there "wan't no sich critter."

One of the "Round the World cover fans," Nelson F. Gerken, writes that he recently received back into his hands a cover mailed from Washington on Aug. 13 and franked with the (then) new Hawaiian issue, that made the circuit of the World in just 81 days and 20 hours. The cover went first to Sydney, N. S. W., and thence on its journey. If there are any more "Round the World fans" among my readers, they may get in touch with Mr. Gerken at 4859 Labadie Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Buffalo, N. Y., postal employees received quite a jolt recently when a telephone call came in asking how many Air Mail stamps they had on hand. A "wise-cracking" clerk made the reply that they had plenty, probably considerably more than the inquirer would ever need in his full life time. "That's fine," came the reply over the telephone, "I'll need just 188,000 in the next few days!" After the clerk had been revived, it was learned that the Roycrofters of East Aurora, N. Y., were making a special mailing of 188,000 letters, all to go by Air Mail. The load totaled three tons in weight and was despatched on November 23 and 24. I have a cover from that point and date which carries an impression in four lines, reading "Buffalo's Largest—Air Mail Shipment—of Three Ton—Nov. 23rd-24th." Not official.

The first Monday service over CAM No. 8 became effective on December 3, the schedule heretofore omitting Mondays. A cachet was applied to covers mailed from Los Angeles and Seattle, report of which will be given next week. Owing to the fact that the decision to apply a cachet was held up until only a couple of weeks before the First Monday Trip, no advance notice could be given collectors through this column. Albert N. Brown hustled a letter through, but it arrived a few days too late.

Harry R. Wagner writes that the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce will apply a special cachet to Air Mail covers on Dec. 17. (See above.) Mr. Wagner, 7718 Hough Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, offers to handle covers for collectors if they wish, but the covers must be ready for mailing.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) LEXINGTON, MASS.

U. S. DEPARTMENTS

My stock consists not only of a wonderful assortment of U. S. postage and revenues, including singles and blocks, but at the present time I have on hand an extremely fine assortment of Department stamps. I can furnish single mint copies of every listed main variety, and most of them in shades. While I have on hand none of the rarer blocks, as these generally move when they come to hand, nevertheless, I have upward of forty to fifty varieties in block form, including blocks worth up to $50 each. If you are anxious to fill in these issues, now is the time to buy such rarities as the dollar States, the higher Justice, the 1c. Agriculture on soft paper, the 24c Interior in like condition, etc.

As usual, I am always a buyer of the type of stamps that I offer for sale, hence, am extremely anxious to purchase important properties or single individual pieces, in the way of Department issues. I also want covers, but these are preferred on the small cover rather than on the large official envelope.

My stock of used Departments is quite satisfactory, and while I cannot offer all of the rarities in used condition, I can offer a nice lot of used blocks, as well as unusual cancellations.

United States

Kitty Hawk Stamps

The Second Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. Warren Irving Glover, in writing to postmasters under date of November 23rd, calls their attention to the fact that the International Civil Aeronautics Conference will be held in Washington, from December 12th to 14th, and that invitations have been sent out by President Coolidge to foreign countries to participate in this Conference. So far, thirty-six have accepted, including all of the large countries.

Mr. Glover in writing of the event makes the following statement:

"In commemoration of this event, coming as it does on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the first successful flight of a heavier-than-air machine, the department has authorised the use at Washington, D. C., in the temporary post office station to be placed in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building, a regular machine canceling die, bearing an appropriate inscription, to be used on all air mail letters sent out from that station.

There has been authorized for use in the temporary post office station to be established at the International Aeronautical Exposition, Chicago, Ill., December 1 to 9, a special rubber hand stamp to be placed on all air-mail letters sent out from that station during the period December 1 to 9.

In connection with the above, exercises will be held at Kitty Hawk, N. C., incident to the laying of the corner stone in memory of the flight made by the Wright Brothers, on December 17, 1903. There will be a special cachet used by the postmaster at Kitty Hawk on all air-mail covers sent out from his office on December 17."

The new 2-cent and 5-cent stamps previously described in this column, will be on sale at the special branch post office, as well as the Philatelic Agency, where all orders should be addressed. The post office has not as yet announced that the new stamps will be on sale at Kitty Hawk, N. C., on December 17th, but it is assumed that the postmaster at that point will have them available on the day of the laying of the corner stone.

Postage Stamp Plate Numbers

Through the courtesy of Mr. A. W. Hall, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, we are enabled to bring our list of plate numbers up to November 20, 1928.

Plate No.	Denom.	Class Ordinary	Series.	Subjs.

19640-643	5c Air Mail Border	"	1928	100

* Curved.

It will be noted that practically all of the new plates are of the air mail type. As previously stated, the demand is far exceeding the supply, and as fast as the Bureau completes the plates, they are put to press. Watch for an inverted center, for it would not be surprising to see one appear in the stocks of one of the post offices.

New Gum On Stamps

The Department has been receiving so many complaints, due to the fact that postage stamps are not sticking to the mails, that recently the Bureau of Standards and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing have been experimenting with gums in the hopes that a satisfactory one might be produced. It is the gum applied to the rotary stamps that seems to be giving the trouble, for there was no complaint in the case of the flat plate variety. Some of the gum that has been used here of late, has no doubt, affected the paper in some cases, for stamps of smaller design have been noted, due, no doubt, to the shrinkage of the paper, caused probably by the the type of gum used. The Bureau has made no new dies, hence, it would be impossible to have smaller stamps, so that this difference is caused by the shrinkage mentioned.

11 Cent Hayes Green

The attention of our readers has been called on several occasions to the fact that the current 11-cent stamp showing portrait of Hayes, has appeared in a green shade, different from the light and dark peacock blue, that has been used heretofore. Mr. Howard G. Stuart has just sent for inspection a copy of this stamp in a darker shade of green, so is likely that two printings were made the new color, or else some of the plat were much more heavily inked.

Special Cancellations

Last week attention was called to t fact that Washington had authorized t discontinuance of the special cancellatic used on registered mail by the post offi at Appleton, Wisconsin. Mr. A. W. Bo now writes that they have been forced discontinue the special "Hopi Indian used on registered mail at Phoeni Arizona.

The Postal Bulletin of November 20 carries a communication from the Thir Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. Rol ert S. Regar, calling the attention postmasters to the fact that special ca celling stamps are not permitted, and th post offices are only to use such cance lors as have been authorized by t department.

It looks for the time being at leas that the many interesting and special ca cellations used on registered mail throug out the country, will be discontinue Possibly in several months when t ruling has been forgotten, an office he or there will pop up with a new cancello story concerning its issue in The Dominion newspaper of August 11, 1928:

"It appeared on June 8, 1927, on which day two sheets of 6d were issued over the counter at Wellington G. P. O., in each of which one line of comb perforation was missed—resulting in a horizontal row of 12 stamps, each imperf. at sides and bottom; and one row of 12 stamps across, imperf. at top only.

From these sheets the imperforate stamps were separated into ten blocks of four stamps each, and one block of eight stamps; it is the only block of eight in existence and should eventually prove extremely valuable.

About three weeks later it became known that a similar sheet had been on issue at the opposite counter, from which a block of six stamps had been secured, the remainder being sold to the general public and apparently lost. New Zealand collectors are strongly advised to keep a lookout for this stamp—especially used on a piece, as it is just possible a copy or two may come to light somewhere. In years to come it should prove a rarity of great price.

Another imperforate stamp of which no record appears to have been made is the halfpenny green Georgian, which appeared in a sheet issued at Masterton Post Office early this year, in which the top row of twelve stamps was imperforate along the top only."

It will be noted that the last paragraph cites the ½d, but this is only imperforate at top, and "part perfs." are not usually given catalogue rank—there are too many of them.—Philatelic Magazine.

Persia.—Aerials.—Mr. G. Wilson, of Tunbridge Wells, kindly informs us, with regard to the new Persian air stamps, that he hears from Persia that the following values have been issued:—3kr yellow-brown, 5kr brown, 1 Tou. violet, 2 Tou. olive, 3 Tou. deep green. These have taken the place of the corresponding values of the 1927 set, and other values will be similarly replaced as they become exhausted. Mr. Wilson has the set of five all with "Poste aérien" (instead of "aérienne") overprinted on stamps similar to those of the 1925, Deposition of Shah, S.G. Type 94.—Stamp Collecting.

Sierra Leone.—We have to thank Mr. H. B. Renton for the information, received by him from Mr. A. R. Anderson in Sierra Leone, that the "obsolescent" values, viz. 7d, 9d, 10d, and £2, were still on sale at the counter of Freetown P. O. on October 5th.

Of the £5 no positive information is forthcoming at the moment.

"This will contradict those dealers who are stating that the £2 is obsolete—and charging for it as such!" says Mr. Renton.—Stamp Collecting.

South West Africa.—We learn from the South African Philatelist that the one pound stamp with "S. W. A." overprint is now obsolete, and promises to become a rarity, as only a small number were overprinted. The "missing stop after 'a'" variety in this stamp is an item well worth having.

Union of South Africa.—The South African Philatelist reports that a new forme was recently made to manufacture official stamps. It differs from the original overprint in that there are no stops after words OFFICIAL and OFFISIEEL. In addition the distance between the words is slightly less than before. The new overprint has so far only been noted on the 6p value.

INDICTED FOR MISUSE OF MAILS

Ellery K. Richards, 757 Middlesex Street, Lowell, was indicted Nov. 23, at Boston, by the federal grand jury on the charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with having stamp dealers of Boston, New York, and other cities send him stamps for which he promised to pay. It is alleged by the government that he received the stamps, but that he failed to pay for them. This alleged scheme to defraud, according to the indictment, commenced on July 2, 1927, and continued up to the time the indictment was returned against him. According to Assistant U. S. Attorney John C. Spaulding, Richards unlawfully received about $500 by his scheme to defraud. Spaulding also said that after he got the stamps he would send a letter purporting to contain a cheque for the stamps, but the dealers did not get the cheques. This Richards is only 18 years of age.

ELLIOTT STAMP SHOP

Elliott M. Walton, who is well and favorably known to the stamp trade in New York City, has opened a stamp shop in the very heart of the stamp district, 81 Nassau St., where he will cater to the collector as well as he has catered to the dealer for the past six years. Mr. Walton is a member of the A. P. S. and the A. S. D. A., having been connected with these organizations for some years. The new business will be operated under the name of the Elliott Stamp Shop, and we bespeak an inspection and patronage of the firm's announcement elsewhere in this issue.

PHILATELIC PHOLLIES of 1928

MODERN REGISTRATION CANCELLATIONS

By Whositt.

The above depicts an American pastoral scene of the early —ties, gleaned from a careful study (?) of our "Modern Registration Cancellations." While this illustration is mere black and white, let your eye for color riot its riotest, as the above creations come in all of our best Rayon shades.

At the left we see in the distance the wide expanse of the Toomucha Mocha Desert, walled in on the West (as indicated by the slowly sinking sun, as yet unsunk) by ponderous piles of pinkish porphyry. Note the smiling sun taking a last "itstolaf" peep at the passing show, . . . Old Sol, Sisal, Noseall, if I make myself clear. Aloft are three buzzards, lazily flitting—and hoping, while yet above, are two black crows, who spend much of their time on the air.

But to the picture.

The star, No. 1, is a reversible affair, when in the East it is Alton, N. H., and West at Pueblo, Colorado. Over in the old apple tree (same being told by the apple) is stock for this season's cider mill. and this cow (a true purple cow, so take a good look at her if you never saw one), is provided with a white blanket for the snake dancer to do his stuff on. She has turned her back on the apple, as a ton of apples (Appleton, Wisconsin, No. 2) is too much for this well fed critter. Too, the sly maverick, in spite of her apparent innocent demeanor, has her wily glance focused on the ton of corn, which blew over into this field from Fairfield, Iowa, No. 8.

Will the cowboy on the bucking broncho, No. 5, who has galloped all the way from Prescott, Arizona, allow this bovine from Genesee Depot, Wisconsin, No. 4, to eat that little ear of corn? He will not.

He has just unlimbered his trusty lariat, and as you see, he tosses a mean loop the loop. It appears like a perfect cast, not even interfering with the Smoki Indian, No. 3, who has to practice his snake dance somewhere, doesn't he? and he and the cowboy are both members of the same lodge—Prescott, Arizona. The cowboy's Prescott hat, No. 7, has fallen down in the excitement; but what cares he; to swing down from the saddle and retrieve it is one of his best stunts—if the hill isn't too steep.

Way down at the lower left we see Clarksdale, Arizona, with its copper smelter, No. 6. A good strong Mah Jong east wind has kindly wafted the smoke and fumes far from our rural denizens, otherwise this picture would be a fade-out—a sad contemplation, surely.

At lower right we have the lazy "O," No. 9; if upright, this would signify we were nearing Oberlin, Ohio. This cancellation may soon be discontinued, we are given to understand, the reason, while not given, is probably because goose eggs are unpopular in any college town during the football season.

Inside the lazy O are seen two of the offspring of the Yale Bull Dog, No. 10, as he holds forth at New Haven, Connecticut.

Stop Press. Just as we go to press, a thing that looks like a high tension layout, or a coarse tooth comb, has arrived. Not to leave the unwieldy thing out of this picture, it assumes the position of a fence, No. 11, behind the cow and Indian. It was produced far from this sunny desert, where fences do injury to the scenery, yet there it is, a monument to the fair city of Hoboken, New Jersey.

Now about these Registry Cancellations, after all is said and done!

COLLECTORS CLUB, N. Y.

Special Exhibit of Confederate States, Locals and General Issues

Reported by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

On Wednesday, November 21st, there was a large gathering of the Club to inspect the fine old collection of Confederate States formed by Mr. Henry C. Needham during the last 25 years.

The sheets were large and very numerous, far too many to be shown in the frames, so they were exhibited in three large volumes which were explained by Mr. Eugene Costales, and afterwards examined by groups of members who were specially interested.

The wealth of the local stamps was an eye opener to the members present, and many very interesting and uncommon items were shown. Among the well-known adhesive local stamps were the following:

Athens.—5c dull purple, one exceptional piece was in the very dark color in magnificent condition such as is seldom seen. Amongst the ordinary color there were 3 singles, and 2 pairs mostly on letters. Also a very fine copy on cover of the very rare 5c red.

Baton Rouge.—First type, short stamp, 5c green and carmine, a single and one on cover. In the larger stamps there was one single and 5 on covers, including one error of spelling.

Beaumont.—The rare 10c black on pink was shown in a fine copy.

Charleston.—A strong group consisting of 4 singles, 6 others on covers, and 2 pairs on covers, these pairs being very scarce. The 5c envelopes were a fine lot on all papers.

Columbia.—Six covers on different papers and several copies with the Post Office design both on the front and on the back.

Danville.—On cover cut to shape of the design as is so often the case.

Fincastle.—This stamp is not catalogued, but was in the Ferrary sale and is a 10c black on buff cover, and Mr. Needham has to a considerable extent proved the genuineness of it by finding similar cancellations on stamps of the general issues of the Confederate States.

Fredericksburg.—5c blue, a sheet of 20 unused and on covers 2 singles and a pair, the latter being very unusual. In the scarce 10c red on bluish there are 2 copies, unused, as usual.

Jonesboro.—Here there are two covers on the white and the buff paper.

Knoxville.—Three stamps are shown on covers, one tied on. There are also two envelopes on different papers.

509 7th St., N. W. H. A. ROBINETTE (Successor), Washington, D. C.

I would like to draw attention here to the price in the Scott catalogue of $50.00 for Knoxville used. The various shades of the Nashville are priced $60.00 each, used, whereas, in my experience, the Knoxville is five to ten times as rare as the Nashville.

Lenoir.—Two copies on cover, one very nicely tied on with the postmark, which is very unusual, as they are usually penstroked.

Lynchburg.—A fine pair of the blue stamps on cover, very unusual.

Macon.—This is a very fine group. There are a number of copies of type A1 both on and off covers. Type A3, 5c yellow is represented by two singles and a pair, the latter beautifully tied on, and the rarer type A2 by a fine copy tied on cover.

Marion.—This rare local is represented by a beautiful 5c on cover.

Memphis.—Here there are a considerable number of blocks of unused 2c, including a magnificent block of the rare indigo or dark blue. Of the 5c red, unused, there is a fine block of 7, and a number of singles. In the used 5c red, there are no less than 13 on covers and 2 pairs.

Mobile.—2c black is represented by 2 singles and a magnificent pair on cover, an exceedingly rare item. The 5c blue, a very large number of these are shown, including a pair and a strip of 3, and many covers.

Nashville.—Two beautiful pages of shades. First of all there are 4 stamps with the Adams Express cancellation, and then about 22 single copies and 4 pairs, many of them being very scarce shades. The rare 10c green is represented by a single and by another copy on cover.

New Orleans.—2c blue, a very fine lot, especially strong in the used. One beautiful copy showing a large portion of the upper imprint. On covers, the 2c blue is represented by 3 singles and a pair. The 2c red used, includes 4 singles and one on cover. In the 5c brown on the different papers, there is a fine block of 4 on the blue paper of which, I believe, only one other block is known, and a very large number of pairs, strips, stamps on cover, pairs and strips with imprints, and many scarce combinations.

Petersburg.—First of all there is the setting of ten types all used on pieces of the original envelope. Also in this fine stamp there are 7 singles and a pair on cover.

Pittsylvania.—A good copy on cover, but cut octagonally.

Pleasant Shade.—5c blue, a very fine unused copy of this very rare stamp.

Rheatown.—Two copies, pen-stroked, as usual.

Spartanburg.—5c black on cover tied on.

Tellico Plains.—A strip composed of two 5c and a 10c stamp, unused.

Uniontown.—5c green and 5c green on blue, 2 fine copies on covers.

The General Issues were very strong, but space will hardly allow an adequate description. I can only mention a few of the outstanding pieces.

In the 1861 lithographed, there were some beautiful used strips of the 5c green and several unused blocks of four.

CHAS. J. PHILLIPS.
Reporting the Collectors Club's Regular Monthly Stamp Exhibitions.

In the 10c blue there was an entire sheet of the Hoyer & Ludwig with imprints in very fine condition and a fine bright color.

In the rare 10c rose the outstanding pieces were a block of 4 unused, 3 unused pairs, and a wonderful strip of 3 with the imprint from the bottom of the sheet.

In the used stamps I noted 3 of the rare carmine-rose and also a used specimen with imprint.

1863, 2c brown-red. Some beautiful strips of 5 used, both with blue and with red cancellations.

In the Lithographed 2c green there was a strip of 5 on cover and a strip of 3 on another cover, something apparently having been torn off this latter. Here also was one of the rarest pieces of the collection, a vertical pair of the 2c yellow-green postmarked Richmond, dated, July 25, 1862. This real yellow-green is exceedingly rare and very few are known.

The weak part of the collection appears to be the "Ten cents" blue and the "Ten cents" with frame line. Mr. Needham tells me that he parted with most of his frame lines some years ago to Mr. Ashbrook, which accounts for the few seen in the collection.

The exhibit ended by the display of one book consisting entirely of Prisoners' Letters, some of the most interesting being a couple of letters from the prisons on Governor's Island, New York.

AIR MAIL STAMPED ENVELOPE

About January first the Government will issue a new five cent stamped envelope. The envelope has the red and blue border like the commercial air mail envelope which has been in use for the past year. The die shows an airplane in flight and is printed in blue.

Every collector of first day of issue or first flight air mail covers will want one of these envelopes mailed on the day of issue.

We understand that it is very probable that the Philatelic Agency will not address these new envelopes for collectors. It is simply physically impossible for the Agency to do this.

If such becomes the case, it will be necessary that those who want first day covers have an agent in Washington to address them. We offer our services, and will supply the envelopes mailed on day of issue as follows

One envelope	30c
Five or more envelopes, to different addresses	20c each
Ten or more envelopes to same address	15c each
50 or 100 envelopes to same address	10c each

Unused envelopes will be supplied as soon as possible after placed on sale at 20c for one, $1.25 for 10, $10.00 for 100.

STOWAWAYS

Most dealers get occasional surprises in going over their stocks. They "fall" for some nice lot of stamps out of their usual line, tuck them away for future use, and then forget all about them. Perhaps years later the stamps turn up and the dealer wonders where they came from.

Scarce U. S. Pieces

These are relatively fine things; all very unusual in some ways but having technical weaknesses making their actual market values but a fraction of their apparent worth. All are fresh and sound; only the extreme "condition crank" would find fault with any of them. We believe any one of them would be a fair buy at double these prices.

Stamp Snake

—An Original Method of Mounting Your Stamp Collection. Try It?

If used postage stamps are rescued from the wastepaper basket they can be turned into a stamp snake.

First you must collect quite a lot of stamps, cutting them as neatly as possible from the envelopes. Then get a piece of round elastic and make a big knot about two inches from one end—this bit forms the snake's tail. Pierce a small hole through the middle of each stamp, and thread them on the elastic.

There is no need to finish your snake at once; you can add more and more stamps as you find them, providing the elastic is long enough. When you think it is sufficiently big you must make the head. This is just a large button on which you have sewn two glittering glass beads to form the eyes. Thread the elastic through one of the holes in the button and fasten it with a knot, leaving a little end to make the snake's tongue.

When you want to see your snake wriggle, put him on the table, draw out both ends of the elastic, and then suddenly let them go. He will jump into the air, and creep and wriggle, just like a real serpent.

Penn-Ohio

—Newcastle Takes the Lead in Organizing a Sectional Society.

By D. H. HENNON.

On Nov. 23, members of the various stamp clubs in the vicinity of Newcastle, Pa., met at the local Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of promoting the interest in stamp collecting in that section. J. R. Dunfee of the Newcastle Club welcomed the out-of-town visitors.

It was voted that an organization be formed to be called the Penn-Ohio Stamp Club Association. The election of officers resulted J. R. Dunfee being chosen president, and Fred W. Mattle secretary-treasurer. The Association will meet at least twice a year in Newcastle.

One of the features of the meeting was the exhibition by L. J. Shaughnessy, Sharon, Pa., of a specialized collection of the 3c 1851. A large number of local philatelists were in attendance, and Sharon, Beaver Falls and Farrell were also represented. Paul C. Oliphant and H. R. Smith were present from Warren, O. The next meeting will be held the third Friday in May, 1929.

Juniors

—The Rhode Island Philatelic Society Entertains With Exhibit.

(Prov. "Journal"—A. W. Claflin.)

A group of earnest, bright-eyed youths, ranging in age from 13 to 17, gathered to view the exhibition of stamps displayed by the Rhode Island Philatelic Society in the recreation rooms of the Old Stone Bank on South Main Street.

A unique feature was the exhibition of Zeppelin air mail stamps.

President Albert W. Claflin of the Rhode Island Philatelic Society spoke on "Different Kinds of Stamp Collecting." He pointed out the educational value of stamp collecting for youths.

The prize stamp collections of the winners in the Evening Bulletin Junior Fair were exhibited. These included the collections of Louis Rinebolt, Rae Gilman, Donald Knee, Louise Lyon and Philip Shires.

Wilmarth H. Colwell delivered an address on "Air Mail Stamps." Dr. Robert F. Chambers spoke on "Different Types of United States Stamps," and L. E. Richardson talked about "Junior Stamp Collecting."

All those who attended were presented souvenirs donated by Andrew R. Perry, Horace M. Grant and President Claflin. Mr. Claflin displayed an unusual collection of European stamps.

Ikaks

—A Suggestion from One Who Would be Considered a Real Benefactor.

By GUM.

May I suggest that the new U. S. stamps designed to celebrate the meeting of that esteemed organization with the tongue-twisting, tonsil-tearing tag, "The International Civil Aeronautic Conference," be designated by a simplified name. It will be a blessing to philatelists, dealers and publishers alike, and I suggest the easily spoken and remembered and cheaply advertised name "Ikaks." If something like this isn't done, a stutterer buying a set of these from a dealer would find the price doubled on him before he could ever ejaculate the name. In fact, I have a friend who never did get the pretty Sesqui-Centennial Exposition label until someone thought of calling it a "bell."

$2 BOOK FOR $1

Elsewhere in this issue W. E. Handshaw, 79 Nassau St., N. Y. City, offers for sale the book, "Looking Backward," written by his father, the well-known stamp dealer, J. E. Handshaw, now deceased. We have read the book and can vouch for the fact that it is a most interesting one and a bargain at the price offered.

BEST AND CHEAPEST YET
UNITED STATES POSTAGE STAMPS

I have just been rearranging the whole of my summer purchase of United States stamps in a series of new books mounted to suit the requirement of the middle class collector as well as of the advanced specialist. These books are priced at very reasonable prices, mostly based on original cost, and largely ignoring catalogue.

I should be very happy to send any of them that are available to clients known to me or after the usual business references.

The following books are now ready. Let me know which issues you wish to see, when writing.

Book 1. 1847, 5c, 3 unused and in used 2 pairs, and about 25 singles.
10c, I have a pair and 15 singles, among these being the big double transfer in the word "Post Office".
" 2. 1851-56, 1c and 3c, in singles and pairs. The cheaper varieties.
" 3. 1851-56, 3c, 5c, 10c and 12c. Scarcer varieties and unusual items, such as in the 3c line through "three cents" on cover. 3c two positions of the cracked plate.
5c vertical strip of three, superb horizontal pair and several singles.
10c and 12c, a number of fine pairs.
" 4. 1851-56, 3c, 5c, 10c and 12c and
1857-60, 1c, cheaper varieties only.
" 5. 1857-60, 1c to 24c, scarce varieties in singles, pairs and strips.
" 6-7. The cheaper varieties of the issues from 1857 to 1867, inclusive.
" 8. 1857-62, Unused and scarce used. This book includes several fine blocks and a few plate numbers and imprints.
" 9. 1862-68, Unused and special used, the scarcer varieties. This book also includes a fine series in immaculate condition of the re-issues of 1875
" 10. 1869, Unused and used, including some scarce imprints.
" 11. 1870-73, Unused only, including scarce strips with imprint and rare varieties
" 12. 1873-82, Unused only, including a number of strips with imprint.
" 13. 1882-83, Unused only, many strips with imprint and some very rare items, one of the choicest being a strip of six of the 2c red-brown, specia printing of 1882. This strip has the top margin and the middl pair of stamps is imperf. between vertically, probably unique i this condition.
" 14. 1873-88, Used stamps, including many scarce varieties.
" 15. 1870-73, All used, including many very scarce varieties.
The following three books contain rarities only:
" 16. 1857-62, Unused, including a number of very rare blocks and a few of th large 5c black Post Office, unused and used.
" 17. 1851, Strip of 3 on cover of the 5c, 1851, and many other very desirable pieces
" 18. 1851-56, 1c scarce varieties, in singles, pairs and strips. Included here are n less than 5 copies of the 1c type 1a.

HERE is the way in which a writer i the New York Times refers to Cana Zone issues, among others:

"In the early days of the Canal Zon operations the United States paid Pana ma for the use of the territory. Fo postal uses there Panama stamps were bought at 60 per cent of their face valu and overprinted by the United State Government for use in the zone. This was provided for in the Taft agreement and when that ceased, about four years ago, United States stamps were surcharged for the Canal Zone. The surcharged issues of the Panama stamps provide a great variety of interesting scenes illustrative of the history of Panama and the important events in the Canal Zone."

COLLECTOR'S CONTEST

Some of our loyal friends have apologized for the few subscriptions sent in, saying "my total is so small that I feel ashamed and especially when I see what others are doing." Of course a dealer has unusual advantages over the collector. Here is a contest, however, for the collector only. During Jan., Feb. and March, we will award individual prizes each month to the five collectors leading in points secured, one point for each new subscription.

Additional prizes will be given the three leaders on the three months' totals:—

Nicaragua

General Jose Maria Moncada, Liberal candidate, was elected President of Nicaragua, by a large majority, at the election held on Sunday, Nov. 4, 1928. This election was held under the supervision of the American Electoral Commission and has been called the fairest ever held there. According to a Press report, every voter had to dip the thumb and forefinger of his left hand in mercurochrome after depositing his ballot so there would be no repeating. How will this election affect the stamp collector? Look over the Catalog for the last few years, changes of color, surcharge after surcharge, topped off with an entire new issue in the old designs but in new colors. Will these soon give way to another new issue? It remains to be seen but we suggest that Collectors fill up their gaps in the short lived provisional issues now.

METROPOLITAN STAMP CO., 1482 Broadway, N. Y. CITY

ALCAZAR DE COLON, 1928

By Harry E. Huber.

In October, 1928, the first three denominations of a pictorial series for the Dominican Republic, made their appearance, picturing one of the oldest and most interesting ruins in Santo Domingo City, i.e., Alcazar de Colon, or as it is better known, Casa de Colon. The stamps are horizontal rectangular in shape, 37x24½ mm, and lithographed locally in sheets of 50 (5 horizontal by 10 vertical), on unwatermarked paper, and perforated single line 11½. The series when completed will comprise eight denominations, i.e., ½c, 1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, 20c, 50c and 1 peso.

The vignette is lettered at the top "Alcazar de Colon" (i.e., Palace of Columbus), and across the top of the design, in a straight line, is "Republica Dominicana"; at the foot, "Dos Centavos," in colorless caps, and in the lower corners, the numeral of value on colorless squares. Acanthus leaf and other ornamentation appear in the upper corners, and at the sides.

Casa de Colon (or Alcazar de Colon, as the stamp is inscribed) was built in 1510, by Diego Columbus, son of the great navigator, who succeeded Ovando as Governor of Santo Domingo in 1509. It stands on a height on the west bank of, and overlooking, the Ozama River, about a quarter of a mile above the

Write Right Away

The other day I met a good scout who has been reading these little ads right along but was too bashful to write me for a few things his collection needed.

DON'T BE BASHFUL

I don't bite and if I cannot sell you what you want I'm glad to send you where you may have better luck. Couldn't sell a thousand or two net every week if my customers weren't getting good goods and good service at reasonable prices. Even if the following are gone when your letter comes, I have other nice things.

U. S. COVERS

1847—10c very fine, Richmond to Antwerp, Belgium, via Boston.
1847—10c beauty, brown red grid from Raleigh, N. C. (part cover).
1847—10c, cancelled with large black "5" (part cover).
1851—fine pair of 3c, San Francisco to Lubec, Maine (where a good enough hopper can hop into New Brunswick). About the longest coast to coast route we hope to find.
1861—10c used to Brazil, oh, yes, they are not common.
1861—10c with 2c and part of another 10c used to Portugal. Very much ditto.
1871—very fine 7c used to Austria.
1871—not so fine 12c used to Spain.
1871-73—one 6c of each issue, making 12c to England—odd usage.
1873—pair of 10c from Yokohama, Japan, to Milan, Italy. U. S. stamps used from abroad to abroad. Hen tooth brand.
1873—pair of 12c with 3c, making 27c to B. A., Argentina. And I've seldom had a more interesting cover.
1875—three 10c with 2c, making 32c postage to the Balearic Islands. (A Balearic cover got away from me once before.)
1882—5c Garfield used to Panama.
1882—10c re-engraved used to Bombay. Ay! that's another bomb.

EUCLID STAMP SHOPPE, Inc.
934 Schofield Building, CLEVELAND, OHIO

Torre del Homenaje, shown on the 50c of the February 25, 1902, series issued to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the founding of Santo Domingo City.

The edifice was built of stone block, with some brick; in outline it is rectangular, measuring 114 ft. by 56 ft., and each of its two stories is about 16 feet high. The main entrance was on the west front, and on the east, or river side, were two terraces, the outer one being marked by the ramparts of the old city wall, completed in 1537. In this wall are six gun emplacements, in front of the mansion, and at either end, is a watch tower.

Oviedo and other chroniclers of the day dwell at length on the magnificence of the interior; the woodwork and furnishings were of mahogany, but much of this was removed soon after 1822, when the country fell into the hands of the Haitians. At present the house is reduced to a mere shell, roofless and windowless.

Diego Columbus died in Spain in 1526, but his wife, Maria de Toledo, continued to occupy the mansion with her sons until her death in 1549, from which time her son, Luis, was in residence until he went to Spain in 1551. It was then occupied by Cristobal, another son, until his death in 1571, when it passed into the hands of Diego, Cristobal's son, and great grandson of the discoverer. This owner died in 1578, and being the last male descendant of the first admiral, long periods of litigation followed. It is reported, however, abandoned and in ruins in 1790, and its desecration was completed by the Haitians in their earlier years of their occupancy.

At the foot of Casa de Colon is part of the old city wall, completed in 1537, and of which numerous portions remain intact. The old city was in the form of a trapezium, completely walled, with an area of approximately 200 acres. The wall on the north was the longest, and that on the west the shortest. The ancient gates still remain, although they are no longer the only means of ingress and egress, as the walls have been breached at most street terminations. The most famous of the gates is the Puerta del Conde (i.e., Gate of the Count), so called because it was constructed by Count de Panalva, Governor of Santo Domingo, about 1655, although the bastion through which it leads is as old as the city wall. It was here, on February 27, 1844, that the cry of independence (against the Haitians) was raised, and it is therefore regarded as the cradle of Dominican independence. Its official name is "Baluarte 27 de Febrero" (i.e., Bulwark of the 27th of February), and the gate is shown on the official stamp issues of 1902 and 1910, the former produced by the Hamilton Bank Note Co., of New York, and the latter by the Imperial Printing Office in Berlin, Germany. One of the three original gates in the wall is the Gate of San Diego (also called the Gate of the Admiral), near the ruins of Casa de Colon, and affording communication with the custom house and the wharves on the Ozama river.

West Indian Aerial Express, 1928

In July, 1928, the Postmaster General of the United States signed a contract with the Pan-American Airways, Inc., of New York, for the air carriage of mail from Key West, Fla., via Cuba, Haiti, and Dominican Republic, to San Juan, Porto Rico. Another bidder was the West Indian Aerial Express, of Santo Domingo, which company had been operating an air passenger and mail service between Santo Domingo eastward to San Juan, and westward to Port au Prince, Haiti, and Santiago de Cuba.

About July, 1928, the West Indian Aerial Express discontinued their regular service with Port au Prince, although when a plane is chartered for the trip, a mail is usually brought, and one taken on the return trip.

The service of the Pan-American Airways, Inc., is expected to start about the middle of January, 1929, although as yet no definite announcement of rates and schedule has been made by the U. S. Post Office Department.

That Dollar That Santa Claus Brings You

HERE'S A TIP as to the best way to spend it. Here's something that will last long after the Christmas drums are busted and the cigars gone into the Hoover.

WASHINGTON STAMP NEWS is a service as well as a monthly publication. The monthly issue of 16 or more pages takes some time for its printing and mailing, and therefore cannot be absolutely red-hot as to the news it contains. To get the news to you as quickly as possible, we mail a special bulletin to subscribers, without extra charge, whenever new stamps or new air mail routes are announced.

This special postal card bulletin service is worth several times the subscription price to all collectors who are interested in U. S. stamps or covers. If you do not collect U. S. stamps or covers, a subscription to our NEWS will not be worth while to you.

If you are interested in U. S., you need WASHINGTON STAMP NEWS to keep you informed as to Uncle Sam's philatelic doings. Half the fun of collecting is in knowing as soon as possible what's going on in the National Capital that concerns your hobby. During the month of November no less than seven special bulletins announcing new stamps and air mail routes were mailed to subscribers. All of them beat the field by from several days to several weeks.

WE BELIEVE that our NEWS will please you. We're so sure of it that WE GUARANTEE IT. Send $1.00 for a year's subscription, get the NEWS for three months, then, if you think it is not worth the price to you, just say so and back comes your dollar.

Here's what THEY say about it:

"Your postal service is a huge success. It does give advance information.—I have eight friends who will place an order for 'NEWS' in order to have that little booklet plus the service—"

"You want to know what collectors think about your notices. Well, I for one have found them very convenient and think that a charge of 50c or a dollar would be in order."

"Your 'news' postals on new flights, cancellations, etc., are interesting and valuable, and for one, I would favor you making a charge for this service. Things as valuable can well be paid for."

"Your cards of advance information on new stamps and new air mail routes have been received by me and although I receive other notices, yours are the first and most complete."

"I have noted that your postal card info. generally arrives the day before the P. O. Bulletin. I subscribe for quite a few weeklies, monthlies, etc.—belong to societies—but believe your special 'NEWS' cards are ahead of everything in the line of advance information."

"... the writer just recently subscribed to the 'Washington Stamp News'. Since that time I have been receiving postcards from you on first flights and New Issues.

Although the writer is not interested in first flights, I am interested in first day covers of new issues. Your post cards are weeks ahead of weekly stamp papers and a month or more ahead of monthly magazines. I personally do not know of any other agency that is giving out this information.

For a time it seemed to me that this news was considered secret among certain dealers to help their sales of first day covers. Altho you are selling first day cover service, you have gone out of your way to help collectors who desired to 'get in on the thing' themselves."

"... You are not duplicating anything else in the philatelic field, as everything follows you."

"... these cards have always been of appreciated interest to me particularly because they carry not only the news of said events, but they attempt to help establish prices and create certain sales value to the various stamp features."

SEND THAT DOLLAR NOW. You will receive WASHINGTON STAMP NEWS, a monthly booklet of 16 or more pages, for one year. In addition, you will receive during the same period many special bulletins announcing new U. S. stamps and air mail routes.

EDITORIAL

THE following message comes on a postal card, bearing date of Nov. 23, 1928, at Stockholm, Sweden: "Dear Sir, The Swedish Philatelic Agency, Post Office, Stockholm, presents its compliments. This card is sent by T. M. S. Kungsholm on her maiden trip to New York, and is specially obliterated, 'Forstä turen' (First trip). For the first time in Swedish postal history a post office is established on board a trans-Atlantic ship." On the reverse the picture of the majestic Kungsholm is shown in color.

OUR attention has been called by Capt. A. C. Townsend to a recent number of Postage & The Mailbag, in which there is a story telling of the effective use made of the new five cent air mail stamp in an advertising sense. The report is that Henry J. Gielow, Inc., Yacht Designers and Brokers, of New York, had 30,000 letters despatched that were postmarked on the earliest possible date, or August 1st, 12.30 A. M., and "in order to have the pieces ready in time to mail before midnight, July 31st, the air mail stamps were delivered in New York from Washington by airplane." On the back of each of the covers was printed: "Notice to Stamp Collectors. The stamp used on this letter is one of the first of the new 5-cent air mail stamps, and the postmark is probably the earliest date possible under the new postal rate. It will make a valuable addition to your stamp collection." This stroke of enterprise was richly rewarded in a business way and was instrumental in attracting nearly a half-million dollars in orders for yachts, it seeems; and further, scores of letters came asking for additional copies of the covers. The advertising company that had charge of the campaign distributed the letters that by reason of removals and changes of address, were returned, to the number of several hundred to the applicants who wrote the advertising agency as a consequence of the insertion of a note in Postage & The Mailbag, offering the covers free, as long as they lasted; and it was not long, we violate no confidence in saying.

THE following bit of lore comes from Mr. A. M. Blodgett of Washington, D. C.: "I recently was so fortunate as to have in hand a copy of the first number of the American Journal of Philately, April 1, 1868, edited by J. W. Scott of New York. As for the contents of the issue, no doubt you have reviewed them on different occasions, but I was struck by the statement in the 'Transactions of the New York Philatelic Society' of March 21, 1868, that 'Baron Munchausen, F. S. A., was elected Honorary Member.' Simply that and nothing more. Is there a story in this bald sentence? Perhaps, you in your omniscience can tell me what is to be read between the lines." We cannot even advance a theory to account for the accession of the Baron to the roster of the society. Some homme d'esprit may have been responsible for this leaven, since the society lost "most of its original members during the past year (1867)" or for that matter, the Baron may have been a scientist who rightly used the abbreviation, F. S. A., Fellow of the Royal Society (scientific, London). Incidentally, it was on March 21, 1867, that eight "collectors of foreign postage stamps" organized the New York Philatelic Society. It is a far cry from 1868 to 1928, but there is much of interest in the early numbers of the stamp papers of the abler order of about that period in the light of to-day.

A DEALER has submitted particulars of an incident that he thinks should be reported to show that the stamp seller's lot is not a bed of roses, although we cannot say that there is any general belief that the dealer is immune from the pin pricks that are experienced by all business men. This dealer received an application for stamps on approval; and they were sent. In due time, some of the stamps came back with the following letter: "It is against the law to sell unused U. S. at more than face value. Enclosed remittance for stamps taken." Further, the sender said that he wanted no more stamps! His remittance for the stamps retained was in the form of stamps that were sent in lieu of cash. Thereupon the dealer wrote: "I am in receipt of your returns on the approval selection I submitted to you recently and note that you have retained stamps to a total value of $3.65. I do not exchange stamps and have no use for the lot you sent, which you marked for exchange, and I am returning the entire lot herewith. I shall expect to receive a post office money order or bank draft for $3.65 in settlement of this account not later than the 17th of this month and should I fail to hear from you by that date, the account wil be turned over to my attorney for action." Then, the correspondence was closed by this letter which was received by the dealer: "I have found that I do not need these stamps so I am returning them. They come to you registered and you cannot make anyone pay for articles that have been sent back to owner thru registered mail." We do not know how much wiser the dealer is, but he may be a bit sadder.

SOME months ago, a dealer was expelled from membership in the American Stamp Dealers' Association and later, from the American Philatelic Society; and while it was known in some circles who the dealer was, no public mention was made of the circumstances on which the action was based, or of the identity of the person. It happened that the dealer in question was one who enjoyed a good reputation, and was recognized as a friendly force in the philatelic field; and when his guilt was considered as established he was expelled from the American Philatelic Society. No particulars of the case were published in the American Philatelist, following the custom that seemed to have been adopted for years in the conduct of the official journal. In ordinary cases, the supposition is that the course of the directors would not have attended by any train of consequences, but by reason of the prominence of the person involved in this instance, there was a demand that the circumstances of the case be given publicity. In fact, there were calls for information and several editors referred to the case without mentioning the name, we believe. Now, however, the American Philatelist for December, 1928, names N. B. Paulson of Chicago, as the member in question and recites that the action was taken as a consequence of finding him concerned in a plan to have fancy cancellations or imitations of old cancellations placed on early United States stamps. The actual transformation was done abroad, and it was through the expert in another country that the operation became known to the American Stamp Dealers' Association. Mr. Paulson said that he regarded the work experimentally, and was curious to see what could be done; and that any specimens of the kind were not sold. It is evident, to quote from the American Philatelist that "he failed to satisfy the Board in refusing to answer questions as to what had become of the stamps and inquiries of a similar nature." The Board of Vice-Presidents of the American Philatelic Society is at the disposal of members who may write to it for information as to cases that lead to the expulsion of any other member, and it is the inference that particulars of important cases involving expulsion will be given in the official journal. The Board of Vice-Presidents have many bothersome questions to handle in their official capacity and they have adopted sterner measures in dealing with delinquencies, we gather, in order that the protective influence of the society properly may be strengthened.

Air Mail News

BY FREDERICK D. MARKEE,
40 Wilshire Park, Needham, Mass.

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Markee and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

The final complete flights over CAM No. 30 were run off on schedule, and the same cachet was applied to covers that had been used from points between Chicago and Evansville, when the route started on November 19, the only difference being the substitution of the names of the towns served on the December 1st flight.

A double header came through from Jacksonville on the initial flight over CAM No. 25, December 1. "Jax" dedicated the new Airport on the same day, and covers that had been sent to the Exchange Club bear a cachet similiar to the one used in Albany for the Airmeet in October, together with the regular First Flight cachet. This latter is very similiar to the one used for CAM No. 30, but smaller in size, and the two cachets on one cover make a nice appearance. Those I have received so far have been carefully handled and the cachets show up in fine shape.

Flint and Pontiac both used the same cachet that had been used previously on this contract route, when they were added to the list of cities served on November 7. In addition to the official cachet there appears an arrowhead in outline within the borders of which reads this slogan—"The Motor City"—above, "The Junior Chamber of Commerce, Flint, Mich.," and below—"First Air Mail Service—November 27, 1928,"—on covers despatched from Flint. Pontiac added an extra cachet, applied by the Board of Commerce, in the form of an Indian with drawn bow shooting East into a four line wording—"First Air Mail—From Pontiac—Nov. 27, 1928—Board of Commerce." There must be an Air Mail lover collector in the Pontiac Post Office, for my covers bear four backstamps in addition to the two cachets and face cancel! And each backstamp is of a different town! Whoever did the job earns my thanks.

The cachet used at the Chicago Exposition, by authority of the Post Office Department, is certainly a dandy, and will be eagerly sought by those who failed to get covers to Chicago for this event. Up to this writing, colors have been used, and evidently an attempt is being made to give a different color for each day, provided their supply doesn't give out! The Exposition runs for eight days, and we wonder if they will have to repeat before the week is over.

A newspaper clipping received from Mr. H. A. Meyer, and taken from an Evansville paper indicates that mail matter was expected to be carried from Louisville to Evansville on the First Trip of CAM No. 30 to Atlanta. The Postal Bulletin, in giving this route, did not include Louisville in the landing points, and we wonder if mail was actually carried, or only passengers.

Miami, Fla., is to dedicate a Municipal Airport on Jan. 7 and 8. An Air Derby (not a brown one) will be held and invitations to attend have been sent to Col. Lindbergh, Ruth Elder, Ruth Nichols, and many others of note. Wallace Beery, Buster Keaton and Clara Bow were not mentioned as having been invited!

Shortly after the first of the year, Pasco, Wash., will dedicate a municipal field and Airport. Work is progressing on hangar construction and the whole community is watching the growth of the field in anticipation of holding whoopee when the dedication occurs. Auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, so a cachet may be forthcoming. Courtesy of Mr. R. A. Chenoweth.

Advices received from the Mobile, Ala., Chamber of Commerce and sent to me by several readers indicate that the Dedication of the Mobile Airport has been held up for a short period, due to construction work. No definite date has been set, but any covers in the Chamber's hands will get service on the proper date.

The chief topic of conversation right now seems to be Washington, with Kitty Hawk running a close second in popularity. Very few seem to know just what is going to happen at Kitty Hawk, so the following may be of interest. On the exact spot where the first flight took place and where the Wright brothers' plane left the ground, the National Aeronautic Association has erected a monument and this monument, in the presence of several hundred members of the N. A. A., delegates to the Civil Aeronautics Conference, prominent officials of the Government and newspaper men, will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies. On the side of the monument is placed a bronze tablet that reads—"The First Successful Flight of an Airplane was made from this spot by Orville Wright, December 17th, 1903, in a machine designed and built by Wilbur Wright and Orville Wright. This tablet was erected by the National Aeronautic Association of the U. S. A., December 17th, 1928, to commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of this event." Prior to the unveiling of the N. A. A. monument, the delegates and others will stop at Kill Devil Hill and lay the cornerstone of the memorial authorized by Congress. This is the National Memorial.

Out in the Philippines, several interesting events in connection with the flight of the British Far Eastern Flight have been taking place. A special cachet was used on Air Mail and a few covers were carried by the British planes, the mail being picked up at Puerto Princesa where the fliers arrived on November 7th. They were due at Manila on November 9th, and it was rumored that a special overprint would be applied to stamps in honor of the Squadron. It is planned that the four planes will leave Manila on the 26th of November for Hong Kong, Bangkok and Singapore, en route to England, and that a small consignment of mail will accompany them.

Over in Bangkok, Siam, they have been all "haired up" because the Dutch planes operating between Amsterdam and the Dutch East Indies have passed up their Airport, due to unusual flood conditions. I have recently received a cover from a correspondent, and the cover has everything on it, even to the autograph of the Director of Posts and Telegraphs — But no first trip cachet. As a matter of fact, all mail prepared in advance for the first trip, failed to make connections, and it was not until the second flight that mail from Bangkok was finally sent on its way. Canceling the postage stamps is a three line killer, between the lines and at their ends are two miniature planes in flight. In a two-inch long box, "AIR MAIL" in both English and Siamese, applied twice. Regular Bangkok face cancel and Batavia backstamp. My correspondent states that he took up the matter of a First Trip cachet with Mr. Otto Praeger, and has been informed that when—and if—regular Air Mail service commences, a special First Flight cachet, similiar to that in use in this country, will be applied to all mail so carried.

WANT LISTS
Bring in your list or send it in; there are four competent stamp people here to find the stamps for you; if we have it, we'll dig, if not, we'll advise you when it shows up.
And "the stuff" is here also. Years of want list work tells—what to buy and stock.
Of course a lot of it, especially the less popular countries, is hard to find. The weekly purchase of a fair sized collection helps out here.

Travancore's Chuckrams

All the values on the stamps of Travancore are in cash or chuckrams, and the value of the latter has proved mystifying to many of us. We are told on good authority that the rupee of Travancore is equal to 28 chuckrams, each of which is divided into 16 cash. Furthermore, the Travancore rupee is only equal to 15 annas of British Indian money so that a chuckram is roughly equal to ½ anna or 1 cent in American money. — Philatelic Opinion.

2. What country surcharged its stamps with a "shooting star" in 1919?

4. What country issued a stamp showing a soldier riding a bicycle?
5. What set of stamps is often called "The Rogues Gallery"?
6. Name one difference between Gt. Britain type A-17 and A-27.
7. What country has just issued a set of stamps in honor of a great explorer?

Junior News Release

By Beach Conger, Jr.

Bolivia.—Three new airmail stamps are being printed for Bolivia, the 15c green, 20c blue, and 35 centavos red, at the Imprentas Unidas at LaPaz. The design shows the trademark of the Lloyd Aereo Boliviano in the center with a native scene on one side and a view of the Andes on the other, and is inscribed "Republica de Bolivia—Correo Aereo—Sobretasa."

Dutch Indies.—After several sets of surcharges, at last a permanent set of airmails is to be issued for this group of colonies. The design of the stamp shows an airplane flying over a temple, designed by M. F. Mees. The values are 10c violet, 20c brown, 40c carmine, 75c green, 1.50g red.

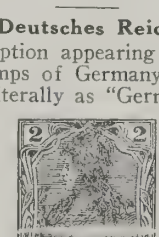
Finland.—Issuing stamps to commemorate philatelic expositions seems to be quite the thing to do nowadays. A temporary Post Office was maintained at a recent National Philatelic Exposition held at Helsingfors, November 10-15th. 100,000 copies each of the 1 and 1½ Marka were surcharged Postim. Haytt. Frim. utst. 1928.

Luxemburg.—Another ancient church finds its way to a postage stamp on the nicely engraved 2 francs of Luxemburg. This stamp shows the abbey of Clervaux, and is colored grey-black. It has a very queer watermark design in the form of airplanes.

Upper Volta.—On November 17th, this colony received an entirely new set of adhesives, replacing the old surcharges. The values of the postage set are 1c, 2c, 4c, 5c, 10c, 15c, 20c, 25c, 30c, 40c, 45c, 50c, 65c, 90c, 1f, 1.50f, 2f, 3f, 5f, 10f and 20f. The postage dues consist of 5c, 10c, 15c, 20c, 30c, 50c, 60c, 1f, 2f, 3f.

Deutsches Reich

An inscription appearing upon all the current stamps of Germany. It may be translated literally as "German Empire."



Faridkot

The inscriptions on most of the stamps of the Indian Native States are unsolved mysteries to the majority of collectors, so that the following translation of the characters on the first 1 paisa stamp of Faridkot may interest many of our readers. The hieroglyphics in the centre are Persi-Arabic, and mean "Principality or Province of Faridkot." Those on the circular band are in the Sikh or Punjabi language, and mean the same thing, while the characters in the label across the bottom of the design mean "Ticket or stamp for letters of 1 paisa." All these inscriptions read from right to left—just the reverse of reading English. The paisa corresponds with 3 pies of ordinary Indian currency, and is thus equal to ¼ anna or ½ cent in American money. This stamp was withdrawn from use when the overprinted Indian stamps were placed on sale on January 1, 1887.—Philatelic Opinion.

Postage Free.—Found on the first official stamps for New Zealand issued in 1887.

Corner Letters

These were letters running in alphabetical sequence introduced into the lower angles of the first postage stamps issued in Great Britain as an extra safeguard against forgery. In 1858 letters were placed in all four corners, those in the upper angles being the same as those in the bottom corners, but in reverse order. This system of lettering the stamps was not entirely discontinued until the King Edward stamps made their appearance in 1902.

CANCELLATIONS

"Cancelled to Order."—A reader asks us to explain the meaning of "cancelled to order," and to give a list of stamps so cancelled. As to the first half of his question, the term is generally used to denote those stamps which have been sold in an obliterated condition without having passed through the post. As to the second half, this is not so easy, for almost any stamp may exist in that form, there being nothing to prevent an obliging Post Office clerk, in England or any other country, applying a postmark to any stamps for which a customer pays full face value. Stamps of the smaller colonies found "used," yet with full gum, have often been obtained by tourists in this way as souvenirs.

Borneo, Labuan, and St. Helena.—In some cases specially cancelled stamps have been sold to dealers at considerably less than face value, and in these circumstances a special form of obliteration, or postmark, has usually been applied, which enables them to be distinguished from genuinely used copies. The most notorious examples of this are Borneo and Labuan stamps cancelled with an oval of black bars. Another instance occurred when St. Helena sold the remainder of the last Victorian issue. They were offered for sale by tender, but found no bidders at a satisfactory price, so the whole lot were sold to Mr. G. Healey (now dead) after they had been cancelled with a triangular mark in violet.

Not Postally Used.—The above stamps are not postally used, and should not be bought as such, as their value is not so great as copies which have really done postal duty. We certainly do not say, "Do not put them in your collection," so long as you are not deceived by them, as they are just as good, in everything but commercial value, as most postally used copies, if you only want them as designs or as examples of the stamps.

Rhodesian Cancellations.—A few years ago the remainders of the Rhodesian stamps came on the market when the British South Africa Company turned over their responsibilities to the British Government. They could have used up the stamps, but did not care to do so, and in the end they sold the whole lot to Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., most of them being cancelled with the ordinary postmarks, in which were inserted various dates to correspond with the period of issue of the stamps. Thus, in the case of Rhodesian stamps so sold, it is practically impossible to tell the cancelled-to-order copies from the genuinely used.

Value of Remainders.—The Rhodesia deal was severely criticised by some collectors, and the defence was made that EVERY now and then one of our sul scribers calls attention to the var eties appearing in the 5c airmail stam due to the stamp being printed in tw colors and faulty registering in the prin ing. These varieties are interesting, bu what is really wanted in the way of variety is an inverted center. WE have received from W. A. Beach Flint, Mich., a specimen first fligh airmail CAM 27, Bay City-Chicag The Flint postmark is Nov. 27. Ther is a non-official cachet as well as th regular, the former having been applie by the Junior Chamber of Commerce o Flint.

A. WAGNER of Essen, Germany sends us a specimen of a charity postcard that appeared in Berlin, Nov 15, simultaneously with this year's char ity adhesive. The card is being sold a 15pf over face value. Upon the left o the card is pictured an infant with th words "German Help for the Needy" above, and "I Bring Luck" below. The child is holding in each hand a four-leaf clover.

AT our last sale the record price o £600 was obtained for a Newfound land envelope posted in 1858, and franked with a strip of 3 of the 2d scarlet ver milion stamp. The fortunate owner had it presented to him as a ten-year-old schoolboy collector, by his grandmother, who received it from her uncle to whom it was addressed. The price constitutes the highest recorded. Single copies of the stamp are rare, but no other strip is known.—Harmer, Rooke & Co.

: was better to have the stamps cancelled han to put them on the market under ace value, and thus spoil the investment f those who had bought unused copies. There are numerous other instances of emainders, references to which will soon e found by any stamp student when he akes up the study of stamp literature. But remainders have been very valuable o collectors, and enabled them to fill lanks and derive information that might never have been placed on record but for he discovery—perhaps years after they were obsolete—of remainders of the tamps.

South African War Stamps.—The ame reader who set us writing about ancelled-to-order stamps and remainders lso asks why a £5 unused Transvaal tamp can be sold for, say, 30/-. The eason, in this case, is threefold. Firstly, o war has ever resulted in so many tamps being brought home by soldiers nd others as the South African War. Consequently the market was glutted, nd when the stamps became obsolete and were not worth face value for use in the Colony, there were—and still are—too many on the market to keep the price up. This applies to many other war stamps, as well as to unused "remainders" of various countries, like Prince Edward Island and the Spanish Colonies. As the market absorbs them, so their value rises, and they become once again worth face value or more.

Barred Remainders.—A collection of cancelled-to-order stamps—and although we have never heard of one being made, it would certainly not be without interest—would not be complete without the "barred" stamps of Spain. These came about in 1854, when it was the Spanish policy to have a new series of stamps every year, and the remainders of each issue, as they became obsolete, were overprinted in complete sheets with three black bars. These "barred" stamps, unfortunately, are not referred to in the English catalogues, and it is to be feared that many collectors, in consequence, have them in their collection under the impression that they are properly used stamps, which in some cases would be of considerable catalogue value. Readers of the Junior Stamp Magazine, however, should note that the barred stamps are only worth a fraction of the value of copies genuinely used.—Junior Stamp Magazine.

Third Annual Exhibit Lansdowne Stamp Club A Marked Success

By GEORGE M. EMERY, A. P. S. 5582.

Thirty or more postage stamp collections, representatives of a majority of the stamp-issuing countries of the world, and in some instances showing a high degree of specialization, were displayed at the Third Annual Exhibition of the Lansdowne, Pa., Stamp Club, November 30 and December 1. The show was the most successful ever held by the club.

Considering the quality of the collections shown and the interest created among collectors and others in the vicinity, the Lansdowne Club members are convinced that their organization, although only three years old, is qualified to rank high among the older and larger stamp clubs of the United States. Lansdowne is situated in Delaware County, Pa., adjacent to Philadelphia, and almost all the club members are residents of the club's home county.

Newspaper publicity served in great measure to make the Lansdowne exhibition a success, the five daily Philadelphia papers and the numerous suburban papers publishing generous advance articles as well as complete announcements of the prize awards. Many collectors and others interested in philately, previously unaware of the activities of the club, were attracted to the exhibition. Several of the visitors signed membership applications.

The judges were Charles J. Phillips, the well-known international expert and specialist in U. S. Departments, of New York; Major Guy V. Camp, president of the Society of Philatelic Americans, of New York, and Philip H. Ward, Jr., the U. S. specialist, who has collaborated in the formation of several of the more notable U. S. collections, of Philadelphia.

Twenty-four prizes, including a Grand Prize for the best all-round exhibit in the show, were awarded in the various classes into which the collections were divided. The awards, together with brief descriptions of the winning entries, follow:

Grand Prize—Clarence W. Brazer, of Lansdowne, Pa., for his collection of United States proofs and essays. This collection, gathered together largely within the last year, represents almost everything obtainable, and embraces card and India die and plate proofs of all the regular issues from 1847 to those of recent date, newspapers, departments, special delivery and postage dues, and a large variety of essays both listed and unlisted in standard works on the subject. In addition, the collection contains the Roosevelt gift book of proofs, as well as a large number of prints signed by the artists and engravers who executed them, showing the various stages from the origin to the completion of the stamp designs.

Mr. Brazer is contemplating the preparation of an article on U. S. proofs and essays, based upon his collection, which will shed much new light, he believes, on the subject, and which will result in many new listings. The Brazer collection is considered by qualified experts to be one of the most comprehensive in existence.

Class 1. United States and Possessions—Herbert C. Hays won first prize with his collection of unused, finely-centered, full-gum copies complete except for some of the very rare re-cuts and inverts; Albert J. Squiers won second with a similar collection slightly less complete, and S. W. Haney won third with his twentieth century unused blocks and booklet panes.

Class 2. Great Britain and Colonies other than British North America—E. E. Meacham captured first with his unused British Colonials, complete through the high values, superbly mounted and embellished with descriptive and illustrative material; Spencer L. Coxe won second with a miscellaneous assortment of copies, which have appreciated largely in value, and Dr. Justis E. Sinexon won third with a beautiful collection of unused and used copies. Mr. Meacham was specially commended by the judges for the appearance of his collection.

Class 3. British North America—Clarence W. Brazer won first with a fine collection of Canada, Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, showing virtually all the rarities in the best condition, as well as a variety of valuable bisects used on cover; third prize went to Dr. F. C. Locy for his collection of Jamaica unused.

Class 4. Europe—Albert B. Maris won first with an interesting collection of continental issues beautifully arranged and running well into the high values and rarer copies.

Class 5. Asia—First prize went to W. P. Bricker for his small but interesting collection of modern China.

Class 6. Africa—Albert B. Maris won first with an assortment largely similar in quality to his Europe entry, and Mrs. Mary G. Cook won second with her collection of Egypt, virtually complete.

Class 7. South America—John R. Huston won first with his specialized collection of Chile, virtually complete. The collection includes many of the rare shades of the first issue, as well as numerous watermark and cancellation varieties, together with interesting blocks, used and unused, and rare covers. The Huston Chile collection was considered by the judges as the runner-up for the Grand Prize.

Class 9. Proofs—First prize went to the Clarence W. Brazer collection, previously described. The collection filled three 8-foot tables, and was made up of about 125 album pages.

Class 10. Cancellations—George M. Emery won first with his specialized collection of U. S. stamps, particularly the bank note issues, showing complete pages of the more common cancellations and numerous single specimens with the rarer and more interesting cancellations of the period. Quartered corks, rosettes, grids, stars, towns, numerals, Maltese Crosses, pumpkin heads, skulls and bones, as well as foreign mail, supplementary mail, steamship, railroad, Japanese and used abroad cancellations were included in the Emery display, which occupied three full tables adjacent to the Brazer proof collection.

Class 11. Specialties—A. J. Squiers won first with his collection of charity stamps and semi-postal issues of the world, embracing almost 2,000 of these stamps known to exist; George M. Emery won third with a small specialized collection of U. S. 3-cent '51's, classified according to shades and retouchings.

Class 12. Covers—Clarence W. Brazer won first with his collection of U. S. covers, including the New York and St. Louis postmaster stamps, numerous locals and 1847 and 1851 issues, and a fine showing of Patriotics; Albert B. Maris won second with a general showing.

Class 13. Juniors—Wilson N. Brazer won first and Robert Schelhorn won third with creditable general collections, neatly arranged and mounted.

Class 14. Guests—H. L. Dean won first with a collection of extra-perforated U. S. revenues; Walter E. Egbert won third.

In addition to the competitive displays, which were arranged on tables in the first-floor banking offices of the Lansdowne Bank and Trust Company, Lansdowne, Pa., and on tables in several rooms and hallways on the second floor, and in specially-made glass frames hung on the walls, several exhibits were added to the show by Mr. Phillips and Eugene Klein, a patron of the club. Mr. Phillips exhibited specimen pages from his U. S. Department collection, and Mr. Klein showed similar pages from his specialized Gold Medal Collection of Heligoland.

The Lansdowne Stamp Club's exhibition was financed entirely by the membership, no entrance fees or admission charges for exhibitors or visitors being exacted. The excellent quarters for the exhibit were lent by the Lansdowne Bank and Trust Company, and some of the show equipment was lent by Lansdowne church organizations. Each exhibitor was responsible for the arrangement and display of his collection, and adequate insurance was provided at each exhibitor's own expense for the entire display. Not one stamp was damaged or lost.

The Lansdowne Club now possesses five exhibition frames, constructed with hinged glass doors. These frames were designed by Mr. Brazer after the style of those now used by the Collectors Club in New York, and the club expects to obtain a sufficient number eventually to accommodate all the exhibits at future shows.

The Lansdowne Stamp Club members feel that the success of their third exhibition marks a big stride forward in their ambition to make their club one of character and influence in the community. The club aspires to include in its membership the advanced collector as well as the junior and the beginner, preserving an interest for all. The present membership approximates forty.

A Rare Envelope

One of the scarcest twentieth century United States envelopes, if not the very rarest, is the 3-cent red error, printed on amber. It will be recalled that the 3-cent stamp should have been printed in violet and quite a commotion was caused when the stamp printed in red on white paper was first located in New York. The envelopes sold as high as $30 to $40 a piece and they were thought to be extreme rarities. Later more were found, in addition to the same error on blue. Possibly a couple years had elapsed before the error printed on amber, Scott's #2667-b, was discovered. There were only a few and the entire supply bore the imprint of a small middle-western bank. It is an error in the true sense of the word. There is a space for the variety in the Scott Album, and it is one that commands a substantial price whenever offered at auction. In fact, if I recall clearly, the auction price is $45 or $47. I offer a superb unused entire envelope showing this error at a special price of $37.67. Only two available at this price.

I also find on hand one or two entire unused of the 2c on 1c on 3c on amber, Scott's #2704. These are to be had at $5.00 each.

While I have made no effort to stock envelopes, I have on hand quite a few choice twentieth century items, generally in unused entire condition, so that they may be cut square to meet the requirements of the purchaser.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., P. O. Box 2175, Middle City Station, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps from 1900 to date. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, cor. Robbins Road and Locust Ave., Lexington, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

Washington Notes

The Philatelic Agency at Washington is swarmed with orders for the new International Civil Aeronautics Conference stamps, and at the time this Chronicle is being written, there are upward of five thousand orders behind, with more coming in daily. Every effort is being made to expedite the filling of these orders, but there are bound to be some disappointments, and if one is in immediate hurry, it is suggested that the stamps be ordered through some agent or friend located in Washington, who may obtain them personally at the stamp window. While the Agency has put on extra help, it is impossible to have new clerks fill orders for numerous varieties, as these larger stocks are in the hands of the regular clerks only. It is, therefore, suggested that in ordering new stamps that the request be written on a separate sheet, and that a separate remittance accompany this request. Such an order may be readily given to a new clerk with a stock of the two new stamps, and in this way the order may be filled much more quickly than if other varieties be requested.

The Agency also wishes to impress upon collectors that they will not be in a position to send first-day covers of the new air mail envelope, which it is now found will appear shortly after the first of the year. They have not the facilities for addressing envelopes, and those wanting first-day covers should make arrangements with someone in Washington to address these and send them out on the first day. When they formerly arranged to address twenty-five envelopes in behalf of an individual collector or dealers, many of the dealers took advantage of the Department by applying in the name of ten or twelve others, and in this way getting several hundred covers. In other words—"they killed the goose that laid the golden egg," so that the Department has made a ruling that they will not address the new envelopes. Several of those carrying advertisements in our columns will be pleased, we are quite confident, to act as agents on such an occasion for a small commission, and it is to be hoped that the collector will take advantage of this new manner in getting these new envelopes. If it were simply a question of sticking stamps upon the envelope, the Agency would not object, but in this case, it requires the addressing of the envelope.

Another suggestion which would facilitate matters, is to order new stamps only when a new issue is announced. If the collector or dealer wants current issues, or older issues, which might be on hand, these can be ordered just as well in the intervals rather than at the time when it is known that the Agency will be exceedingly busy.

As the Post Office at Kitty Hawk, N. C., is an exceedingly small office, it is suggested that covers sent to that point to be cancelled on the day of the Memorial Dedication, be properly stamped. Otherwise, it is doubtful whether the postmaster will have sufficient help on hand to take care of requests. At this writing, no arrangements have been made to send the postmaster at that point a supply of the new stamps, although it is quite possible he will make a requisition for a supply.

The Department at Washington has received the sketch for the new George Rogers Clark stamp, which will appear in February, and it is expected that by next week, we will have more details upon the subject. It will be of a 2-cent denomination, and it is expected that it will be the size of the current stamps turned side-wise.

3c Victory Stamp

Now that the 3c Victory stamp in the red-violet shade is commanding a substantial premium, quite a number of collectors are looking over their collections and endeavoring to learn if they have the rare variety. Three-fourths of those which have been submitted for inspection, are not in the real red-violet shade, which is a deep shade showing much red. There is a light shade tending toward a pink, which is rather common and which is often taken for the real variety. If there is any doubt in your mind about it, you may be sure that you do not have the variety, as the color is so different from the normal, that it is readily noted even by the inexperienced eye.

Pre-Cancelled Booklet Stamps

Mr. J. E. Thompson kindly submits for inspection some of the current booklet stamps precancelled in Des Moines, Iowa, and used by Successful Farming in sending out their circulars. These are of the rubber stamp type, and a readily accounted for. Here in Phil delphia, and no doubt, the same rulin applies in Des Moines, large mail ord houses, such as—Sears Roebuck Con pany, receive numerous small remittanc in the form of postage stamps, and a their uses are generally of the precar celled type, they send these unprecar celled stamps to the local post office i order to have them precancelled and use with the supply purchased locally. A these stamps are in sheets, part sheet blocks and singles, it would be impos sible to precancel them in the norm way, so that they are precancelled b means of a rubber stamp. As a resul any variety that they receive in payme is likely to be precancelled, and this i cludes not only booklets, but older issue commemoratives and the like.

Those going in for the hand-stamp pr cancels, certainly have a real task, a there is no limit to the possibility of wh might exist. As the Des Moines far journal possibly receives many remi tances in stamps, they are no doubt, ex tended the same privilege of having the remittances precancelled, hence — th booklet varieties submitted by M Thompson.

IMPORTANT PACKAGE OF AIR MAIL

When the new Pontiac-Detroit air mail line was inaugurated Tuesday, Nov. 27, 4-year-old Russell Dahl of Pontiac, came through as a "package of freight." Above we have him leaving the plane at the Ford Airport. It cost just $76.75 to put Russell through. Cut is loaned by Detroit Free Press, thanks to Herman W. Boers. We appreciate the courtesy.

values are upright oblong format and show the portrait of the 1921 issue, the values and colors being: 10rp brown and olive, 20rp red-orange and olive, 30rp steel blue and olive, and 60rp red-lilac and olive. The higher values are the opposite form, and picture the lady to the left and the man to the right. Values are 1fr20rp grey-blue, 1fr50rp sepia, 2fr lake and 5fr green.

Mocambique.—The triangular adhesives forecast by us many months ago have now materialised and we are indebted to Mr. W. Redford for copies. The stamps are issued in aid of the Humanitarian Society of the Eastern Cross and, on stipulated dates, must be affixed on all inland mail matter in addition to the usual postage. There are two sets of triangulars, on one of which no denominations are expressed. The other set was manufactured by overprinting this set with the word CORREIOS and denomination. Stamps without indication of denomination are, we understand, sold at 50 centavos each.

Portugal.—The following provisionals are reported by Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co.: Ceres type, perf. 11½, 10 on ¼c, black surcharge; 10 on ½c. black, carmine surcharge; 10 on 1c brown, 10 on 4c orange, 10 on 5c olive, 40 on 3c pale ultra, 80 on 6c brown, 80 on 6c pink and 80 on 48c rose, all with black surcharges. Also the 10 on 4c green appears later.

Roumania.—Whitfield King & Co. send for chronicle copies of the 1, 2 and 3 lei values of the Air Post stamps with horizontal wavy lines watermark.

Syria.—Whitfield King & Co. send for mention the 10c overprinted for use as "05." The surcharge is in red.

Union of South Africa.—Under a "Stop Press" note the South African Philatelist reports that the ½p postage due stamp has been re-issued, but in a new design. The stamp will probably be overprinted for use in South West Africa.

A VETERAN DEALER

The managing editor spent a very enjoyable day in Birmingham, Eng., in July of last year, where he met W. T. Wilson, the veteran British dealer, and for a second time exchanged opinions upon philately—and golf. Mr. Wilson has just passed his 80th birthday and the congratulations of a great host of friends will be his. He began to collect in 1860 and his interest has never waned. Associated with Mr. Wilson is his son, Frank E. Wilson, also a keen student of stamps, and especially Belgium. He was educated in Germany, entered the firm in 1895 and became a partner in 1902. He has a penchant for stamp exhibitions and has traveled much. Not long ago he was a visitor at our Beverly office.

PHILATELIC WINNERS

By "COLORIMETER."

A good proportion of the stamps recommended within the last twelve months in this newspaper have turned out "winners."

Ascension.—The 4d and 6d were first reported in S.C. as withdrawn, and as recorded 9.6.28 have now risen substantially. It is worth noting that the 4d occurs on two papers, pale yellow and lemon, quite distinct. I believe one, the first-named, to be much scarcer than the other, but perhaps some other readers can give their opinions?

St. Helena.—One naturally thinks of this country with Ascension, as the two make such an interesting group. The 4d here, as recommended in the Christmas S.C., has been advancing recently. I have seen it on one paper only, but possibly it exists on two?

The 1s 6d is on a very unusual paper and appears different from any other green MCA papers. Can any reader explain this? Was it a trial make of paper? It makes a very effective stamp in the colourings adopted, and much handsomer than the variety that succeeded it, on emerald script.

The outstanding rarity here has turned out to be the 15s, which I believe was also first mentioned in S.C. It is worth picking up to-day at any appreciable discount off its current catalogue price, as its withdrawal took most people by surprise. It is rumoured that the 7s 6d duty has also been withdrawn. Can any reader confirm or deny this from official sources?

The "Seal's mouth" and other varieties that occur on the current "Bruce" type make it a very interesting group to study.

Gibraltar.—The £1 on red bounded up on its withdrawal, and sagged again on small supplies coming over from the continent, but rumours of local dealers having bought up large supplies are only canards, as on the contrary very few appear to be held locally. Perhaps they were circulated by those anxious to buy! I believe it is a stamp that has a good future, and in view of the steady rise of the £1 Edwards and high values in general, is certain to turn out a fine investment at to-day's price. It must be remembered that S.G. Nos. 85, 100, and 101 were all withdrawn unexpectedly. The later Edwards were expected to have a short life, some actually being issued after the death of the late Sovereign, yet they have, almost without exception, turned out very good. No official figures of these stamps have ever been published, and quantities stated in some quarters of the 4s and 8s Script should be regarded as guesses. These have varied between 1,000 and 20,000! The former must be nearer the mark.

Barbados.—The Victory set, and indeed almost all modern stamps of this country, keep in demand, and the 3s violet (1916) caused a sensation on figuring at 75s in Gibbons' last autumn, at a time when it was selling at 15s to 20s. This cat. figure was evidently a misprint, as it soon afterwards was corrected to 35s, at which it now stands. Not soon enough, however, to prevent it being copied by one or two other catalogues, who apparently copied the error!

It is not often that a middle issue Victorian stamp rises suddenly in price, but the fact that a mint copy of the large 5s (1873) of Barbados recently fetched £13 at auction will not have passed unnoticed, and we may expect the catalogue price to be altered some in the next edition.

2½d oranges have caused a good deal of interest, and two or three are undoubtedly scarce, but the 1d red Scripts have one or two items nearly as scarce whose merits have hardly been recognised.

St. Lucia is the best, but the 1d red Script of Solomons seems very cheap on current pricings, and I doubt if there are any large wholesale stocks of either. One may usually search in vain through bulk lots of the 1d red Leewards for any Scripts. Very few can have been used in the Colony, but rather more were sold in London.—Stamp Collecting.

A PRECANCEL WITH A FUTURE

By A. F. GAMBER.

The Postal Rates Bill of 1928 has rendered obsolete the 25c Special Handling stamp by providing for similar stamps of 10, 15, 20c values. This stamp has been in use for approximately three years, and has never been in sufficiently wide use to become anywhere near common among precancel collectors. It is doubtful if more than one printing of it has ever been made. So far as I know, no one has attempted to specialize it, except Dr. Mitchell, and he has confined his efforts to electros only. Probably no dealer or accumulator has at most more than 50 copies on hand, and it's safe to hazard the opinion that a goodly share of that number would be Cincinnatis, that office being probably the heaviest user of them. For these reasons I believe that anyone who had consistently specialized this stamp would now have a better piece of property than if he had spent the same amount of effort and money on one of the late Commemoratives. The 25c Special Handling, to my way of thinking, will prove to be a very good stamp in the future. General collectors will have occasion to lament the lack of quite a number of them, state specialists will seek long and diligently (and possibly unsuccessfully) for them. Especially so because small town offices, the homes of most of the chickeries and nurseries, used them more than the larger cities and towns. In fact this has been very largely a small town stamp, which means a hard to get stamp. Many large cities did not use it at all in precancelled form.

I do not regard my general collection as a world beater, or even as one of the outstanding ones, but I propose to take up the rest of this article in running over the 25c Special Handlings in it, to give you some idea how little it has been used and saved, for what I have of it is as nothing to what I would like to have. This article, then, is not intended to show what I have, but to show how deficient in it one of the larger general collections is. I regret very much that someone did not thoroly specialize it, that he might set before us a good article on this stamp with a future. Before starting this ramble through my albums, may I express the hope that someone will at once start a specialized collection of the three forthcoming Special Handlings, so the hobby won't be caught short again. And here's another angle to the matter: will these three stamps come out temporarily in the 11 perf. and soon switch over to the compound, or will they remain permanently perf. 11? The 10c Special is now compound perf., you know, so there is a strong possibility that at least the 10c Special Handling may switch.—Precancel Bee.

The Great World Need

By THE MANAGING EDITOR.

AT this Christmas-tide good-will is in the air and reflected in our acts. There is a feeling of kinship that must give expression to itself and so we greet each other with a "Merry Christmas" that has in it the ring of buoyancy and friendliness. It is an exchange of good cheer, a bit of radiant personality, and a token of the day when a better understanding shall prevail between man and man. At this season of the year the world takes on a more brilliant coloring because a soul has come in closer contact with another soul. It is the Christmas spirit giving full play to itself—that expression of good-will that more than nineteen centuries ago rang out as the shepherds tended their flocks in old Judea.

This spirit of good-will should not be confined to a few days in December. In the development of that finer understanding which the world needs it should permeate all the days of the year and all the years of one's life. What a change could be wrought in every community were we to cultivate this spirit. It is possible. The lowly Nazarene whom we honor today has shown the way.

Whatever may be our political faith or our religious belief, there is a general acceptance of the truth that man is by nature religious. There is something within us that compels us to respect or worship a great ideal. So we have groups of people, fraternal organizations, and luncheon clubs too numerous to name, all with codes of ethics and morals based upon the teachings found in that great deliverance, "The Sermon on the Mount." Indeed, there are two specific teachings there which if put into practise would perpetuate the Christmas spirit. They are well worth considering.

In the first place we are to treat the other person as we ourselves would desire to be treated. A hard thing to do? Most assuredly. All ideals are difficult to attain but an honest effort that meets with failure is preferable to lack of ambition to reach a great goal.

There is another great teaching emphasized in "The Sermon on the Mount." If a man compels us to go with him a mile from a sense of duty, the injunction is laid upon us to go a second mile. Here is a great fundamental teaching and one of tremendous importance. These two miles are of equal length, but the first is a mile of duty while the second is a mile of privilege, and the mile to the development of understanding

What is true of the individual is true of the nation and of the world. Suspicion must be displaced by confidence, submarines give way to commercial carriers and swords beaten into plowshares. We are nationalistic, but we are more than that, we are brothers. We who are philatelists can be truly proud of the fact that our hobby knows no boundary. It has only one language. It has the single aim of fostering a common understanding. Would that the splendid spirit of good cheer that this season brings might overflow into the months of 1929 and help in that real development of an understanding between man and man that will make this old world what it should be.

LORD MAYOR OPENS EXHIBITION

The Lord Mayor of London (Sir Kynaston Studd), accompanied by the Lady Mayoress, opened the London Stamp Exhibition at the Memorial Hall, Farringdon St., E. C., at 2.30 p. m., on Friday, November 16th. Introducing the Lord Mayor, the Chairman, Mr. F. H. Vallancey, said that one of the chief interests of the exhibition had been to secure the interest of the chief citizen.

The Lord Mayor, expressing his pleasure and interest in the exhibition, said that when younger he and his brothers were ardent stamp collectors, and he still possessed the collection of his youth. His son was now a much keener collector than he was, and would no doubt be among the visitors to the Exhibition, which he had much pleasure in declaring open.

Mr. Fred. J. Melville (Hon. President of the Exhibition), proposing a vote of thanks to the Lord Mayor, said:

"The Lord Mayor has declared our Exhibition open, and philatelists, not only those gathered in this hall, but philatelists scattered throughout the broad Empire and in foreign countries would wish to be associated with our expression of thanks to him for honouring not only our Exhibition but our Hobby.

Our Exhibition consists of British stamps and that is but one phase, though an important phase of stamp collecting. Many people still think stamp collecting implies the gathering of foreign stamps, but those of us who have been long at the game know that there's nothing to beat the British goods.

The postmaster of Maidstone the other day explained the difference between English and Foreign stamps. He said we put more gum on ours and our gum tasted better.

Well, we ought to get some advantage when we pay 1½d for our penny stamps. But the postmaster was right. No one has ever been poisoned by English stamps.

One factor that commends English stamps to collectors is the fact that they are only changed rarely and for serious reasons. There are other countries, sir, that change their stamps more often than we change our Lord Mayor.

First City Exhibition.—It is the first time a public stamp exhibition has been held within the city borders and I suggest the organisers have done well to bring the knowledge of our delightful hobby to the busy workers of the City. Your visit has crowned their efforts to reach the people most in need of a tranquil hobby that combines culture and recreation.

But there is a deeper significance in having you with us to-day. These English stamps of which you see an unprecedented array are the visible, if small, tokens of the victory of the merchants of the City of London in securing for the public the easy and cheap intercourse of postal correspondence. That victory was won not so long ago over Patentees, Farmers of the Post and the State itself. Just 300 years ago, when there were no facilities for ordinary people to use the King's Post, the Court of Common Council set up a post of its own for merchant's letters all the way from London to Edinburgh.

Dockwra's Post.—A few years later, in 1680, William Dockwra, a London merchant, started a penny post which, in some respects, beats anything we have got to-day. His post carried not just a 2 oz. letter, but a parcel up to one pound's weight, anywhere within the Bills of Mortality for 1d.

The fountain head of our pastime is the General Post Office, and that, Sir, has been in your domain from earliest times. The Postmaster-General is the honoured Patron of our Exhibition, and I hope although he could not be with us to-day he will find time to visit the Exhibition before it closes. It should be a refreshing experience for him to meet men who, although they grouse at paying 1½d for his penny stamps, will cheerfully pay £100 or even £200 for a 1d stamp of the right rare variety.

My Lord Mayor, many of these exhibits are of great value. I do hope and trust no one will have to appear before you in your capacity as Chief Magistrate at the Mansion House in connection with this show. And yet I have my fears—there is one exhibitor (No. 131 in the Catalogue) who makes a special point that no part of his exhibit has been obtained by purchase.

We should all like to make valuable collections without having to pay for them, but we collectors live in respect of the law, and our dealer friends respect both the law and the profits.

In asking this meeting to accord with acclamation our thanks to you, my Lord Mayor, and to you Lady Studd, all join with me in wishing you the richest and most joyous experiences of your lives in

AIR MAIL STAMPED ENVELOPE

About January first the Government will issue a new five cent stamped envelope. The envelope has the red and blue border like the commercial air mail envelope which has been in use for the past year. The die shows an airplane in flight and is printed in blue.

Every collector of first day of issue or first flight air mail covers will want one of these envelopes mailed on the day of issue.

We understand that it is very probable that the Philatelic Agency will not address these new envelopes for collectors. It is simply physically impossible for the Agency to do this.

If such becomes the case, it will be necessary that those who want first day covers have an agent in Washington to address them. We offer our services, and will supply the envelopes mailed on day of issue as follows

One envelope	30c
Five or more envelopes, to different addresses	20c each
Ten or more envelopes to same address	15c each
50 or 100 envelopes to same address	10c each

Unused envelopes will be supplied as soon as possible after placed on sale at 20c for one, $1.25 for 10, $10.00 for 100.

e fulfilment of the high and honourable fice upon which you entered just a eek ago."

Brigadier-General Ridgway seconded. The Lord Mayor, responding, jocularly marked that his Sheriff, Sir William 'aterlow, who had had much more exrience of stamps than he had, should are some of the limelight.

Sir William Waterlow, amid laughter, id this was very sudden and totally nexpected. It was true he had been reonsible for producing many millions of amps, and the standard of production this country was high. The authoris kept a strict watch not only on the uality of the gum by laboratory tests, lt also on the quantity applied to each amp. British stamps were printed on per already gummed, and this was renred possible by the typographical ocess used. He was very pleased to be sociated with the Exhibition.

After Mr. J. B. Seymour had proposed vote of thanks to the Chair and Mr. allancey had responded, the Lord ayor made a tour of the stalls and sted the first letter at the Exhibition ost Office.

The Exhibits.—Space forbids a detled description of the exhibits, which mprise all classes of British stamps, ationery and postal franks. Devoted, the Exhibition is, to two countries ly—Great Britain and Ireland—the Exbition catalogue is of special reference lue. Here will be found categorical scriptions of some of the famous colctions of British stamps, such as those Bertram M'Gowan, J. B. Seymour, C. Dendy Marshall, H. C. V. Adams, illiam Dodd, Sydney R. Turner, F. H. ere, W. P. Costerns, and many others ually worthy of record.—Philatelic agazine.

THE GAY NINETIES

This period in American philately was for a long time decidedly neglected by collectors. It started off quietly enough with the small set of portraits of 1890. The issue was well enough received by collectors and fair stocks of the stamps were established, but when the Columbian Issue made its appearance a bull market was immediately established. It was the first of the U. S. commemorative issues; nice, big plasters, and everyone seems to have decided millions were to be made quickly by purchasing the stamps in quantities and filing them in damp safes. Used ones were in equally good demand and office boys employed in banks or mail-order houses made great hauls from waste-paper baskets. The ensuing glut seemed for the time being to knock the feet from under the stamp market. Non-philatelic investors wanted to get out with a profit and found they could not even have the Columbians redeemed at the post office for face value. The result was that investments in unused stamps then current were limited for a number of years. Today not many collections make even a fair showing of the issues of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, those of 1894-98, nor of its first commemorative issue for the Trans-Mississippi exposition.

And as collectors have tried to make good the oversight, prices soared. They are fairly high today; they should be higher as more and more collectors discover their spaces for the 1894 issue, on unwatermarked paper, are more often than not filled with commoner watermarked stamps of 1895.

OUR PRICE LIST FOR 1929 IS PROMISED FOR JANUARY 1

It offers the stamps of The Gay Nineties at present market prices, while our stock lasts. That won't be long.

Burglary

—Stamp Thief Arrested in N. Y. City Charged With Many Crimes.

By Tom V. Binmore.

The robber who has been causing New York City stamp dealers much concern has been captured.

Suspicious of a seller of stamps, the New York Stamp Co. and the Scott Stamp and Coin Co., held his offerings until Louis Weissman arrived to identify the stolen stamps. They were being offered by one, Launcelot Williams, operating as Nevins, of Nevins and Williams, 105th Street, New York.

While Williams was detained at Scott's, Patrolman Benjamin Rosenberg, of the 9th precinct station, arrested the burglar. Williams broke way and dodged through the midst of the busy noon traffic of Fifth Ave. The patrolman with drawn revolver chased him into the firm grip of Detective Eugene Mahoney of the Fifth Ave. Squad.

The officers took the prisoner (who was wearing Mr. Weissman's overcoat, and carrying his watch and sample book) into custody, raided his rooms and found records of sales, a big collection of keys and a jimmy. Also the residue of the stuff he had stolen from Messrs. Weissman, Galbraith, Lesgor and Binmore. Williams is being held in the Tombs without bail for trial for burglary.

Thus, through coöperation of the dealers and good work by Officers Rosenberg and Mahoney, to whom the whole trade is indebted, ends the series of burglaries that bit deeply into the resources of six dealers and threatened all the others.

The stolen goods are being recovered from those who bought from Williams, alias Nevins, representing himself as a stamp dealer.

POSTAGE STAMP REVIEW

By Montgomery Mulford.

The year 1928 will always be recalled for the number of commemorations and the progress of man in the air. Postage stamps have appeared for almost every single one of these events, and the first half of the year is rather nicely outlined by stamps.

Soviet Russia began the new year with an issue of seven commemorative postage stamps, for her celebration of the tenth anniversary of the "Red Revolution" of 1917-18. On the three kopecs we view the three classes who are alleged to be the rulers: workman, peasant, soldier. The fourteen kopecs shows us a map of the "U. S. S. R.," while the eighteen kopecs presents us with a group of peasants representative of the 193 nationalities in Russia! The inscriptions are in one of three languages: Russian, Turkish, Sanskrit.

Paying deference to her sons who fell in the World War, as well as those who fell fighting for Italian independence, the very-old republic of San Marino issued a series of three postage stamps. In the stamp news for April, San Marino again appears; this time with postage commemorating the visit to that mountain republic—it is built upon Mount Titano—of Saint Francis of Assisi, who was an inspiration to San Marino to keep its freedom. Four stamps appeared. St. Francis had heard of this little country, because it had been founded by Marinus after he had fled the Christian persecutions of the Roman Empire; and Marinus set up a Christian hermitage on Titano. St. Francis came eight hundred years later to San Marino, so that this little country is very old, older than many of the greater nations of that European continent. It has had its own postage since 1877.

Notes of the first of the year tell of new stamps from North Mongolia, which is known as "Touva"; Mongolia North is nominally a Soviet federated republic, which accounts for the Russian denominations on her postage. Fourteen stamps appeared,—one kopec to one ruble—illustrating local scenes, natives of the territory, and one stamp showing a map of that "republic." The issues are rectangular in shape and lithographed at Moscow.

To digress a moment; the year 1928 has been one in which many nations have shown by postage stamps that they have created practically autonomous units within their jurisdictions. Thus Russia with Mongolia (and Karelia, Armenia, etc.), and thus with France in Syria, where the "republic" of Lebanon has been carved. England has created "Commonwealths" in place of republics, whereas Colombia has "Departments," the Swiss "Cantons," and the United States "states."

February stamp news told of the appearance of the young Princess Elizabeth on Luxemburg postage; July notes told of the appearance of the young boy-king Michael on postage of Rumania. Thus is youth served!

Portugal, during the first months of the year, issued fourteen postage commemorative stamps of the Battle of Montijo, which occurred on May 26, 1644 and this set was rather widely ridiculed Portugal, along with Egypt, and to some extent Newfoundland and other states have found the issuing of stamps a good speculation.

At the same time that the Portuguese commemoratives appeared (with scenes from that conflict against Spain, and of leading Portuguese participants), Newfoundland came forward with fourteen new commemoratives.

Every year Switzerland, in order to help certain charities, has (since 1913) issued around Christmas time a Pro-Juventute series of stamps. During the first of this year this new series was broadcasted in our press; the stamps being sold a little over face value, and four in number. The surplus charge went to charity.

Newfoundland presently (March notes) brings forth a set of postage showing the Prince of Wales (Albert Edward), his father, King George V, and his mother, Queen Mary. There are thirteen values issued. The one cent shows us a map of this old British colony

UNITED STATES POSTAGE STAMPS

I have just been rearranging the whole of my summer purchase of United States stamps in a series of new books mounted to suit the requirement of the middle class collector as well as of the advanced specialist. These books are priced at very reasonable prices, mostly based on original cost, and largely ignoring catalogue.

I should be very happy to send any of them that are available to clients known to me or after the usual business references.

The following books are now ready. Let me know which issues you wish to see, when writing.

Book 1. 1847, 5c, 3 unused and in used 2 pairs, and about 25 singles.
10c, I have a pair and 15 singles, among these being the big double transfer in the word "Post Office".
" 2. 1851-56, 1c and 3c, in singles and pairs. The cheaper varieties.
" 3. 1851-56, 3c, 5c, 10c and 12c. Scarcer varieties and unusual items, such as in the 3c line through "three cents" on cover. 3c two positions of the cracked plate.
5c vertical strip of three, superb horizontal pair and several singles.
10c and 12c, a number of fine pairs.
" 4. 1851-56, 3c, 5c, 10c and 12c and
1857-60, 1c, cheaper varieties only.
" 5. 1857-60, 1c to 24c, scarce varieties in singles, pairs and strips.
" 6-7. The cheaper varieties of the issues from 1857 to 1867, inclusive.
" 8. 1857-62, Unused and scarce used. This book includes several fine blocks and a few plate numbers and imprints.
" 9. 1862-68, Unused and special used, the scarcer varieties. This book also includes a fine series in immaculate condition of the re-issues of 1875.
" 10. 1869, Unused and used, including some scarce imprints.
" 11. 1870-73, Unused only, including scarce strips with imprint and rare varieties.
" 12. 1873-82, Unused only, including a number of strips with imprint.
" 13. 1882-83, Unused only, many strips with imprint and some very rare items, one of the choicest being a strip of six of the 2c red-brown, special printing of 1882. This strip has the top margin and the middle pair of stamps is imperf. between vertically, probably unique in this condition.
" 14. 1873-88, Used stamps, including many scarce varieties.
" 15. 1870-73, All used, including many very scarce varieties.
The following three books contain rarities only:
" 16. 1857-62, Unused, including a number of very rare blocks and a few of the large 5c black Post Office, unused and used.
" 17. 1851, Strip of 3 on cover of the 5c, 1851, and many other very desirable pieces.
" 18. 1851-56, 1c scarce varieties, in singles, pairs and strips. Included here are no less than 5 copies of the 1c type 1a.

I also have 7 books of United States stamps on covers, scarce varieties only, including a number of exceptional items which I shall be glad to send on approval. [tf

French Offices in China

The closing of all the foreign offices in China (except Kouang Tcheou Wan, which is leased territory) has turned the attention of collectors who usually follow the trend of the market to this group. Again the old law of supply and demand applies and many advances are noted in the new catalog prices. Be sure that you complete your sets before they are beyond reach.

AMERICA'S GREATEST AIR SHOW

R. J. SCHWARZ.

Without a doubt the International Aeronautical Exposition held at Chicago, Illinois, from December 1 to 9, was the greatest demonstration the Americans have ever had of the true place occupied by aviation in this day and age.

In booths arranged around the walls and on the balcony were shown most all the parts used in airplane manufacture. These exhibits were in themselves worth any effort to attend the show for their informative and demonstrative character; and the most startling fact to be gleaned from them was that all the different makes of motors on display were of the air-cooled type and chiefly of the radial variety, while most all the propellers to be seen anywhere were of steel. It was only a short time ago that water-cooled engines and wooden propellers were almost universal.

Many famous flyers were present at the Exposition on the various days, and one had excellent opportunity to get good close-ups of them. For example, in the evening of December 9, Lady Heath, the world renowned British aviatrix gave short informal lectures on the superior qualities of the famous English small type plane which she has put to such extensive tests on her flights.

Of interest to the philatelist was the frame of air mail covers autographed by the pilots who carried them over various special and first flights, which was displayed by W. A. Steiger of Springfield, Illinois, and which was hung next to the large booth occupied by the branch post office air mail station where it attracted much attention. Particularly noticeable among these covers were two signed by Chas. A. Lindbergh, and a Graf Zeppelin cover signed by Dr. Hugo Eckner.

However, of chief interest was the postal booth itself, which in addition to a good sized counter at which one could write messages on special Airograms and buy stamps, contained several pieces of office furniture, an automatic canceling machine and facilities for sorting the mail after it received the special cachet which had been authorized and furnished from Washington. Quite a thrill to see your cover get all "fixed up" right before your eyes, and know that in a few days it will come right back with a lot of back-stamps all ready for a place in the album!

Collectors of air mail covers should be very grateful to the men in charge of the air mail business at the Chicago post office. They were instrumental in having the authorities authorize an appropriate special cachet for this event, the first one for which there has been an official authorization to apply it in a different colored ink each day. The colors and the dates used were as follows:

Dec. 1, Violet; Dec. 2, Orange-Yellow; Dec. 3, Deep Magenta; Dec. 4, Black; Dec. 5, Blue; Dec. 6, Brown; Dec. 7, Green; Dec. 8, Deep Purple; and Dec. 9, Orange.

All the facilities of the Chicago Post Office air mail division were thrown into operation to see that the covers sent in to receive the special cancellation were properly taken care of according to the wishes of the sender. The special rubber stamps were carefully tested to eliminate any smudgy impressions from the edges of the base of the stamps, which would show when pressed down too hard or unevenly and wherever necessary these were trimmed off so that covers would have the neatest possible appearance. It will be found that any special mail from the Chicago office is characteristically neatly postmarked and cacheted because the greatest possible care is always exercised in handling such covers. During the period from the 1st to the 9th the air mail division was put back nearly a week in regular routine work due to taking care of collectors' mail, and this means they must work doubly hard to catch up because no extra help is provided for such occasions. Because of this great consideration shown to us collectors it is suggested that everyone who received any number of covers write a short note of appreciation; they are human and will certainly appreciate it.

We may rightfully say that the first International Aeronautical Exposition in the United States was a great success for all concerned.

UNITED STATES ENVELOPES, Cut Square

We wish to call your attention to the numbering of these stamps. Our own number comes first, preceded by the letter "E" or "W" (wrapper). Kindly use OUR NUMBER when ordering. Following this comes the number in Scott's catalogue, which is for your reference. Kindly note these envelope stamps are not arranged in the same order as Scott's catalogue, but in the order in which they come in the National Album, which we find very much more convenient, and much easier to understand. Where no paper is mentioned, the stamp is understood to be on white paper.

We can supply some of these envelopes in entire condition. We do not, however, carry any large stock of these.

RELAND AND SCOTT'S CATALOGUE

By HUBERT LYMAN CLARK.

Several weeks ago you published a brief article praising the new Scott's catalogue for its handling of Ireland. Will you permit me to express a contrary opinion as strongly as type-metal permits? My interest in Ireland as a country to collect is simply wrecked by the changes that have been made. We no longer have a general collector's catalogue of the "old country," but a specialized list of all the minor varieties—for most of them at least. The attempt to distinguish the so-called "blue-black" ink is perfectly futile in used copies and the fractions of millimeter require both a very accurate millimeter scale and a magnifying glass.

If specialists in Ireland want to bother with such trivialities, I should certainly say "go to it"—and there are several specialized catalogues and lists which would and encourage them in doing so. But I cannot see any justification for compelling a collector like myself, who wants to have all the really different stamps of Ireland represented in his collection, to use such refined methods for determining what he possesses. In view, if any, other countries does the Scott catalogue err in this way, and why Ireland should be selected for the spoiling, I can't see. All I can hope for now is that the disease won't spread.

It makes one shudder to think what will happen when Japan, Palestine, or the various Australian states are the victims of a similar attack. If the Scott catalogue is to become like Gibbons, a catalogue for specialists, then it is to be hoped some equally able and enterprising firm will begin the production of a "General Collector's Catalogue of the World's Postage Stamps." But how I should hate to give up "Scott's"!

ON Friday, Dec. 28, 8 P. M., the Yorkville Stamp Society will hold its Xth New Year party at Lindenfeld's Banquet Hall, 1568 Second Ave., N. Y. City. A program of great merit will be presented and members are urged to bring their friends. Louis Bentz is president and A. Weston, secretary.

BRIDGER & KAY, 170 Strand, London, England, has sent us a special list covering a wide range of offerings. Occupying a prominent position is a fine line of mint George issues. A copy of the list may be had for the asking.

Sevard's Twinkles

Red Cross Slogans.—The barrage of Red Cross slogans from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving with the timely sequence of the issuance of Anti-Phthisis Galleons is now an historical episode. No critic has yet attempted to deny that the seal has a boat portrayed, yet one firmly expects to find the halyards twisted, the rudder reversible, the jib, a giblet and the very sails, without bellying propensities even to sail. Expectantly we awaited the usual cover with seals used with the stamp, neatly cancelled. And we were not disappointed. As Edgar Allan Poe wrote, "Every rule is provable by its exception."

"Mail Early."—And now it is time to "Mail Early for Christmas." This shibboleth of procrastination strikes terror within the hearts of millions. Quaking, tremulous, aguish, the recipient falters, gasps and deliquesces. How can one mail early when as one has not yet shopped?

1916 Envelopes.—We have taken to bosom the 2c issue, and its white paper banalities, both cut square and entire, and even expressed a decided familiarity with its die A mask. Nothing else was quite common, but we now have gotten enough of the die H2 to bring within our fold. Some years ago, die A ran rampant over everything else, when die H began to show itself above the lesser dies. A while later, die H2 began to edge its way into our statistics, and now ranks second to die A in frequency. Someone objects. Why all this banter of envelope dies? Does anyone collect them outside of a Bartelian clan? If one collects at all, one surely has a 2c 1916 circular envelope copy, and no doubt it is on white paper. And more probably it is a copy in heavy letters with the bases of the numerals on an even line. This is surely your die A. If the letters are thin, and the bases of the numerals are not on an even line, then no doubt you have a die H series copy.

Values.—To assign values to these items is not difficult. As before said, the 2c 1916 envelope in used condition is probably worth $ .00040 each. This figure also represents the value of the white paper variety, and also the die A white paper variety cut square. For an entire, the value is near $ .00126. The Die H2 on white paper is worth about $ .00134 for a cut square and $ .00804 for an entire. And if one be so inclined, these figures have this enormous value, that one can hereafter safely eliminate saving these two items in the envelope issues, and devote one's self to the other dies, and other paper varieties.

Taking Stock.—Towards the close of the year, when business is busy computing an accounting of the dying year, and balancing items of debit and credit, and writing depreciations and obsolescences into their burdens, we often become pensive and dreamily calculate the faults and successes of our ways. There are many things we have learned, there are many experiences we would not care to encounter again, there are hosts of invoices we are glad to stack away as harbingers of the unrelenting past. We only are old when we have memories. And so this parade of experience passes at the close of the year. Executives are busy today writing reports of the annual success, accountants are scurrying to write into their balance sheets, the epitome of colossal endeavor, clerks are nimbly drumming a rat-a-tat-tat on the typing keys to clear the desk for the coming year, as if all were not simply vanity, a mocking show of pageantry, a jazz exuberance of culled joys? Aside, one sits and sees but the procession burying its dead. The busy grave digger opens the grave, the scurrying undertaker flaunts the winding sheet, and the nimble choiristers are singing a requiem. The greatest music of the world only comes from forsaken hearts. Those poignant melodies which creep into the depths of one's nature are only the casual wellings of suppressed tears. And as a stamp collector, we too are trying to go over our year as if it were a profit and loss statement. We have written into these lines the calculations of a million stamps, not a rarity which all by itself poses the epic, but the hordes of stamps that flow with the jetsam of the flood. Into these lines have come not a thousand copies, not ten thousand copies, but literally millions of copies of the true postage stamp, which by their only intent of creation, have performed their task, and silently passed their way. Not one tomorrow will raise its head to plead its case. Forever sunken are they in the Slough of Despond. Yet in the fetid mire is rooted our Yggdrasil, our Tree of Life, our hopes of collecting, and as it builds itself up, year by year, its crest reaches the sunlight and brings forth new leaves.

Merry Christmas!

DEATH OF THE REV. R. B. EAREE

We deeply regret to record the death of the Rev. Robert Brisco Earée, 82 years old, who passed away suddenly on Monday afternoon, November 12, at his residence, Ewlyn House, Leckhampton Road, Cheltenham. We take the following excerpts from a special memoir in a Leicester newspaper:—

By his death England loses one of the most learned men of our time, who might have filled brilliantly any public position had he adopted any profession other than that of the ministry. All who knew him and his sweet disposition are devoutly thankful that he did choose for his life's calling and work that of a clergyman, and the testimonial presented to him on his retirement from the living of Miserden in 1921 (signed by over eighty parishioners and friends), showed how deeply his thirty-one years' work there was valued.

He commenced stamp collecting as a boy, and became in manhood such an extraordinary expert in all philatelical matters that he was offered the post of editor to the philatelic department of the Bazaar, which he held for twenty-five years, only relinquishing it to give himself more time for his great work—the writing of a book to enable collectors to know how to detect forged stamps. That sure and infallible guide, which he called by the apt title "Album Weeds," made him known throughout the world. In recognition of the stupendous labour involved in the writing of this book, the great Philatelic Congress held at Harrogate in 1921 placed his name upon the "Roll of Honour of Distinguished Philatelists"—the highest possible honour they were empowered to confer.

There was another honour, however, which he treasured most, and which he loved to tell of to the last, namely that of being invited by the King—who had accepted the dedication of his book—to visit him at his Palace and inspect his collection of stamps.

"What stamp would you like to see first, Mr. Earée?" asked his Majesty. "The blue twopenny Mauritius, Sir," he replied. "I guessed you would say that," came the laughing reply; "I've got it here, ready for you." Then, reaching to a shelf, he took down a copy of "Album Weeds" to show he had it by him.

Though Mr. Earée had described in "Album Weeds" exactly how to detect the known forgeries of this most valuable stamp in the world, he had never seen an original. His mental grip of things was such that he never seemed to forget anything he had ever read, and he maintained that he never discoursed with anyone without learning something. He was blessed with a beautiful baritone voice as a young man, and was an able pianist and 'cellist. He compiled a chant book for which the late Sir Arthur Sullivan wrote him a "Venite" (the only published chant, we believe, by that eminent composer). His outstanding work as a clergyman was done as chaplain in Berlin.—Stamp Collecting.

EDITORIAL

THE remarks of editors of newspapers on stamp subjects occasionally show a streak of perversity that makes the philatelic gorge rise. The observations sometimes are such as to show a dangerous half-knowledge of conditions that is little better than outright ignorance. For instance there is an editorial in the Marion, Ohio, Star, of November 26th, headed, "Stamp People Dissatisfied," that has been sent in by Mr. Edward L. Berchtold, Troy, Ohio. The Marion editor quotes a Cleveland newspaper to say that the supply of Molly Pitcher stamps in that city was soon exhausted by the local collectors with their demands for full sheets. We quote: "'Considerable dissatisfaction,' says the paper, 'arose among stamp collectors over the fact that a surcharged issue was printed instead of a special issue with an appropriate picture. The surcharged stamps were snapped up, nevertheless.' So stamp collectors expressed dissatisfaction? Well, that certainly is too bad. It's a burning shame that the government should treat stamp collectors so shabbily, when all it had to do to give joy to them was to get out new drawings and new plates. What are a few thousands of the public's money compared with the happiness of the stamp collectors! Frankly, we have never thought of it before, but why should the government print special issues, even though they be but surcharged issues, if they are to be cornered by stamp collectors and dealers for commercialization?" We sit back and listen raptly to the plain words of Mr. Berchtold, and to our way of thinking he neatly impales the Marion editor on his pen: "The article explains itself. As to spending a 'few thousands of the public money,' if the editor write the Department at Washington, he will find that collectors have a few plates coming to them in the way of dividends on profits made by the government in the sale of unused stamps to collectors. Now, I look at a commemorative stamp as a sort of monument to the person or event to be commemorated. Did the country raise a hue and cry over the Harding Memorial (erected in Marion and to be dedicated next spring) saying that the monument would do nobody good, except perhaps the citizens of Marion? No! So, why must the editor knock collectors because the government failed to put out a stamp that would fittingly commemorate that brave woman, Molly Pitcher? This country boasting of its riches, prosperity, etc., can hardly afford to resort to these unsightly overprints to commemorate events that every American holds dear to his heart. As for commercialization, it seems to me that it is none of the editor's business what becomes of the stamps. Is it not far better to keep the stamps in collections rather than in the waste baskets? If a collector desires a sheet of 100 stamps to keep for a time, then resell to collectors, he is entitled to interest on money tied up in the stamps."

WE have received the following telegram from Cincinnati, dated Dec. 11th, from the Embry Riddle Co.: "Special cachet ready for air mail, Cincinnati, December seventeenth," and while we are pleased enough to give this news to an awaiting world, yet so far as being of practical use by our readers, it comes too late.

THE following letter has come from Mrs. G. L. Foster, E. Arlington Ht., Mass.: "Thank you for your kind editorial of Dec. 3, 1928. The Associated Press should correct in justice to King George, any representation, in its varied head-lines, as to the motive of our great Philatelist, the King of England. He deserves all right-thinking and fairness for his broad-minded attitude to us. My own experience may help to clear up any least doubt of the honesty of his refusal and shows his courtesy and moral regard in returning the gift of the Molly Pitcher stamps, sent by Mr. Rogers, Assistant Postmaster of Red Bank, New Jersey. In my collection some two years ago, I found two stamps, one with a cancellation of the Mother Queen Victoria, and the other of the Royal Family, well defined, on Canadian stamps. Canada being a part of the British Empire and knowing that the King collected the stamps of Great Britain, at any rate, I thought these cancellations would be of interest and after consideration I sent them with a note of explanation. In due season, an answer came from the secretary that was identical, almost, and word for word to that received by Mr. Rogers from the King's secretary; and surely there could be but the one reason, that, he said 'he collected stamps of Great Britain only'." Our understanding is that the King collects stamps of the British Empire only, and it is preposterous to read into the records any insinuation that the Molly Pitcher stamps were returned for any reason other than a sense of courtesy. Incidentally, the Associated Press cannot govern the fancy of the managing editors in supplying heads for a story; and in this regard, the wind bloweth where it listeth.

MR. B. SCHOEMANN, Chicago, writes: "The great demand for air stamps, 'really flown' in Latvia, especially with the first air mail stamps of the 10 and 20 ruble values, has been taken advantage of by a dealer in Libau who has chosen to supply the American with his products. We find in a large illustrated catalogue under Specialties in Air Mail, the following offer of Foreign Flown Covers: Latvia, 9 envelopes, Liepajal (Libau), etc., etc., as well as flown covers from Memel to Liepajal, from Tallin to Liepajal and so on. The real joke on the buyers of these flown covers is that Liepajal (Libau) has never been connected with an air post. We fully believe that the American firm has been the dupe of a Libau dealer and offers of 'real flown' covers from unknown dealers should be ignored."

A CLIPPING from Life has been handed in that presents the subject of stamp collecting in a startling manner. That capable artist, Walter Schmidt, who cuts comical capers with his pencil, shows two robbers holding up as many clerks in a mail car. A two-gun bandit covers the clerks while he commands that his partner in crime search for letters from Honduras, because "me kid brother's got a stamp collection."

AN old collector says that he remembers when a collection of one thousand varieties of stamps was not to be sneezed at, and we might add that he does not need to strain his memory to do so. In and around 1880, the packet of six hundred varieties that was offered by Scott in the back pages of the International Album for ten dollars represented philatelic affluence in the imagination of the young collector. In 1884, a New York dealer offered a thousand varieties for $12.63, and for some years, a standard price for the thousand was ten dollars, although about 1890, one advertiser of the packet at this price gave a 5c New York as a prize with every third or fifth packet. Now a thousand stamps may be had almost for the asking, proving that it has never been so easy to collect stamps as at the present, a fact that the young people should appreciate.

IN the New York Times of October 3, 1928, Dr. James Brown Scott, Secretary for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and Director of the Division of International Law, was interviewed upon his return from Europe. In due time, we received this clipping that "Weighs Progress of New Germany" from Mr. Geo. L. Baldwin, Alameda, Cal., with the following striking comment on the recent portrait issues of Germany that coming from Dr. Scott shows that there is a spirit back of the stamps:

"There is certainly a very interesting Germany today, which in the rush and bustle of the present takes time to think of the past. Little things show how the current flows, and nothing impressed me as more significant than the postage stamps which the Republic has issued. In these stamps Germany has bared its soul to the world and confessed its faith in the things of the spirit. In other words, it has put the portraits of its great on the stamps.

"The lowest financial denominators are the greatest intellectual values. Goethe's Apollo-like features adorn two of the stamps, those of three and twenty-five pfennige; likewise, Beethoven's massive front frowns from two, those of eight and twenty pfennige; Schiller, five; Frederick the Great, ten; the philosopher Kent, fifteen; Lessing, thirty; Leibnitz, mathematician, philosopher and publicist, forty; Virchow, master of the natural sciences, sixty; and Albrecht Dürer, eighty. There are one or two more, but I am only mentioning the names of those whom I happen to recall. These portraits, singly or in combination, appear on every German postcard and letter, and every card and letter is visible evidence of German culture and civilization."

—Says All First Class Mail Will Go By Air Within Five Years.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—All first class mail will be carried by air in the United States within five years, according to W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general in charge of air mail.

"Just as the post office department has been quick to utilize every means of transportation known to man in getting mail to the most remote parts of the country with the utmost of speed, so we have decided that the airplane must replace other means of transportation for all first class mail," Glover told members of the American and Foreign delegations to the international civil aeronautics conference next year.

"The post office department has been working out the details of a route along the Pacific coast of South America from Colon, Panama, to Santiago, Chile, and will advertise within a few days for bids to carry mail over that route," the assistant postmaster general said.

"Next month the mail of our 110,000,000 customers will be carried by air to all principal points in Latin and Central America, over the air trail blazed by Lindbergh as far as San Juan in the West Indies and Colon in Panama. It would be safe to forecast that the route to Santiago, Chile, through Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Chile will be in operation next July," Glover said.

As forecast in last week's issue, the Post Office Department of the Philippine Islands issued an overprinted stamp for the arrival of the London-Orient British Fliers. The cover at hand bears the 2c and 4c values, overprinted in a brilliant red, "L.O.F." (London-Orient Flight) in the first line, a miniature hydroplane flying East, in the second line, and "1928" in the third line. The use of a miniature hydroplane for an overprint is certainly unique. The cover received from Mr. Walter Bruggmann bears a First Day cachet, double circle, "London-Orient Flight" at top of circle, "First Day Cover" across the circle and "Manila, November 9th, 1928" at bottom of cirlce. Four small planes, flying West are included in each half of the inner circle. If the British fliers carry a sack of mail from Manila on their flight to Hong Kong, the covers will be at hand in the near future, as the fliers were to leave Manila on November 26th.

The Dayton Chamber of Commerce informs me that they tried to have the new issue of stamps placed on sale at that point for December 10th, the date of Dayton's celebration in connection with the visit of the delegates to the International Civil Aeronautics Conference, to Dayton, but were not successful in getting the stamps! It is possible that other communities made the same requests; without results!

Yakima, Seattle and Spokane will soon be linked up with CAM No. 5, according to newspaper items from Spokane. The Varney Company, contractors of CAM No. 5, have been investigating these points recently and have made the statement to the newspapers that all that remains for the service to be inaugurated, is the official requests of the communities interested. Yakima is rated as the second largest despatcher of Air Mail in Washington, Seattle being first. Courtesy of Mr. E. J. Newcomer.

The first Monday Flight over CAM No. 8 was productive of a nice six line cachet reading "First Monday Flight—of Seven Day Service — Pacific Air Transport—CAM No. 8—Seattle* Los Angeles—December 3, 1928." Covers despatched from Seattle show the CAM figure as No. 18, while those mailed from Los Angeles have the figure as No. 8. At this time I am unable to say whether or not the Boeing Air Transport Co. have acquired the route from San Francisco to Seattle and used their route number. Not Official.

Collectors interested in modern aviation should read the January issue of Popular Science. This monthly magazine has a splendid article on the airplane since the days of its birth at Kitty Hawk, wonderfully illustrated and intensely interesting. Popular Aviation for January is also well worth buying, for the special articles on the Wright brothers.

Quite a lengthy list of cities, through their Chambers of Commerce or other local organizations, applied anniversary cachets to Air Mail on December 17th. Will try and give a full list next week.

Junior Dictionary

Portugal.—A republic of Europe between Spain and the Atlantic. Postage stamps were first issued in 1853.

Posta Fiume—("Fiume Post").—An ancient seaport city at the northeast end of the Adriatic Sea formerly belonging to Hungary. As a result of the World War it became a football in diplomatic negotiations. Under Italian occupation Hungary stamps were surcharged "Fiume," while "Posta di Fiume" and "Posta Fiume" appear inscribed on later issues.

Posta Ukr. N. Rep. Schagiw.—A surcharge applied locally at the city of Stanislau, in western Ukrainia, on various Austrian stamps. The abbreviation is for "Ukrainska Narodnia Respublika," or Ukrainian Peoples Republic. The word "schagiw" is the monetary denomination.

Postage Currency.—A name given to paper money, especially that issued by the United States, upon which may be found facsimiles of postage stamp designs. Thus a 5c piece of currency shows the design of the then current 5c stamp and a 50c would show five of the 10c.

Postage & Revenue.—Found on many of the stamps of Great Britain and its Colonial possessions showing that in addition to prepaying postage the stamps may also be used for certain fiscal purposes.

Coamo

A small town in the island of Porto Rico at which provisional 5c stamps, set up from ordinary printer's type, were issued in 1898 shortly after the island came under the dominion of the United States.

Deutsch Oestr. Postverein

This inscription in small Gothic lettering appears on the left hand side of all the stamps of Thurn and Taxis as well as on the first issue of Baden and Wurtemberg, and is merely the Germanic equivalent of "German-Austrian Postal Union." This Union was a postal Convention concluded between Austria and various German states in 1850 for the interchange of correspondence at certain fixed rates. One of the Articles of this Convention provided that postal matter circulating between the various States comprised in the Union should, as a general rule, be prepaid, and that this prepayment should be effected by means of postage stamps as soon as practicable. As a result of this article most of the states in the Union took prompt steps to provide themselves with postage stamps, but, with the exception of the cases noted above, no reference to the postal agreement was made on these labels.—Philatelic Opinion.

Buckman Brain Teasers

Here is a list of answers to the "Teasers" that were printed last week:—

1—To prevent the cancellation from being erased.

2—Albania.

3—No. 62 is inscribed "Reichpost"—No. 75 is inscribed "Deutches Reich."

4—Cape of Good Hope, No. 178.

5—Hungary, Nos. 198 to 202.

6—In type A-27, letters in corners are in an eight sided polygon, type A-17 letters in squares.

7—Belgium Congo—Stanley Commems.

8—Guatemala, type A-54.

9—Paraguay, types A-48 and A-51.

10—Azerbaijan, type A-6.

Marginal Plate Numbers

Reference to Marginal plate numbers or inscriptions is frequently made in stamp articles nowadays. The meaning of these expressions is obvious for, of course, they simply relate to anything engraved on the margin of a plate and thus printed at the same time and in the same color as the stamps. Any sheet of United States stamps will serve as an example, for the number of the plate is engraved, the imprint of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is shown and there are generally initials of the plate-men who have had something or other to do with that particular plate. Marginal varieties are chiefly of interest to the specialist and their study alone is an interesting occupation.

CPSNJA

Millimetre

Millimetre is a familiar term in connection with all sorts of stamp measurements and one that is now universally adopted by philatelists. It is, of course, a measure in the metric system signifying the thousandth part of a metre. Perforations are gauged by the number of teeth or holes that may be counted in the space of 2 centimetres—i. e., 20 millimetres. Measurements of stamps and of surcharges are always expressed in millimetres, so that a collector will find a millimetre gauge a very useful item in his collecting equipment.

Catharine Wheel

An overprint found upon many of the stamps of Salvador issued in 1899 and 1900. The object of the overprint is stated to have been "to distinguish the stamps actually used from the un-issued remainders in the hands of the contractors."

Stamps in Sheets

A sheet of stamps is the term applied to a piece of paper on which an impression has been printed from a stamp plate and which has been gummed and perforated ready for sale to the public. There are really two sorts of sheets—"printer's" sheets and "post-office" sheets—which often differ very materially in size. Take the current 2c United States stamp as an example. The plates from which these are printed contain 400 impressions so that there are 400 stamps on the sheet as originally printed. These large printer's sheets are cut into four sheets before being distributed to postmasters, so that the post-office sheets—the ones familiar to the public—contain only 100 stamps. The only exception is in the case of the imperforate stamps which are sold in the full size printer's sheets of 400. Speaking generally, however, when a sheet is referred to in philatelic literature it means a post-office sheet and these vary considerably in size. The number of stamps on a sheet depends as a rule on the currency of the country issuing them. In countries where decimal currency obtains, the sheets are generally composed of a hundred stamps or some multiple of a hundred. The current ½d and 1d stamps of Great Britain are in sheets of 240, thus having a value of 10s and 20s respectively—equal to the two gold coins of the British Islands. United States stamps, on the other hand, are in sheets of 100 so that a sheet of any value totals an even number of dollars or dollars and a half.

Hong Kong Jubilee

Hong Kong was first occupied by the British on January 22, 1841, and the jubilee of this event was commemorated in a modest manner in 1891 by overprinting a number of the then current 2c stamps with "1841—Hong Kong—JUBILEE—1891" in four lines in black. The Scott catalogue lists three varieties of this overprint (a) with short U of JUBILEE, (b) with short J of JUBILEE, and (c) with tall K in Kong. The latter is the only real variety, the letter K being tall and thin and from an entirely different font of type from that used for the other stamps. There are several other varieties of at least equal interest and importance as the short J and U listed. The most striking of these is one with the letters "Ho" and "ng" of Hong very widely separated; and others are a short I in JUBILEE, a broken 1 in 1891, broken 8's in both 1841 and 1891, and a stroke between 18 and 41.—Philatelic Opinion.

A PHILATELIC DIALOG

By ROGER C. HACKETT.

Phila: Hello, Chala old boy, Hawaii? Are you Hungary?

C. Telic: Yes, Siam. I'd like a Sandwich.

Phila: I'll Fiji better'n that. I'll Cook you a Turkey in Greece and then I'll Russia the "fixin's" and I'll also Servia an Orange with Java in China with Brazil nuts afterwards.

Telic: Let's go Indore by the Oil heater where it isn't Chile before we eat or I'll want Samoa. (They go in the Chamba.)

Telic: Why?

Phila: Cos she's a Bhore and looks like a combination Poland-Holstein, yet she insists on eating a Bermuda every day along with a Hamburg and a Brunswick stew. She makes a spectacle of herself by going in the gym and climbing up ropes Hanover hand. She uses Tobago. She hasn't the sense of a Guinea yet she acts like a Solomon. She thinks she is a Togo or a Bolivar for unselfishness while she is actually a Gold (Coast) digger. There is an Ivory Coast above her eyes. She's a Baden and she makes me Angra. She won't even go riding with me in my new Mada-gas-car.

Telic: Why don't Jamaica?

Phila: I never can Nabha. I wish the Virgin was in Heligoland so that I could again go see Marienwerder and Marianna.

Telic: Andorra too? Or is she still as dumb as she used to be?

Phila: You mean that girl who lives in the Newfoundland in the house surrounded by the Lombardy poplars? I'm thru with her because she called me a bad name. She said to me yesterday, "Uruguay charo" (guacharo), and I'm not going to take that from anybody. Besides, Ben-Adir dates her now. He no longer speaks to Nan-Gaon, Stella-Land, Nan-King, Sal-Onika, or Alsace Lorraine.

Telic: What makes the Boyaca fool? He can't talk. I heard him asking a girl in his Sonora's voice, "Canada 'm hold in a flood?" Yesterday when I went home to get my Bagdad warned me that he was Cucuta, and believe me, he sure is.

Phila: O, I Bolivia all right. But he's been a little Timor-ous since they tried to Shanghai him. He never was a Goliad in size, anyway. Then the fact that he's Niue to the girl game makes him appear no smoother than Emory paper.

Telic: But Wadhwan? He ought to at least pull his conversational Poonch when he meets a girl. He acts like Niger and I Haiti 'm.

Phila: Hoi Hao! Madeira 'ld fellow, don't you know Ben is a Papua, and as such he can create all the Chios he wants to? As the Niger said, "Dhar ain't no limit to a man what was Borneo 'ld New Orleans when he gets married."

Telic: I've Benin that place. I didn't get any Medellin the city tho and they didn't give me any Malta'd milk either. Instead they made me cut a Cordova 'ld hard wood and Denmark some Morocco leather for the Penrhyn, which they were keeping me.

Phila: They certainly give you a Bundi 'nt opportunity to work, don't they? Szechedin! Whew! I'm catching a cold, let's be leaving here. If we don't Chad, Arad, Cal-Edonia, and Al-Bania will want to Punjab us in the face, and that might make me mad, and as I never have Scinde I don't want to begin now. (They then left the Chamba.)

THE MONTH'S NEW ISSUES

From South America we have a number of interesting novelties. The Argentine Republic has issued two modest commemoratives to mark the centenary of the signing of the preliminary terms of peace between the Empire of Brazil and the United Provinces of the River Plate. The Cisplatine province was transferred into an independent state, by this treaty, under the name of "Banda Oriental del Uruguay," which, translated into English, means "left bank of the River Uruguay"—now generally known as the republic of Uruguay. It is interesting to note that George Canning, the famous English statesman, represented on the spot by Lord Ponsonby, took an important part in the framing of the terms of peace. The stamps are large oblong in size, of the facial values of 5c and 12c, and show as the main portion of their design the Arms of Brazil and the Argentine Republic in two separate shields. Another interesting South American novelty is a 10 pesos stamp just issued by Paraguay to commemorate the founding of the city of Ascuncion. The stamp is of extra large size and shows in its design a reproduction of the Arms of Juan de Salazar de Espinosa, an ancient Spanish adventurer who, in 1536, founded a settlement on the River Pilcomajo, which later developed into the city of Ascuncion and from which the republic of Paraguay developed in the course of time. As only 20,000 of these stamps were printed and all were sold on the day of issue it is apt to be a fairly scarce variety.

Still another interesting issue hails from South America in the shape of three stamps issued by Uruguay to commemorate the centenary of General Garibon, who took a prominent part in the wars of the period. These stamps were printed in small sheets of four and issued imperforate. They are of very attractive appearance, and the fact that the issue consisted of only 20,000 stamps led to considerable local speculation. On the day of issue the crowd practically took possession of the General Post Office and it became so unruly that for a time all stamp sales had to be suspended. Our correspondent, Mr. A. H. Davis, tells us that instructions were given that only one set of blocks of four were to be sold to each applicant and that though these orders seem to have been faithfully carried out the entire supply was sold before the day was over.

The most interesting stamps issued in Europe during the month are the two stamps issued by Germany for the mail carried to the United States on the Graf Zeppelin. These handsome labels show a Zeppelin above the upper portion of the globe and are inscribed "AMERIKA—DEUTSCHE LUFTPOST—EUROPA." While these are the first Zeppelin stamps issued for postal purposes it is interesting to note that just twenty years ago—in 1908 a German society rejoicing in the somewhat terrifying name of "Motorluftschiffstudiengesellschaft," issued a Zeppelin label and asked all patriotic manufacturing and commercial firms to use this sticker on their mail.

From Hungary we have received a set of three stamps bearing a portrait of St. Stephen (sometimes known as St. Etienne), issued in commemoration of the 900th anniversary of his death. Stephen, originally named Vaik, was born at Grau and was converted to Christianity in 995. Five years later he was crowned first King of Hungary, and during his reign he did much to establish the Christian religion firmly in his dominion. The iron crown worn by King Stephen later became a holy relic and is shown as part of the design on many of the earlier stamps of Hungary.

Italy sends us a somewhat lengthy set to mark the 4th centenary of Emanuel Philibert and the 10th anniversary of Victory, while from Poland we have a new stamp showing a portrait of General Josef Bem and bearing the four dates 1794, 1831, 1848 and 1850. The first and last dates are those of his birth and death, respectively, while the others mark his most celebrated military activities. This Polish revolutionist and Hungarian patriot was born at Tarnov in Galicia. He had a somewhat checkered career and after a period of success was so decisively defeated by the Allied Russian and Austrian armies that he had to flee to Turkey. Here he adopted Islamism and entered the Turkish army under the title of Amurat Pasha. He was sent to Aleppo in 1850 to suppress an Arab attack upon the Christian population and there died of fever.

Other new European stamps are two surcharged values for parcel post in Belgium, and a set of four attractive stamps from Estonia. These latter are of simple but effective design and show three heraldic lions one above the other with the name EESTI below on a background of solid color. Apparently a new currency has been introduced with these new stamps for the abbreviation is "s" instead of "m," as in earlier issues. Germany has also issued a new set in honor of Presidents Ebert and Hindenburg, there being seven denominations with Ebert's portrait and five with that of Hindenburg.

Again there has been a deluge of new French colonials. We have to record new 1fr 10c values from no less than eighteen different colonies, as well as several color changes.

Considerable philatelic activity is reported from Abyssinia, which has issued a new set of ten values in two designs showing portraits of Ras Taffari and the Empress Zauditu, respectively, and for good measure all ten values were surcharged in Amharic characters and issued thus for a limited time to mark the opening of a Post Office at Addis Ababa. Siam has issued seven different high values ranging from 1 to 40 bahts, showing the portrait of King Prajadhipok, while from the Dutch Indies we have a set of five different airmail provisionals.

The British Empire has also been busy with new issues during the month. Malta has surcharged its entire series of seventeen values with the words "Postage and Revenue," and from North Borneo we have a 2c stamp in new colors and all other values of the current series up to $10 with the new 12½ perforation recorded for some of the lower denominations only some months ago. Newfoundland sends us a new 14c stamp in the design of the discarded 9c, and from Kenya and Uganda we have received a set of four postage due stamps in the same design as those issued some time ago for the Federated Malay States. The £1 value of St. Vincent has at last appeared on script paper and from Ceylon we have a 5 rupees stamp in the design of the other rupee values issued recently.

Altogether it has been quite an eventful month for the assiduous collector of new issues.—Philatelic Opinion.

FROM ALL AROUND—

WE have received from the Berkshire Exchange, 600 Prospect St., New Haven, Conn., a very pretentious air-post pricelist. Over four hundred items are listed and there are forty-six illustrations. Collectors interested in air-mail covers will certainly need this up-to-date list.

GEORGE KUMP, Xenia, Ohio, in renewing his subscription sends us a clipping from the Cincinnati Enquirer which illustrates miniatures of the presidents of the United States. There is a complete set belonging to the collection of paintings and art objects, the property of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Taft of that city. Mr. Kump calls attention to the fact that many of them are of the familiar types shown on the postage stamps of our country. Mr. Kump sends a suggestion for a perforation gauge a half-inch wide, which could be easily slipped under any side of a postage stamp.

THE Tasman Ocean, about 1,400 miles, has now been crossed both ways by Kingsford Smith and his crew of airmen, but no mail was carried officially—only a few private letters from and to New Zealand and Australian politicians. These have no value from a philatelic point of view, but people must beware of counterfeits.—WILCOX SMITH & Co.

COLLECTOR'S CONTEST

Some of our loyal friends have apologized for the few subscriptions sent in, saying "my total is so small that I feel ashamed and especially when I see what others are doing." Of course a dealer has unusual advantages over the collector.

Here is a contest, however, for the collector only. During Jan., Feb. and March, we will award individual prizes each month to the five collectors leading in points secured, one point for each three month subscription. One year counts four points.

Additional prizes will be given the three leaders on the three months' totals:—

BUSINESS REJUVENATION

Our readers have no doubt noted the announcement made in the recent issues of the WEEKLY regarding the change in the management of the New England Stamp Co. H. M. Clark of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. gives us this information, which will be of more than ordinary interest:—

"The Scott Stamp Company has contracted with Mr. Tom V. Binmore for the present management and eventual sale of the New England Stamp Company. The famous old pioneer company will now be able to regain its prominent position in the retail field with alert and active management, new stock and new personnel.

Mr. Binmore will open a new store in Boston in the Fall of 1929, carrying on a general stamp busines in the Boston District. He will also carry in his charge, as New England Distributor, a full stock of Scott Stamp & Coin Company publications and accessories for local delivery to Boston dealers and stores.

In the intervening period, Mr. Binmore, at 81 Nassau Street, New York, is revising lists, replenishing stock and bringing everything up to date for the Fall opening. The many friends of the New England Stamp Company will find a new and well organized company at their service and call."

News for the Bureau Print Specialist

This article is supplementary to my last one and upon which this discussion is somewhat based. There have been produced or ordered many varieties that should be mentioned in following the history of these issues. My purpose in this article will be to give an up-to-date listing of the Bureau Print issues.

Birmingham—I have mentioned the similarity that the present city style bears to the Bureau. Don't confuse the 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, 9c with the Bureaus for these denominations have not been ordered.

Los Angeles—The three line standard type is out on several values of the regular stamps.

Oakland—The 1c coil has followed the 1½c. The latter will be good.

Denver—In July the 9c ordinary was ordered, but I have not a copy.

San Francisco—The new three line style first appeared on the 1½c coil and the 9c. These were followed by the 3 and 10c regular.

Bridgeport orders the 1c coil to replace the 1½c. I believe it will appear in the old style.

Wilmington, Del.—About a year ago an order was placed for the 1 and 2c coils, and then cancelled. These stamps were reordered in July.

Washington, D. C.—The 1c coil appears in the standard style.

Atlanta—Here is one that slipped by everyone. The 2c coil exists and has been shown me by A. E. Hagen. It has not been chronicled as yet, and it has not been reported as ever being ordered.

Chicago—The 7, 8, and 9c still remain in the city style. It is difficult to understand why Chicago and New York do not allow the Bureau to precancel these three denominations for them. Chicago has exhausted its supplies of the old style Bureaus and is carrying the new standard overprinted ones in stock. The 3 and 5c coils have not been seen to date, but the balance are in current use.

Decatur replaces the 1½c coil with the 1c, and adds the 2c. There will probably be no type change.

Joliet, Ill., will soon be using the 1c coil. It was ordered in August.

Kokomo has received about one million 1½c in the past, so it stands to reason that they will be ordering the 1c ordinary, but so far no order has been placed to my knowledge.

Muncie, Ind.—The 2c ordinary is now on sale in the new standard style.

Portland, Ind., will be a new Bureau Print user, as the 1 and 2c coils were ordered in July. They will appear in the standard style.

Sioux City, Ia., is using the 1c coil, which is precancelled in the same style shown on the 1½ and 2c ordinary.

Waterloo—1c coil is unordered, but should be looked for, as Waterloo has always carried the 1½c coil in stock.

Wichita replaces the 1½c ordinary with the 1c.

Louisville will also be calling for the 1c coil before long.

Baltimore is using up its supplies of the 1½c coil, precancelled in the standard style.

Boston—The new style came to me today on the 1c, and the 9c has been reported, unofficially.

Lowell, Mass., is another newcomer. It will have the 1 and 2c coils.

Springfield, Mass., replaces the 1½c ordinary with the 1c coil. The standard style will be met with instead of the former type.

Battle Creek, Mich.—The 1c coil will probably be re-ordered and this will mean a big drop in price on this stamp.

Detroit comes out in the standard style on the 1c coils.

Lansing—1c coil is another that will suffer in price. It is now catalogued at 50c.

Minneapolis has finally received the new style Bureaus. My first specimen is a 3c.

Saint Paul—I have seen the 1½, 3, 5, 7, and 8c, in the standard three line type. None of the coils have changed their overprints.

Kansas City—Standard type is illustrated. It has appeared on the 1½, 8, and 10c.

Saint Louis, Mo.—The 6c perf. 10 persists in being very scarce. Who has a stock of them? I have a hundred of all the other values, but not a solitary 6c.

Lincoln, Neb., replaces the 1½c coil with the 1c.

Minden, Neb.—I'll wager this will be scarce—the 1c coil, which was ordered in August.

Westfield, N. J.—Westfield, Mass., has Bureau prints, but this is a New Jersey town that is now ordering them. The 1c coil will be out soon.

Rahway, N. J., replaces the 1½c coil with the 1c.

Dunellen, N. J.—1c coil. You will have to hunt for these in Canada. At least

WHY I COLLECT BRAZIL

By RALPH E. WARNER, Oberlin, Ohio.

To the average collector of today, general collecting has become almost an impossibility. To the philatelist it has become prohibitive. Anyone who really wishes to study what he collects has to limit his field. The question is what to collect.

My own answer was Brazil, not because of any premeditated idea, but through circumstance. I can see now why Brazil should prove a very attractive and profitable country to invest in.

In the first place, the stamps of Brazil are good, sound stuff, plenty of common stamps, but no speculative or other trash. From the investment standpoint, Brazils should prove one of the very good buys of today. The stamps of this largest South American republic have always had an even but rather slow increase in catalogue value. This has been due to the fact that, while the stocks of Brazil are limited, the demand outside of the country has, until now, not been great. Only within the last two or three years have collectors really begun to realize the possibilities, and one can still pick up some very pretty items quite cheaply.

One good reason why a Brazilian collection can be so worth-while is that even the collector of small means (and that includes most of us) can really afford a good representation of the stamps almost from the first issue and right down to date. As stamps go, even the first issue of Brazil, only two years younger than the famous penny black, is not very expensive, and of the second issue almost anyone could afford the first three stamps, none of them being above a dollar and a half, used. From the beautifully engraved Dom Pedros on down, with the exception of a very few rarities, it is possible to get together a handsome and worth-while representation at remarkably low cost. As a matter of fact some Brazilian stamps are priced so low as to be worth several times their catalogue value!

The stamps of Brazil offer all kinds of attractive fields for the connoisseur. One has his choice of regular postage, postage dues, newspaper stamps, officials, and now, airmails. Commemoratives there are, just enough to add variety, some of them very pretty stamps—without the speculative, the long sets or the endless succession of unnecessary issues which blight the interest in commemoratives altogether.

But one need not stop with that. The fellow who enjoys sorting out the differences such as perforations, watermarks, shades, and so on, has ample field here. In perforations, some very interesting studies could be made, and in quite available stamps at that. From 1890 to 1900, skipping most of the 1898 provisionals, there is a variety of perforations which are very fascinating, especially when one realizes that a number of them, likely to turn up in any lot of the common stamps, are quite valuable.

The watermarks from 1918 to date, offer a variety which can be cut down or extended to one's fancy. And they are not as hard to distinguish as they are reputed to be. Get from some reliable source a sample of each and compare them. One can soon see the differences and recognize them. They offer not only variations in the watermarks themselves, but differences in the position of watermarks. For the person who enjoys this sort of variations, great deal of interest is afforded as there are eight possible positions.

Are you an addict of color? If so, the shades of Brazilian stamps should prove to be a mint of fun. If you are not one yet, try almost any issue or stamp. Off hand I think of the current 10 reis stamp, number 264, listed as red-violet, which runs from a captivating bright red to a shade almost deep magenta. As one soon finds, there are some very marked shades, especially in the 1890-91 issue, Brazil's first as a republic.

Beyond this type of usually catalogued varieties there are differences such as the varieties of heads on the 100 reis stamp, number 116, the dotted stars on the Southern Cross stamps, plate flaws and scratched plates in the postage, newspapers and dues of the 1890's, and the paper varieties in the early issues or even in the current types.

One other thing which attracts attention and makes for beauty is the cancellation. Colored cancellations are used even today enough to content the heart of any cancellation collector, and they show up beautifully on most Brazilian stamps, which are fairly light-colored, or else green or blue. Registered covers are nearly always cancelled in color, and a few Brazilian towns in the interior use a purple ink all the time.

It would be impossible here to tell all of the interesting and worth-while possibilities in Brazilian stamps. I have collected them for years and every once in a while I find something new. For example, on going through some copies of the 200 reis red of the 1922-25 issue, number 239, I found a freak (probably something worn into the plate), which looked like the moon going down behind the head of the figure depicted on the stamp. As a rising sun is represented in the design, the whole effect is rather odd. If one wants investment, study, or just plain fun, there is plenty of each in a collection of Brazilian stamps.

EUCLID STAMP SHOPPE, Inc.

934 Schofield Building, CLEVELAND, OHIO

that is where all the Dunellen precancels I have ever had came from.

Fulton, N. Y.—If you have any of the 1½c coils you are fortunate, for this will be worth a two dollar bill before many noons have passed.

Tonawanda, N. Y.—I was almost tempted to travel north of Buffalo again this summer to find out where all the Tonawanda and North Tonawanda Bureaus are going to. Tonawanda uses the 1½c coil, and North Tonawanda the 1½c ordinary. Both these offices have ordered stocks of the 1c to replace the 1½c.

Peekskill, N. Y., has used local precancels for many years, but only upon circular matter. The Bureau will furnish a supply of the 1c coil to this office, or probably has by this time, for the stamps were ordered in August.

Rochester, N. Y.—It seems to me that this office should order the whole set from 1 to 10c in both the ordinary and coil stamps, for it is one of our largest users of precancels. So far the 1½, 2, and 3c have been all the Bureaus on hand. The 1 and 10c were ordered in August, and will probably be printed in the old type.

Brooklyn is out with the 1c in the standard style.

Garden City has replaced the 1½c coil with the 1c.

New York City—The 2c coil in the old type will be a good stamp as there was but one printing before the new standard cancellation appeared on all the coils from 1 to 10c. I have seen all the ordinary except the 6c in the new three line style.

Cleveland is using the 1, 1½, 3, 5, and 10c coils in the standard style, and the 2 and 4c in the old style.

Dayton has ordered the 3c coil, which will, no doubt, be of the same type as the rest of the series. The 2c coil from here has always been a slippery one to catch.

Cincinnati requisitioned the 10c coil some time ago, but I have yet to see a copy.

Lima, Ohio, will have the 1c coil before long, marking its first supply of Bureau precancels.

Toledo has ordered the 1 and 2c coils. Heretofore the 1½ and 3c were all that were carried in stock.

Philadelphia—The 5c coil now appears in the standard style. Also the 1½c coil, and the 1, 1½, and 7c ordinary.

Scranton will replace the 1½c coil with the 1c, as it was ordered in August. The 3, 5, 7, and 8c ordinaries are out in the standard style.

Warren, Pa., has never handled the Bureau coils, but now has the 1c on hand. It is in the new standard style.

Providence, R. I.—Add the 1c coil to the 1½, 2, 3, and 4c.

Dallas—I have the 5, 7, 8, and 10c in the new style.

Houston has finally ordered the 1c ordinary, which completes the set to 10c. The 1c coil will also be on hand shortly.

Fargo, N. D., will receive a supply of 1c coils, its first Bureau printed precancels.

Rutland, Vt., likewise will receive the same denomination.

Plainview, Tex.—And yet another, the same stamp. However, this is a noteworthy instance, for Plainview is comparatively an unknown town to the precancel collector.

Columbia, S. C., will add the 1c coil to the 1½ and 3c in the standard type.

Richmond, Va., followed its order for the coils, with an order for all the ordinaries from 1 to 10c. I have the 1½, 2, 5, and 10c coils, and the 1½ and 3c ordinary.

Alderson, W. Va., is out with the 1c coil.

Racine, Wis., Manitowoc, and Port Washington also are supplied with the same stamp. Port Washington is the only one of the four which has had a previous stock of Bureau precancels.

Reading, Pa., replaces the 1½c coil with the 1c, and so does Lancaster, Pa.

This brings to a close an account that is chiefly of interest to the active Bureau precancel collector. If any reader wishes to seriously begin a collection of this interesting group of stamps, the editor of this department will be pleased to forward a complimentary packet of over 100 varieties, upon receipt of return postage.

AERONAUTICALS

W. W. Betts, the Clearfield, Pa., dealer, made glad the hearts of his customers by sending them a first day cover from Washington, Dec. 11, bearing the new 2c and 5c stamps issued in connection with the Aeronautical Congress. This bit of enterprise upon the part of Mr. Betts will be appreciated by his patrons, and is certainly worth our commenting upon.

We are also in receipt of first day covers from Albert E. Gorham (accompanied by a new yearly subn.) and Stanley Gregory.

COLLECTOR'S CONTEST

Some of ouru loyal friends have apologized for the few subscriptions sent in, saying "my total is so small that I feel ashamed and especially when I see what others are doing." Of course a dealer has unusual advantages over the collector.

Here is a contest, however, for the collector only. During Jan., Feb. and March, we will award individual prizes each month to the five collectors leading in points secured, one point for each three months subscription. One year counts four points.

Additional prizes will be given the THREE leaders on the three months' totals:—

DATA ON CONTEST

¶ Send for a supply of our 25c yellow subscription forms.
¶ January report will close on JAN. 30, and be printed FEB. 11.
¶ The new subscriber gets a premium.
¶ Mark each remittance "For Subscription Contest."
¶ Get busy in your stamp club.
¶ Renewals not counted.
¶ Contest for Jan. is on, now.

HOLIDAY GREETINGS!

As the old year draws to a close, I wish to take this opportunity of wishing my many clients the compliments of the season and of expressing my great appreciation of their valued business during the past year.

The year 1928 will be my largest to date, in spite of the fact that in a previous year, I distributed a collection netting a quarter of a million dollars. I have had the pleasure of placing in many of our foremost collections some of the finest United States items known to philately. My enormous stock is so arranged that I can not only take care of the client desiring the rare item, but am in a position to give the small order my best and most careful attention. It is my desire to have the new year surpass this record. In order to do this and in order to continue to keep my stock in its present condition, it will be necessary to make substantial purchases.

While I am in the market at all times to buy United States collections and rarities, I am at present anxious to buy certain items enumerated below. Highest cash prices are paid for choice pieces and remember that immediate payment is made. Cash to any amount is available for important purchases.

If you have one or more of the following to sell, correspondence is solicited. Fancy cancellations not desired.

1851—mint singles and blocks — choice covers.
1857—mint pairs—choice covers.
1861—mint blocks.
1867-69—anything choice.
Bank Note Issues — mint blocks — choice covers.
Bureau Issues—mint blocks of high denominations. All errors, especially inverted centers.
Departments—mint blocks and covers.
Postage Due—mint blocks.
Revenues—rare singles and blocks.
Carriers—superb covers.
Confederates—everything choice.

Also remember if you are looking for items such as described above that I am likely to have them in stock.

Aeronautics Conference Issue

The new 2-cent and 5-cent stamps issued in commemoration of the International Civil Aeronautics Conference, were placed on sale in Washington, on December 12th, in accordance with previous announcement. A branch post office was opened at the Chamber of Commerce Building, and during the day thousands of new stamps were sold, not only to collectors, but to the numerous delegates from the thirty-six Foreign countries represented. Mrs. M. C. Shaughnessy, Assistant Philatelic Stamp Agent, was in charge, and as usual catered to the requirements of the collector. While the President was in attendance at the Conference, I did not note that he visited the branch post office, but such dignitaries as —Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, Orville Wright, Postmaster General Harry S. New, Second Assistant Postmaster General Warren Irving Glover, Third Assistant Postmaster General Robert S. Regar, and many others were not only in attendance at the Conference, but visited the branch office as well.

A special cancellor was used on all mail and was printed in a bright green which looked most attractive when applied to the blue and red stamps. It consisted of the usual circular, Washington postmark dated "Dec. 12, 1928," and in the killer we find the airplane illustrated and in three lines, "International Civil Aeronautics Conference—Dec. 12-14, 1928." A handstamp of the usual Washington type also printed in green was applied to a number of covers, especially in the case of blocks of four where the electric machine failed to cover the stamps. A similar cancellation will be applied on December 13th and 14th. The stamps on sale the first day were from the following plates:

5-cent, No. 19658-59-60-61

Plates consisted of two hundred subjects and printings from these plates were cut into post office panes of fifty stamps, five horizontally by ten vertically, with straight edges on two sides. Both denominations in a light and dark shade were noted, and in some cases the two shades were to be found on the same sheet.

There was a long line also at the Philatelic Agency, and the mail they received this time was larger than ever before. Probably a thousand letters were on hand that they did not even have time to open, and hundreds of other orders that they were unable to fill on the first day. The Agency is becoming so crowded that it is absolutely necessary for those requiring large numbers, to make arrangements with others on the outside to do this work. It would not be surprising if the Department issued a ruling that no first-day covers would be furnished, as several are taking an unfair advantage of the courtesy offered; one dealer having ordered fifteen hundred covers and then sending in a second order for thirty-five hundred more; whereas a second and third dealer asked for almost as many. When there are upward of six to ten thousand others asking for from one to a hundred covers, it is not fair to expect the Agency to take care of what properly belongs to a paid outside agent. A department store in Washington sending out circulars might just as well send the mail to the post office and ask them to furnish the clerks to stamp it. It is certainly hoped that the larger purchasers of first-day covers will make other arrangements in the future, otherwise, the time is not far distant when there will be no more first-day covers supplied by the Department.

George Rogers Clark Issue

The new 2-cent stamp to be issued in commemoration of the George Rogers Clark campaign, will be placed on sale at Vincennes, Indiana, on February 25th next. It will not be available at the Philatelic Agency at Washington, so that first-day covers will only be available at the Indiana office designated. Those desiring an unused supply may apply to the Philatelic Agency, where they will be placed on sale the following day.

As this is the first stamp ever issued in commemoration of an Indiana event, and as Indiana is the home state of Postmaster General Harry S. New, the Third Assistant Postmaster General Robert S. Regar, has shown rare judgment in placing this on sale on the first day at Vincennes, only.

The stamp will be about the size of the current 5-cent air mail stamp, and the design, which we described in this column previously, will show the Surrender of Fort Sackville to George Rogers Clark, after the painting by F. C. Yohn.

The sketch has already been approved and while the post office had first issued instructions to print the stamp in red on December 12th, Mr. Robert S. Regar conceived of the idea of printing it in two colors and issued instructions that it should appear with a black center and red border. If the engraver takes advantage of this opportunity, we will have what no doubt will prove to be the most handsome stamp ever issued by this government. The size will enable him to make a handsome engraving, and being in black, will stand out most distinctly. The red border will add a touch of color which will produce a stamp of real beauty. An order for thirty-five million has been placed with the Bureau, and it is expected that a supply will be available throughout the country within several days after it appears at Vincennes. Postmasters will be requested to make requisition, and if collectors are interested in having the stamps on sale locally, it is suggested that requisitions be made by their postmaster, after the post office has officially announced the commemorative issue.

The Department desires to especially call to the attention of collectors the fact that no first-day covers will be sent from Washington, as the stamp will only be available at Vincennes. They will send someone from Washington to superintend the work at Vincennes in behalf of collectors, but they are making a positive ruling that not more than twenty-five covers will be sent to any one applicant, and that where the communication shows that the same applicant is using several names, that the money will be returned.

New Envelopes

The contract for the new envelopes goes into effect on January 1st next, and all printed after that date will be on paper bearing the new 1929 watermark. There will be three types of watermarks, as the paper will be made at three different mills, and envelopes will be furnished under the new contract on not only white and blue, but on amber, as well. At the present time, it is the intentions of issuing amber envelopes on special request only, so that all will show return cards. Should, however, there be sufficient demand over the post office counter, it is possible that later on the amber envelope will be carried in regular stock.

I had the pleasure of viewing an impression from the die for the new 5-cent Air Mail Envelope, and am not much impressed with its appearance. We find the airplane in flight partly within a circle in which "U. S. Postage via Air Mail" appears. The "5c" below the plane, however, is so large that when it is held a distance from the eye, it almost appears as a round price tag. These new envelopes will appear on white only, in sizes 5, 8 and 13. It is expected that the demand for the Air Mail Envelope will be somewhat large, and that the envelope is likely to cut vastly into the use of the 5-cent Air Mail stamp.

Abyssinia.—We are informed by P. C. Philibossian that certain information recently printed by us and taken from a British stamp magazine is not entirely correct. The actual facts are as follows:—

"Upon completing a new Postal and Telegraph office building in Addis Ababa Sept. 1, a new series of ten denominations was put on sale showing the portraits of Prince-Regent Ras-Tafari and

The opening of the building took place on Sept. 1, for this occasion the new series of ten stamps were handstamped in native small characters to commemorate the event. 5,000 sets were surcharged, and were in use only three days all over the country. After that date (from Sept. 4 on) the ordinary stamps were on sale.

Several weeks later on Oct. 7, the Prince-Regent with support from his people declared himself the King of Abyssinia. That night saw a big celebration and dinner parties. To commemorate this event a third issue was made on Oct. 8, again handstamping the following denominations, which show the portraits of Prince-Regent with an amkaric crown, and under the crown in native and French languages "Negous-Tafari," means King Tafari. The stamps are ⅛, ½, 2, 8 mehaleks and the $2, and only 3,000 sets have been surcharged. 1,000 sets were sent to Postal Union in Berne, Switzerland, and 2,000 sets have been distributed to all the post offices in the country, being in use for few days."

Finland.—We have received word from H. Gulin that the 1 mark deep orange and 1½ mark blue-green and red-violet, watermarked posthorn, were issued on Nov. 11, overprinted in commemoration of the stamp exhibition in Helsingfors, Nov. 11-18, inclusive. In the top center are the figures "1928," and there are vertical inscriptions in abbreviations, which will be translated later.

Germany.—We have received the following from Elliott M. Walton:—

Four Marks—A line runs through the word LUFTPOST in the upper tablet. The line extends from the letter L to the letter O. The stamp is number 97 in the sheet—the second stamp from the left bottom row. Variety can be seen without the aid of a glass.

Two Marks—The letter T in LUFTPOST of the upper tablet has been redrawn. The stamp is number 98 on the sheet. This also can be seen without the use of a magnifying glass."

Whitfield King & Co. send us five values of a new Charity series. The stamps are similar in design to those of the 1926 issue and are of these values and colors: 5pf+5pf green, yellow and red; 8pf+7pf dark green, yellow, red and black; 15pf+15pf red, orange and blue; 25pf+25pf dark blue, yellow and red, and 50pf+50pf brown, yellow, red and black.

Newfoundland.—We are indebted to Frank F. Wills for a specimen of a new 28c stamp to be used especially on parcel post matter. It is of the same design as the obsolete 12c showing the Central Post Office at St. John's, but the color is olive-green. So far the stamps are poorly centered and Mr. Wills laments the poor work that is being put out in this direction.

New Zealand.—We beg to notify you that we have a specimen of Postage Due 1d on Cowan paper, S. G. No. 831, in the new perforation, viz., perf. 14, all round. This apparently has not yet been noted. Our copy is dated Oct. 23, 1928, so it is evidently a recent issue. We have also found 1d Admiral type Official S. G. 909 perf. 14x15. Also 2d Postage Due on Jones paper.—BRIGHT & SON.

Mr. R. Roberts submits for chronicle copies of the 1p pale rose and yellow-green postage due stamp design as Scott's D2, perforated 14x14 on thick Cowan paper.

North Borneo.—Mr. R. Roberts advises that he has received the $1, $2, $5 and $10 stamps same colors as before, but with the new 12½ perforation.

(another map appeared on the two cent in 1908). The story of Newfoundland (as well as many other countries) may be found on its stamps; the colonial story very aptly told on the Cabot issue of 1897. On this 1928 "royal" series we find the General Post Office, House of Parliament, and other scenes.

In honor of the Sixth Pan-American Congress held at Havana, Cuba (which President Calvin Coolidge attended and opened), Cuba printed a commemorative series of postage stamps, the five centavos showing a map of the Western Hemisphere. Such postage will remain as memorials to bygone incidents. Stamps are valuable educationally in this way.

News from the month of April tells of Finland's celebrating her anniversary of freedom from Russia with two postage stamps (1½ and 2 marks). The stamps were sold out very shortly after they were placed on sale. Finland appears again, in the July-August notes with further independence commemorative issues; and we find that though the country is a republic, the arms of the Grand Duchy are retained, the lion wearing the ducal crown!

News from May is interesting from an historical point of view, in regards to the English Isle of Cyprus. Cyprus in 45 A. D. was introduced to Christianity with the landing of Saints Paul and Barnabas. Cyprus was conquered in 1191 A. D., by Richard Coeur de Lion (the lion-hearted), who was King of England at the time and bound for a Crusade in Palestine. He sold the isle to the Knights Templars; but the Templars were unable to keep the new possession, and Guy de Lusignan acquired it. From then (1192) until 1489 Cyprus was the main seat of the Kingdom of the Levant under the Lusignan "dynasty." Its last ruler was Queen Caterina Carnaro (widow of James II), and she presented the isle as a gift to the aristocratic republic of Venice! In 1571 the conquering Moslem Turks seized Cyprus. In 1878, in conference, England obtained from Turkey the right to have jurisdiction over that isle; on November 5, 1914, England took official possession of Cyprus, when Turkey joined the union of Germany and Austria against her. Cyprus is now a full-fledged colony of England, and its commemoratives of this year (1928) recall some of the history spoken of in this paragraph. The series of postage stamps commemorate the fiftieth anniversary celebration of England's influence there. We find one issue with a map of the isle; another showing the likeness of Richard Coeur de Lion, another with that founder of the stoical school, Zeno, and so on. The reigning King, George V, is likewise portrayed as is the custom on most of the British colony postage.

Monaco (that principality in which Monte Carlo is situated) issued three commemoratives according to May news, in deference to the International Philatelic Exhibition that was held there. The stamps were on sale only during that exhibition, and were sold over face value five francs, the surplus being used as the price for admission.

Brazil in celebrating her second centenary of coffee cultivation there, issued three "coffee propaganda" stamps; and we view the fields of coffee at Sao Paulo. Haiti later in the year issued one postage stamp showing the World that one of its products was coffee, also.

A devastating flood occurred in Liechtenstein (between Austria and the Swiss), and to help the flood relief fund postage stamps (2½ to 30 rappen) appeared, and sold over stated values, the surplus going to aid this fund.

June-July news told of the issuance of Holland Olympic postage stamps, eight values, showing various sports. This was the fifth Olympiade issue and the eighth Olympic Games. In August, Portugal issued an "Olympic" or "sport" stamp, showing an athlete going over the hurdles, and underneath the word "Amsterdam," where the games were held; the name of the country was omitted, so that "Portugal" had to be overprinted on this postage stamp. The reason for this issue was that its proceeds would go to help pay the Portuguese sportsmen expenses to Amsterdam, Holland.

The year 1928 might be called "Lindbergh" Year. This year many postage stamps appeared honoring the "Lone Eagle"; Panama put out two stamps—2c and 5c—in honor of Lindbergh's flight to that nation. The lower denomination reveals the "Spirit of St. Louis," the plane which carried the young aviator across the Atlantic Ocean from New York to Paris, alone. The isthmus of Panama appears on the higher value.

Again Lindbergh comes into the limelight of publicity with a surcharge "Lindbergh Febrero 1928" on an airmail stamp of five centavos of Costa Rica. He is recalled in an array of American stamps by our own 10 cent blue issue showing the famous monoplane.

1928 is likewise known for the year in which great strides were made by man in the air. During the first of the year, as a result of an airmail service established between Key West and Havana Cuba issued a special airmail postage stamp of five cent value for this service The view is of Havana Harbor and the famous Moro Castle looms in the rear.

Argentina issues another airmail (August) for use on that trans-national service over Brazil, Uruguay and Argentina which connects now with the Atlantic and ships for Africa and France.

Up to August, 1928, there were recorded 47 new varieties of airmail stamps for the year 1928! Argentina, Bulgaria Dominican Republic, Dutch Indies, Iceland, Malta, Panama, Peru, issued airmail stamps for the first time. Several of these states are isolated, smaller or backward states; and the establishment of air-services in them and the appearance of airmail postage stamps attests to the rapid advancement of man in the ether. The United States, July-August, reduced airmail rates for the first ounce to five cents, and a new airmail adhesive has appeared.

According to figures taken from Mr. Philip H. Ward, Jr., every month new stamps are appearing to the number between 50 and 150! And such in brief review are some of the postage stamps that 1928 has produced. In array they may form an outline of the events of the year; and some of them help fill the gaps in postal history that stamps tell. The first half of 1928 passes with notable postage stamp issues; the second half does not fall behind!

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

NEW BRITISH VIRGINS, 1928

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Following the lowering of the foreign post card rate from 1½d to 1d, by Statutory Rules and Orders No. 10 of April 13, 1928, effective August 1, 1928, there was a great demand for 1d violet and 1½d red stamps of the Leeward Islands Federation, and all the Presidencies. In future printings, red will be restored to the 1d, and another color used for the 1½d. In the Crown Agents' color scheme of 1907, orange was assigned to the 1½d, and Antigua, Dominica Montserrat and St. Kitts-Nevis (now using 1½d red stamps) had orange stamps of this denomination (in use, or on order) when the increased foreign post card rate 1½d (raised from 1d) effective February 1, 1922, made necessary changing the color of the 1½d to red (then held by the 1d). Subsequent to August 1, 1928, the 1½d single and reply post cards were withdrawn and destroyed, there being no further use for cards of this denomination.

As stock of the 1d violet and 1½d red Presidential stamps in the British Virgins was being heavily drawn upon by collectors and dealers, it was necessary in September, 1928, for the authorities at Tortola to cable an indent to the Crown Agents in London, for fresh supplies. The Crown Agents' Bulletin of July-September, 1928, advised that 1d red and 1½d light brown Postage & Revenue stamps were on order for the Leeward Islands Federation, as well as Montserrat.

In the first week of October, 1928, a cable was received at Tortola (via St. Thomas) from Antigua, requesting that the stock of 1d violet and 1½d red British Virgins Presidential series, be forwarded to St. John's, Antigua, to fill an order which had been received from a stamp dealer for a composite lot of stamps of all the Leeward Islands Presidencies. When this was done the only 1d and 1½d stamps left for the British Virgins Post Offices were of the Federal series, i.e., 1d violet, and 1½d red.

On October 22, 1928, the new lot of 1d red and 1½d light brown British Virgins Presidential series, was received from London, and as the 1d red was not considered a new variety (the 1d as originally issued in the King George and Presidential Seal type, on June 15, 1922, was in this color), it was placed on sale immediately. The 1½d light brown, however, was not issued until October 29th.

The 1d re-issue is in a very deep red, and not at all like the rose-carmine of the 1d of June 15, 1922, nor the carmine-red of the 1½d of Jan. 24, 1927. The difference is so marked that it will undoubtedly find place in the catalogue.

The stamps are as before typographically printed from a keyplate (No. 1) and individual duty plates, in sheets of 120 (2 panes of 60 each), on script CA paper. The keyplate number 1 appears in the upper margin over the 2nd stamp of the left pane, and 5th stamp of the right pane, and in corresponding positions in the lower margin. As with the 1d violet and 1½d red, issued Jan. 24, 1927, there is a double marginal line. The original 1d red issue of June 15, 1922, had but a single marginal line, so that in addition to the color, sheets of the re-issue of October 22, 1928, may be distinguished by the double marginal line.

When the original 1d red, of June 15, 1922, was replaced on Jan. 24, 1927, by the 1d violet, 11,160 (£46.10.0) were withdrawn from sale and burned on Feb. 9, 1927. The 1d violet and 1½d red (issued Jan. 24, 1927) were sent out in very small quantities (i.e., comparatively, for stamps of such low denominations), and were in use for only slightly more than a year and a half.

C. R. Meade, since August, 1917, Chief Clerk of the Treasury at Tortola, and performing the actual duties of Postmaster there, was transferred in November, 1928, to Roseau, Dominica, and his place at Roadtown was taken by J. D. Thomas.

The ½d, 2d, 6d, 1s and 5s of the Leeward Islands Federal series, Roman CA watermarked, were still to be had at Roadtown, Tortola, on Sept. 20, 1928.

October, 1928. King George V and Presidential Seal type. Postage Revenue. Line engraved and typographically printed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., Ltd., London. Watermarked multiple Crown and script CA. Perforated comb 14. Keyplate No. 1. Double marginal lines.

Leeward Islands New Varieties, 1929

Amongst our large purchases of United States stamps, we frequently get quantities of various stamps that are not up to the grade we sell. These stamps will have either small defects or be not well centered, or otherwise not up to the standard, but are mostly of good appearance. We offer below a small lot of these at what we believe to be attractive prices. We should be pleased to quote prices to those interested in other and higher priced items of a similar grade.

mentioned as being on order in the Crown Agents' Bulletin of July-September, 1928 (along with 1d red and 1½d light brown) will be printed from the Nyasaland receipt size keyplte No. 1 (in sheets of 60) in red and green on script green, and purple and black on Roman CA red, respectively. In design the stamps will be similar to the 2/6, 5s, 10s and £1 of Bermuda issued March 30, 1918.

It is rumored (though not officially confirmed) that any stocks remaining of the 25 discontinued values of the Leeward Islands Federal and Presidential series, as set forth in Statutory Rules and Orders No. 15 of April 26, 1928, will be destroyed at the end of the fiscal year, i.e., March 31, 1929.

Hurricane of Sept. 12-13, 1928

On Sept. 12-13, 1928, a violent hurricane swept the Caribbean islands, resulting in the loss of much life and property. Montserrat was almost completely devastated; Nevis and St. Kitts were also great sufferers. In the British Virgins a few small houses fell; others were stripped, but the greatest damage was to the roads.

Ann Arbor

—Stamp Club Formed by Ann Arbor Men With Excellent Prospects.

By BEACH CONGER, JR.

Stamp collecting has shown itself to be such a popular hobby in Ann Arbor that several prominent philatelists have decided that there is room for a stamp club in this city. Up to this time the organizations in Detroit have been the nearest, and several have boasted of quite a large attendance from Ann Arbor.

Ann Arbor philatelists who belong to Detroit clubs met recently at the home of John Coryell to consider the feasibility of organizing a stamp club here. It was decided temporarily to have meetings on the second and fourth Saturday of every month, beginning with January. The meeting place has not yet been decided upon, but the next session of the club will take place on Saturday, January 12. Officers will probably be elected at that date, and business started. Several interesting collections will be on display to interest all newcomers, and the general public will be cordially invited. If the attendance warrants it, an auction will be held, several members having offered to put up lots. Further information may be obtained from the publicity manager, Beach Conger, Jr., 1012 East University Ave., Ann Arbor, who also will be glad to receive the names of all those interested, so they may be notified in advance.

2½d ON 2d FIJI WIDE SURCHARGE

By A. J. DERRICK, Melbourne.

(This article will be published almost simultaneously in this paper and "Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal." We are indebted to Charles J. Phillips for the privilege of giving this article an early publication.)

I took advantage of my conversation with Mr. S. Bach (in which I discussed with him a problem concerning the 1917 type Printed Postage Dues), to consult him as to a possible explanation of the mystery of the wide surcharge on the 2½d on 2d of Jan. 1, 1891. It will be remembered that Mr. Chas. J. Phillips, in Stanley Gibbons Handbook of Fiji, on page 83, shows six diagrams of the positions in which he, and a friend in Fiji, had (after examination of complete sheets) found the wide surcharge, which was always in the second vertical row.

These were so irregular that there was apparently no explanation by the ordinary means employed of setting up one or more rows of type, and printing by shifting the lay.

Mr. Phillips after stating the difficulties of solution, suggests that "one way in which they could possibly have occurred, was that the printer used a single row of ten '2½d,' and that in the second one from the left (right—it is left on the print) the type was loose, and sometimes printed with the figures close, and sometimes with them spaced."

I discussed this in an article on "The Stamps of Fiji," which appeared in the Australian Stamp Journal, and the Victorian Philatelic Record of June and July, 1925, and pointed out that if Mr. Phillips' suggestion was correct, we would have other intermediate varieties.

I learned some time ago, that the trustees of the estate of a prominent official who resided in Fiji, and who was a collector, held a considerable quantity of unused Fiji stamps, and that these were in Melbourne. I obtained permission to inspect all they had of the 2½d on 2d stamps, and checked them off carefully with Mr. Phillips' diagrams before me.

In the lower pane, that has all five of second row wide-spaced, and in two or three of the other panes, I found an occasional stamp which was undoubtedly intermediate, so much so that I discussed with a friend, who was present, whether they could be classed as the narrow or the wide setting.

Apart from this, my results tallied with those in the Handbook.

The interview which I had with Mr. Bach, gave me a chance to discuss this problem with him, and I think that with his technical knowledge, and his memory of the history of the Suva Printing Office, over so long a period, I was able to settle the problem on the lines suggested by Mr. Phillips. Mr. Bach entered the Suva Printing Office in 1904, and in Dec., 1913, he took it over from his predecessor, Mr. E. J. March. He was therefore quite familiar with all the machines that had been in use. He says that these stamps would have been printed one row at a time, on a small platen machine. This was too small to allow the whole sheet of 100 stamps to be overprinted, and this would account for the stamps being in half sheets of 50—five rows of ten. Moreover, the small size of the machine used would not allow of the line of type being printed on the five rows by the usual method of shifting the lay. The position of the row of type would therefore have to be altered in the chase, instead of shifting the lay of the paper. This was because the size of the platen of the machine would not permit the sheet to be shifted.

If the second setting of the "2½d" from the right was loose in the chase it might easily vary if the form was not locked up carefully, and in the same manner, at each shift of the type; and it would make all the difference whether it was tightened up first from the end, or first from the bottom. In either case the loose setting on this particular stamp would be gripped differently, according to what the operator did.

If the type fell apart when the form was opened, and the form was then locked up first from the bottom, it would be gripped while open. On the contrary, if it was locked up first from the end, it would close the type up, and grip it so.

AIR MAIL STAMPED ENVELOPE

About January first the Government will issue a new five cent stamped envelope. The envelope has the red and blue border like the commercial air mail envelope which has been in use for the past year. The die shows an airplane in flight and is printed in blue.

Every collector of first day of issue or first flight air mail covers will want one of these envelopes mailed on the day of issue.

We understand that it is very probable that the Philatelic Agency will not address these new envelopes for collectors. It is simply physically impossible for the Agency to do this.

If such becomes the case, it will be necessary that those who want first day covers have an agent in Washington to address them. We offer our services, and will supply the envelopes mailed on day of issue as follows

One envelope	30c
Five or more envelopes, to different addresses	20c each
Ten or more envelopes to same address	15c each
50 or 100 envelopes to same address	10c each

Unused envelopes will be supplied as soon as possible after placed on sale at 20c for one, $1.25 for 10, $10.00 for 100.

In this way all regularity of the wide setting would be lost, and its position would only be determined by the caprice of the printer, or the variations of his actions.

It is evident that the handling of the chase, as it was opened and moved at each row, was sufficiently rough to have the loose setting either open or close (the variation is only one millimetre) and when tightened from the bottom or the end it would be gripped and held where it chanced to be.

But I have shown that occasionally, and at comparatively rare intervals, it was gripped when only partly open, and so the supposed intermediate variety did actually occur. The presence of the wide setting on so many panes denotes several printings of the surcharge.

I am pleased to have been able to find this solution, and feel sure that it is undoubtedly the correct one.

Philippines

—New Set of Stamps to Commemorate London-Orient-Flight.

By PERCY A. HILL.

We have a surcharged issue released Nov. 9, to commemorate the London Orient-Flight, current issues from 2c to 1p being surcharged L. O. F., block letters with aeroplane in red on each stamp and the date 1928 below.

The numbers surcharged are limited and as follows: 2c, 101,200; 4c, 50,500; 6c, 12,600; 8c, 10,000; 10c, 10,000; 12c, 8,000; 16c, 9,000; 20c, 8,000; 26c, 7,000; 30c, 7,000; 1P, 6,000.

This issue was commemorative of the four sea-planes of the British Army, which left London in Oct., 1927, having flown 23,000 miles via India and Australia in leisurely hops. The last lap of the flight from Singapore and return, "a good-will flight" was as follows: Singapore to Kuching (Sarawak), Labuan (Borneo), Puerto Princesa, P. I., Manila, Salomague, P. I., Hong Kong, Cocoanut Bay, Bankok, Victoria Point, Penang, Singapore, completing some 30,000 miles.

The sale was began Nov. 9, the day of arrival of the London-Orient-Flight. Blocks of from 2 to 30c were sold the general public, and five sets to the peso to each member of the Association Filatelica Filipina, and no more. One man deposited 10,000 pesos, whose order if filled would have taken half the entire issue. He will be given his quota later. There were the usual 19% of straight edges, and a committee of three philatelists were allowed to go over the issue printed to exclude all varieties and errors, which were delivered to the postal authorities to be destroyed, thus doing away with one of the usual philatelic troubles.

Sufficient of the issue is being held by the postal authorities to frank all mail to be carried by the four large planes to Hong Kong, etc., after which balance will be sold in small quantities to those applying, so as to give everyone a chance to purchase this limited issue and to prevent it from falling into a few hands. Too much credit cannot be given the Director of Posts for the handling of it, so as to prevent speculation.

CO-OPERATION WITH A BIG "C"

The Managing Editor receives many evidences of good-will upon the part of our subscribers. We are not able to list them all. Occasionally one stands out so prominently that we cannot do otherwise than make mention of it. Charles E. Herrick of Chicago, Ill., renews his membership in the Honor Club, and supplements his remittance of $5 for five years, with yearly subscriptions for "four young protégés." Mr. Herrick writes that they are beginners and he is extending them a bit of Christmas cheer.

We call this a very substantial evidence of interest in the WEEKLY, and take great pleasure in recognizing the splendid co-operation extended by Mr. Herrick.

1929 AND TWENTIETH CENTURY BRITISH

The past year has been notable for the decrease in speculative activity, and the increase in actual collecting. This is the most encouraging sign of the day, and 1929 bids fair to be a banner year.

Twentieth century British Colonials in fine condition are the most sought after of all modern stamps, and world-wide demand is sweeping the finer specimens from the open market.

I solicit your patronage and offer the most efficient service in the trade, and back up this promise with one of the most important stocks of Colonials in America.

Your want list will receive my prompt personal attention. Condition and price are right. I have won the confidence of collectors by fair dealing, and if you are a collector of these popular stamps you cannot afford to neglect investigating my modern methods of philatelic merchandising.

Keep up to date by subscribing to my exclusive British Colonial new issue service. It gets the goods, and it costs 32 cts. a shilling.

I will continue my 50% discount French Colonial service and for collectors wishing to complete this group, it's a most valuable offer.

KITTY HAWK COVERS

Just as we go to press two Kitty Hawk covers are at hand from H. E. Harris & Co., and Frederick D. Markee, the airmail editor of the WEEKLY. The Managing Editor appreciates the spirit that prompts these sendings, and especially the Christmas greetings that they contain. Mr. Markee's card has this sentiment:—

AIRMAIL MERRY CHRISTMAS
The mail train now is old, old stuff,
It doesn't travel fast enough,
I haven't got much time to spare,
So here's my greeting through the air.

In the lower left corner of these covers is a cachet with the inscription "Twenty-fifth Anniversary First Flight made by the Wright Brothers at Kitty Hawk, N. C., Dec. 17, 1903."

A third airmail cover comes from Raymond R. Robbins, Colorado Springs, Colo. There is a non-official cachet diamond shaped in black and red containing an appropriate anniversary inscription. Its date is December 17.

Purchases from the above list will save you money—dollars on many medium priced single items. A comparison with other offers will convince you. Regardless of your present method of buying a perusal of this list should prove useful. I have no hesitancy in claiming that it gives you a far better idea of today's market than any standard catalogue can give you, and do not overlook that a very considerable percentage of all the twentieth century British Colonials sold in this country change hands on basis of these prices. And I do not refer only to the huge volume of stamps passing through High View every week!

STAMPS IN STORES

Every well-wisher and booster of Philately will be genuinely glad to learn that stamps are rapidly taking their place beside books and other necessities of cultural life, in department stores, book stores, and novelty shops. Retail stores from coast to coast have at last awakened to a realization of the fact that there are plentiful commercial possibilities in stamps, and an enormous potential demand for them.

Hochschild, Kohn & Company, the largest department store in Baltimore, Md., are already making plans for a big "Stamp Week" in February. A large amount of floor space and display will be devoted to their Stamp Department; and stamp-illustrated newspaper advertisements will appear every day in the leading Baltimore papers.

These advertisements will be read by hundreds of thousands of people in all parts of Maryland. Think of the unprecedented publicity this will give to stamp collecting; and try to imagine—if you can!—what it will mean to Philately when stores in every city in the United States carry stamps, and advertise them regularly in the daily papers!

Another great department store—L. Bamberger & Company of Newark—found their stamp sales increasing to such an extent that they had to engage the services of an experienced philatelist.

Radio talks and exhibits did much to build up this profitable trade, and today there are probably not half a dozen collectors in and around Newark who do not know about Bamberger's Stamp Department.

Bookstores and stationers are also on the alert. From the Publisher's Weekly for May 28, 1927, we quote the following:

"A number of booksellers have lately begun to add stamp departments to their stores, notably Burrows Brothers in Cleveland, who took good space in their mezzanine floor for the purpose of developing stamp collecting. Their business, in the hands of an expert, has grown rapidly to most satisfactory proportions."

"Simon L. Nye, manager of the book department of S. Kann Sons Co., Washington, has recently been holding exhibits and sales of stamps and specializing in the packet business, and has reported that developments have been very satisfactory."

Far-sighted dealers and collectors will do their utmost to encourage the recognition of stamps by stores as a regular line of merchandise. The recruiting value to the hobby of newspaper advertising and publicity, store exhibits, and general display will be superior to any development which has yet been seen. Collectors will be more than ever assured of rising values in future catalogs, and of the essential soundness of philatelic investing. Dealers will lose nothing, as practically all stores are equipped to handle only the most elementary of a collector's needs. On the contrary, due to the greatly increased number of new collectors, regular dealers will soon find that they have more customers than ever.

Every far-sighted philatelist, in fact, will realize that "stamps in stores" constitutes the most progressive step forward in general recognition and popularity that the great old hobby of stamp collecting has yet taken.—Harris & Co. Bi-Monthly Journal.

STRAY ITEMS—

THE three offices of the WEEKLY have been favored with numerous greetings appropriate to the season, and we thank all our friends for the kind wishes expressed and which are cordially reciprocated.

C. D. REIMERS of Forth Worth, Tex., after an enforced vacation from business of six months is once more on the job. He has been away at John Hopkins' Sanitarium. Mr. Reimers' advertising will be found in this issue.

"I HAVE what I call a Confederate Spy Envelope, being a hand stamped Confederate envelope, absolutely normal to the human eye, and the most powerful magnifier, but when put under the 'Ultra Violet Quartz Lamp' a secret writing appears on face and back of envelope in yellow ink, and may be partially deciphered in holding a mirror to same. No doubt a secret message that could be brought out by chemicals otherwise only by this light."—M. OHLMAN.

A NEW Stamp Club has been organized at the Salem (Mass.) High School, with a membership of thirty-one. John Tracy is president and Molly Phippen, secretary.

WE are indebted to Bradie Buchanan for a first flight cover in which Green Bay, Wis., was tied up to CAM No. 9, on December 15. Northville, Mich., observed Dec. 17, with a special Wright cachet originated by the local Rotary Club. Mr. Buchanan sends us a specimen. Buffalo furnishes us through Harry E. Klotzbach a special cachet used Dec. 17 in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Wright Brothers' first flight, also the first anniversary of CAM No. 30. It was a large circular cachet in black.

A FRIEND in Canada has just sent me single copies of the new 3c and 5c King's head (Canada) in carmine and purple respectively. Also a single of the new 10c Canada pictorial, in green, very pretty and showing a snow capped mountain scene with large evergreen trees in the foreground, the borders left and right showing Totem Poles. The denomination is in the two lower corners with "cents" between, and in the center top "Canada." In the upper left "Postes," in the right upper "Post." The scene on the 10c is very much like one in the Canadian Rockies.—CHAS. A. FORSTER.

WANT LISTS OF THIS COUNTRY CORRECTLY FILLED

NOTES ON NORWAY

By REV. ELIAS RASMUSSEN.

In a recent article on Norway in the WEEKLY the issue of the 1878 Krone values were given as follows: 1 Krone, 1,020,000 issued, 1½ Krone, 1,050,000 issued, and 2 Krone, 1,020,000 issued. This is correct. There was only one printing of these values, and the numbers mentioned above are correct. As nothing was said about the burning of the remainders by the postal authorities of Norway, in order to give the right impression about the real value of these stamps, I wish to submit the following information also published in part in C. C. P. of N. Y., in my article on the "Krone Values of Norway."

In an article in Nordisk Filatelistisk Tidsskrift of March 20, 1913, on "The Sale of The Older Norwegian Skillingsmerker," we are told that the government intends to offer for sale the remainders of the older Skillings stamps and the Krone stamps with the picture of Oscar II.

The remainder consisted of the following stamps: 12,900 stamps of Scott No. 16, 1 skilling, 1872, yellow-green; 421,200 stamps of Scott No. 12, 2 skilling, 1867, yellow; 410,500 stamps of Scott No. 17, 2 skilling, 1872, ultramarine; 23,300 stamps of Scott No. 19, 4 skilling, 1872, lilac; 3,300 stamps of Scott No. 21, 7 skilling, 1872, red-brown; 491,000 stamps of Scott No. 10, 24 skilling, 1863, brown; 350,700 stamps of Scott No. 32, 1 Krone, 1878, grey-green and green; 836,700 stamps of Scott No. 33, 1½ Krone, 1878, ultramarine and blue, and 745,100 stamps of Scott No. 34, 2 Krone, 1878, rose and maroon.

The postal authorities sought the advice of the local philatelic society regarding the disposal of the remainders. Because of political consideration it was not considered ethical by the Government to overprint and thus use the Krone values of Norway. The local stamp club advised in order to reimburse the postal authorities for the cost of the stamps to be destroyed that the Krone values be placed on sale together with the old skillings stamps for a period of one year, the stamps in every case to be sold for face value, and that at the end of that period of time all the remainders be burned. It was the opinion of the stamp club that during a year's time at least 200 sheets of each of the three values of the Krone stamps would be sold, giving the postal authorities a net income of 90,000 Kroner. It was also advised that as the total amount of the 7 skilling was so small, the government keep the remainders of that stamp in its archives, and also keep a small number of all the other values about to be sold. This advice was followed. The postal authorities kept 1,000 stamps, or all told 10 sheets of each value that had that many left. All the other stamps, except the 7 skilling, were on sale for about 18 months, and instead of selling 200 sheets of each value of the Krone stamps as the philatelist of Oslo had thought, there was sold exactly 18 sheets of the 1 Krone value, 18 sheets of the 1½ Krone value, and 17 sheets of the 2 Krone value, giving the government a net income of 7,600 Kroner instead of the 90,000 Kroner expected. Of Norway, No. 16 was sold, 12,430; reserve, 500; burned, none. No. 17 was sold, 47,100; reserve, 1,000; burned, 362,400. No. 19 was sold, 22,813; reserve, 500; burned, none. No. 10 was sold, 6,700; reserve, 483,300; burned, none. No. 32 was sold, 1,810; reserve, 1,000; burned, 347,890. No. 33 was sold, 1,800; reserve, 1,000; burned, 833,900. No. 34 was sold, 1,700; reserve, 1,000; burned, 742,400.

Because of this supervised destruction of the Krone values of the 1878 series, the actual issue of these stamps is as follows: No. 32 total issue 697,200 stamps; No. 33, 216,100 stamps; No. 34, 277,600 stamps. It is very evident from these facts that No. 33 and No. 34 are very good stamps. These stamps were in use from 1878 to 1905, and because of many years of service in spite of the small issue, comparatively, many were saved, and for that reason the price for the used condition will not greatly increase. Please notice that Norway No. 38, the

EUCLID STAMP SHOPPE, Inc.

12 ore pale green, had an issue of 200,000 and is cat. $20 unused, and $10 used, and is worth it, while No. 33 had only 216,100 issued and is cat. $1.50 unused, and $1.00 used. Anyone would know that there is at least a hundred used copies for every unused. The same condition refers also to Nos. 32 and 34.

But even if these stamps were used 27 years, when the issue was as small as it is, is it not true that this stamp as several other stamps of Norway has been neglected? The real trouble has been and is that there has not been enough literature available for the English-speaking public, on the stamps of Norway, and although much has been written lately in the Collectors Club Philatelist, the rank and file of the stamp collecting public is not reached, and thus there is little and no access for the average person to the treasures of one of the most interesting countries in the philatelic world.

Another thing is that some emissions as Herr R. Stoebe's pamphlet on the Stamps of Norway is full of erroneous and misleading statements, so that the German-reading public that seeks information through this source are also lead out in the wilderness. What we need is a first class dependable handbook on Norway, based upon the Norwegian classic: "Norges Frimerker 1855-1924" by Justus Anderssen and Henrik Dethlof of Oslo, Norway.

There is also, in my opinion, a distinct need at the present time for a dependable specialized Catalogue on Norway. It is understood that such a work could not attain perfection, and especially if an attempt was made to price in greater detail, but it would give everybody interested in the stamps of Norway a chance to follow up his specialty along certain definite lines to his heart's content. There has been some talk about issuing such a catalogue in Norway, but as far as I know, nothing has as yet materialized.

Twenty members of the Westchester County (N. Y.), Chapter of the American Philatelic Society met Saturday, Dec. 15, at the home of K. N. Woodward, its president, Chappaqua, N. Y. Each member of the society received a "first day cover" mailed from the Postoffice set up at the meeting of the International Civil Aeronautics Conference, held in Washington, Dec. 12 to 14. They were sent to the members by V. M. Anderson of Yonkers.

A new member, A. C. Benschoff of Yonkers, was received, bringing the membership to 31. Vice-President Squier of Yonkers summarized the stamp news of the month. A balance of $24 was reported in the chapter's treasury. A collection of air mail stamps was shown by John O. Henschell of Scarsdale. Another large collection was exhibited by Mr. Woodward. Supper was served by Mrs. Woodward.

BORDER CITIES STAMP CLUB ACTIVITIES

Windsor, Ontario, Flashes Forth Philatelically and a Busy Season Begins

By A. E. EDGAR.

The Border Cities Stamp Club, Windsor, Ont., Canada, is a year old. It has a membership of thirty active members. Through its efforts a Junior Stamp Club has been formed. Its publicity director, A. E. Edgar, conducts a weekly stamp column in the daily newspaper. It has held a successful non-competitive exhibit in a downtown store for the purpose of interesting the public in philately. A record to be proud of, and one any active club may attain.

A POPULAR EXHIBIT OF STAMPS.

The Border Cities Stamp Club, Windsor, Ont., Canada, held a popular exhibit of postage stamps in a local downtown store December 7 and 8, which was well attended. The club members got in touch with many inactive collectors, and interested others in philately. From conversations with these, the prospects are that the club membership will be greatly increased during the coming year.

The exhibit was in the hands of A. E. Edgar and N. R. Hendershott, publicity director and auctioneer, respectively, but every member of the club actively assisted in making it a success. C. L. Brisley exhibited two frames, one of early Great Britain, showing Mulready envelopes and penny-blacks in pairs and strips. George Bradford exhibited early stampless envelopes of Canada. A superbly arranged collection of Canadian stamps was shown by Reginald Simpson, president of the club, while the Classics of the British Empire were shown by W. B. Turner, vice-president. Early cancellations of Canada and the United States were shown in beautiful variety by Frank Durdle. Interesting first flight air mail covers were exhibited by Gordon Woodrow, secretary. A beautiful display of Switzerland, attractively arranged was shown by Walter Meyer, formerly of that country. N. R. Hendershott had a wonderful showing of United States and Confederate States in panes. An informal, semi-humorous and educational display of stamps was made by A. E. Edgar. This collection is not made by countries, but by subjects, such as Birds and Barnyard Fowls, Fair Daughters of Eve, the Zoo, Ships, Modes of Transportation, Toot-Toot Trains, the Barber's Nightmare, the Rogue's Gallery and others.

The columnist of the Border Cities Star gave the exhibit humorous publicity and the same daily had an editorial on stamp collecting. A publicity feature of the exhibit was a guessing contest. A two-quart jar was filled with stamps on paper and prizes were given for the best guessers as to the number. Strange to say the juniors captured all the prizes.

There was a gratifying attendance of juniors as well as adults, and many were started on the collector's voyage through the distribution of upwards of 15,000 stamps in packets to the juniors.

The exhibits were mostly made up of pages from the albums of local club members. These were arranged on counters and covered with glass to protect them. Any active club can increase interest in stamp collecting by means of an exhibt of this nature.

RUSTY TWEEZERS VERSUS RUSTLESS

Stampic Sam: Alas, my poor Tweezer, it's all rusted again.

Peerless Percy: Why, look at mine, Stampic, it's like burnished silver, tho' I've had it for years and years.

Stampic Sam: How on earth do you manage it, Percy?

Peerless Percy: Simply by insisting on a PEERLESS RUSTLESS Tweezer, absolutely untarnishable, which any good Dealer will supply gladly. In case of difficulty, write direct.

AIR PATHS AND POLICIES

The Development In Man's Newest Conquest Indicates That Distance Will Soon Be Vanquished

Politics of the Air

Karl Figdor ("Vossische Zeitung").

Relatively few inventions have determined the social and economic structure of the world we live in, as well as its political life. The colonial empires of Greece, Spain, and Portugal would never have existed if some genius had not invented the sailboat, the colonial system of the nineteenth century was made possible by the steamboat, and the British Dominions and the United States were developed by the locomotive.

It is unfortunate that no one has thought of writing the history of mankind as a struggle against distance, for that is its true essence. Perhaps the most dramatic chapter of all would be the one that we are all of us living through to-day—the chapter of bird's-eye view policies made possible by the flying machine.

Although distance, the chief enemy of human progress, may not yet be completely conquered, it surely will be vanquished soon. Flying routes will be developed, and continents and oceans will be spanned at the rate of two and three hundred miles an hour. The antipodes of to-day will be our neighbors to-morrow, and our present boundaries will be as obsolete as the walls of ancient cities.

We have not yet quite reached this point, but developments are under way, and difficulties that were insuperable twenty years ago are now being overcome. The world is contracting, and world empires of the British type that once seemed about to fall apart are now growing stronger as a result of the flying machine. New economic and political problems have arisen, and a complete change of world politics is in order.

Almost every week ushers in some new development in world flying. Systems of airways are being developed, radiating from a few important political centres. No Great Power with oversea possessions is allowing any portion of its domain to be left unprotected, and every strategic point is being developed and equipped. The struggle to maintain these points is becoming an increasingly vital element in world politics.

A few examples will clearly show how the development of air traffic is influencing world history and world policies. Hardly more than a night is required for an Englishman to fly over friendly France to the Mediterranean, which is now the aeronautical centre of the British Empire. By far the most important district in this part of the world consists of the triangle formed by Port Said, Suez, and Cairo. In the course of the next few years this triangle will form a part of a gigantic air system by which England will spread its wings over the entire Orient and Southern Orient. Cairo will be more important to the future British Empire than the Suez Canal is at the present time or than the Panama Canal is to the United States.

Three great airways radiating from Cairo are now being developed. They will knit together India, Australia, New Zealand, and the South African Union, to say nothing of the East African Dominion that will be developed from British East Africa, German East Africa, and Rhodesia. On these three lines all the pearls of the British Empire except Canada and Newfoundland will be strung.

The first air line will run from Cairo over Arabia and the mandated territories of Palestine, Transjordania, and Mesopotamia, and across India to Singapore, where the Gibraltar of South Eastern Asia is now being built.

The second line will follow the course of the first as far as Singapore, and then branch to the Commonwealth of Australia and the Dominion of New Zealand. The third air line will extend southward the entire length of Africa. It is an overland route crossing Egypt, the Sudan, Uganda, British and German East Africa, Rhodesia, and the South African Union to Cape Town. Work on this route is already under way, and gasoline depots, landmarks, and landing fields are under construction. The other two routes will be opened as soon as beacons have been erected for the benefit of night flyers. The official flying time on the two eastern routes is fantastically short, and has been estimated at the following figures in hours:—

London to Cairo	35
Cairo to Karachi	33
Karachi to Rangoon	30
Rangoon to Singapore	18
Singapore to Port Darwin	33
Port Darwin to Melbourne	30

British policy in the Mediterranean and the British attitude in the Egyptian conflict are thus made abundantly clear. London will never tolerate a change of the present balance of power in the Mediterranean, and Mussolini's hopes of Italian expansion in the Eastern Mediterranean cannot be realized. If Mussolini would take the time to study the new air policy he would soon discover that all his ambitions in this direction will find themselves directly or indirectly thwarted by England.

It is therefore clear that England can follow only one course in any conflict with Egypt, no matter whether Conservatives, Liberals, or Laborites are in power. The status quo in Egypt must be maintained, and even strengthened if possible. All concessions that England will make will be limited by the fact that she requires absolute control not only of Cairo and the Suez Canal, but also of the overland air route to the Sudan and South Africa. Whatever the League of Nations may say, the Egyptians who demand independence will never attain it except by triumphing over the English will to power.

France is also seeking to consolidate her empire by air. Her flyers have just made the trip from Marseille to Timbuktu in a single day. The Sahara and the Mediterranean no longer separate the old France from the new France beyond the seas, from her black empire in Africa and all its resources of land and labor. Marseille is the great future airport of France, just as Cairo is the great future airport of England. From Marseille lines radiate to Tunis, Algiers, Oran, and Casablanca, and from those points further lines extend into Africa.

Mussolini's dream of a Roman Empire encounters its second insuperable obstacle at this point. Tunis will never be Italian, since it occupies a position on the flank of the French network of air routes over Africa.

In Eastern Asia the Philippines are still fighting for an independence that they will never attain, since the position of the United States in the Pacific Ocean and in relation to China demands more than ever the possession of these islands. The Philippines together with Hawaii form America's future line of approach to the East in both peace and war. Air routes will soon be radiating from this line, and will dominate the entire Far East extending to Singapore, where the two great Anglo-Saxon Powers will join hands.

In South America the Argentine Republic is developing air lines over its wide level plains. Buenos Aires will be the most important airport on the continent.

The time will come when flying machines and airships will cross the Atlantic Ocean regularly, and Ireland will then find itself the chief European port for traffic with the West, and will attain an international importance she never enjoyed before.

The most fascinating element in the air services and air policies of the future has to do with the ocean stopping places. An American company has already been formed to place a number of floating airplane bases across the Atlantic Ocean. The question of freedom of the seas at once arises. To whom will these islands belong? What flags will they fly? Will they be internationalized? Whoever controls them not only controls the ocean and the air, but all the seas that England used to rule.

In spite of our European airways, we Germans are mere spectators. We cannot participate in the great policies of tomorrow, for the World War has reduced us to a continental Power. Who knows, however, if that is not the better part?

South American Air Routes

Georges Bruni ("Journal des Débats").

The Berliner Tageblatt has announced that the last German Aeronautical Mission to South America has just closed its offices in Buenos Aires. Three lines are sufficient to state this piece of news, which marks a serious defeat for German aviation.

We have already commented on the rivalry that has been going on for several years in South America between French and German aviation interests. The great air line between Europe and South America that Pierre Latécoère established in 1918 stimulated our neighbors across the Rhine to attempt a vast intercontinental line from Spanish soil with German material and German personnel. The Spanish Government listened attentively to the proffered constitution of an ostensibly Spanish consortium that would actually be German and that would establish fifteen thousand kilometres of airways to South America as far as Buenos Aires, all dominated by the Reich. As a result of this ambition, extraordinary envoys paid many visits to the countries of South America, the most famous of these envoys being ex-Chancellor Luther, who went from capital to capital spreading propaganda in behalf of a German transoceanic air line. These efforts have not succeeded. The progress made by the Société Latécoère and its methodic development of land and sea organization have convinced our transatlantic friends that this company alone is able to establish the desired connections with the maximum of regularity, speed, and safety.

The recent return of the last German

BULGARIA ROSE ERROR

Scott's No. 13A.—I have a mint copy of this RARITY for sale at the special low price of $165.00. I also have for sale a specialized collection of Bulgaria which is replete in unlisted major and minor varieties such as —imperf., part perf., and unlisted perforation varieties; inverted and other surcharge varieties, rare blocks and covers of a great many early issues, including the 1884-85 surcharges. It also contains many interesting shade variations, cancellations, paper var., etc., galore. In fact, it is a very comprehensive study of the postage stamps of Bulgaria and, because of this, it would please me very greatly to sell the collection intact rather than break it up. It is very neatly arranged and written-up, in India ink, in Rapkin Albums. Although I have taken no inventory yet, the price will be about $750.00 to $900.00.

I solicit really serious correspondence regarding the sale of this collection.

EDITORIAL

WE are told that the rush for the new stamps at the Philatelic Agency was such as to swamp its facilities, and while a delay in filling some of the orders is regretted, yet it was impossible to avoid it in the existing nature of things. It is evident that the issue of the two stamps has been received with enthusiasm as the demand for them seems to have been unprecedently strong and in this connection, we are told that a second printing has been made of the issues.

COLLECTORS may rejoice as a consequence of the swelling wave of publicity that collecting is receiving in the press at this time. Literally, hundreds of clippings have been received which do much to prove that an interest in philately is permeating the country. We can do little more than extract a few samples from this mass of documentary evidence that we are on an ascending scale. Dr. Homer P. Macnamara, Springfield, Illinois, sends an editorial from the old Illinois State Register of his city, in which the editor, Mr. Dallman, gives space to an exposition of "a new lure in stamp collecting," or air mail issues. Moreover, some paragraphs of general remarks about the fascinations of philately are given the following intelligent finishing touch, in this commendable editorial: "Many business and professional men are finding in it an interesting surcease from everyday cares, and as in generations past, hundreds of thousands of boys are experiencing a real thrill in hunting down stamps of all nations and all periods. The air mail provides a new incentive all down the line."

THE treasurer of the Fort Orange Stamp Club, Albany, New York, Mr. Charles G. Riess, writes: "Mr. S. I. Rothchild, Freeport, Long Island, visited Albany during the week of Nov. 19th-24th; and his purpose, well-known, was to further philately especially among the young. He came at the request of J. Merritt Brundige of the Lavender book store of this city. Mr. Rothchild gave talks to schools, Kiwanis Club, The Fort Orange Stamp Club, and elsewhere, and a direct result of his work is the new Albany Junior Stamp Club, comprised of youngsters of Albany; there are forty-five members in this club which has its own set of officers, and meets each Saturday morning at Lavender's book shop, where Mr. Brundige has given the club the use of a large room for one morning each week. The adult club of this city is much interested in this youngsters' organization and is donating prizes for various contests which are enjoyed to the utmost." Three clippings from local newspapers accompany Mr. Riess' letter, one of which is illustrated, showing Mr. Rosenthal holding up a page from his album dealing with Mythology. While we stand around saying that something should be done to interest the young folks in stamp collecting, we give thanks that there are others who are unselfish enough to really take off their coats and buckle down to work. Incidentally, Mr. Rothchild is making a name for himself through his stamp lectures in different cities.

MR. RALPH E. WARNER is the editor of De Vez en Cuando, the student publication of the Spanish Department in Oberlin College, Ohio. Moreover, he lived for a time in Brazil, and it may be said that he feels a kinship with the South American countries. When he saw reports of the trouble between Bolivia and Paraguay, his mind reverted to a significant feature that was incorporated in the design of a Bolivian stamp, and he now favors us with a little study of, What can a postage stamp mean? in the following words: "The papers are spreading headlines that may portend untold disaster. Bolivia and Paraguay are up in arms over the old question of the border, and Bolivia's outlet to the sea. Who started it? is asked, and no one really can say. But I should like to call attention to one fact familiar to many of us, but to which few have attached any significance. In 1925, Bolivia issued a set of ten stamps commemorating the centenary of the republic. Most of the designs were the ones usually used to typify industry, agriculture patriotism and high ideals. But—notice the design of the 25 centavos: a condor on the peak of a high mountain stretches a cruel-looking head toward the right. Besides the conventional labels of a commemorative, it bears the inscription, Hacia el Mar, 'On to the Sea.' Was that stamp a prophecy? Was it merely an overflow of popular opinion or a real threat? I am not trying to imply anything either way. It seems to me significant and worth considering (1) that such a label should be placed on any stamp, (2) that it should have appeared when it did, and (3) that the condor on this particular stamp apparently is facing the east, the direction of the present trouble."

AN inquiry has been received from Mr. Arthur S. Engel, Charleston, S. C., as follows: "I am anxious to know some of the particulars of the booklet of air mail stamps of the 10c denomination that was issued by the department just before the rate was reduced to five cents, such as the date of issue and price as well as reasons for its issue." Under date of May 16, 1928, the post office department sent from Washington a circular which described the philatelic features in a governmental sense of the Midwestern Philatelic Exhibition that was to be held at Cleveland, Ohio, the week of May 21-26. We read: "The Department will also offer for sale for the first time, stamp books of Air Mail stamps. Each book carries six 10-cent Lindbergh Air Mail stamps, and the book will sell for 61 cents." It is true that these booklets had a short tenancy, but they were issued to provide for convenience in handling of the air mail stamps by an increasing number of patrons of the service. It was not anticipated when they appeared that the rate would be reduced so soon.

AN interesting side-light on Barbuda, one of the Caribbee Islands whose issue of stamps in 1922 is dismissed by the cataloguers as speculative and unnecessary, since there are not more than ten white men on the island, is furnished by Professor James L. Copeland of Chicago: "Some time ago I had the pleasure of learning something about this island out in the Atlantic Ocean, thirty miles northeast of Antigua, of which it is a parish presided over by a resident justice of the peace whose chief occupation is to control the poachers. His aids are a school-teacher and a doctor. Few travelers visit the island since it has no harbor, and one lands through the surf on the back of a sailor. Many other interesting particulars are to be had through various books, but I may mention that on the island is a village peopled by a physically fine race of negroes that is probably more thoroughly African than any other on this continent. The huts are of wickerwork with roofs of thatch, and each is enclosed in a wicker fence, all huddled together. These negroes gain their living by poaching, even though it is forbidden. Of all the postally useless stamps, those of Barbuda are entitled to a place in the front row, and yet they are not to be ignored as emanations of a country well off the beaten track of civilization." There are many interesting details of the island and its people in histories and books of travel that stamp collectors will be rewarded by reading.

ONE of the big city newspapers recently contained a long article by a staff writer that was based on the query, What is a tical? The bankers, merchants and others who were interviewed did not know whether it was a laugh, a game, a monkey, or what not. Finally, the tical was traced to its lair by one genius who associated Siam with the tical and the baht, but the effort left him with a mind in collapse. Then, one determined soul wrote to Washington, and with the treasury department's coinage table before them solved the mystery. Why was not a collector consulted? Many a boy who knows his stamps could have said that the tical of Siam was approximately twenty-eight cents in our money.

Air Mail News

BY FREDERICK D. MARKEE,
40 Wilshire Park, Needham, Mass.

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Markee and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

Official notice of the First Trip over FAM No. 6 gives the starting date as January 9th. Planes will leave both Miami and San Juan, P. R., on that date, touching at Havana, Port-au-Prince, Hayti, Santo Domingo City, Rep. Dominica. The rate is given at 5c for the 1st ounce, and 10c for each succeeding ounce or fraction, for Havana and Porto Rico. I have further information that states the rates out of Port-au-Prince will be 12c, and Santo Domingo, 15c, although this is not official. As neither of these latter countries have money order exchange with this country, bank drafts are necessary to transmit your funds to the postmasters.

The rate on FAM No. 7, Miami to Nassau, will be the regular 5c charge for the first ounce, 10c for each succeeding ounce.

STAMP TRUST STORE
WANT LISTS

Bring in your list or send it in; there are four competent stamp people here to find the stamps for you; if we have it, we'll dig, if not, we'll advise you when it shows up.
And "the stuff" is here also. Years of want list work tells—what to buy and stock.
Of course a lot of it, especially the less popular countries, is hard to find. The weekly purchase of a fair sized collection helps out here.

"Surcharge"

This is an overprint found on certain stamps of Grenada intended for use as postage due labels. The word "surcharge" is very generally used by Post Office Departments as indicating the extra or over charge due on unpaid or insufficiently prepaid mail, so that its appropriateness in this particular instance is obvious:—

Off-Centre Stamps

In describing a mint stamp in the most perfect condition possible from a philatelist's point of view, the words well-centred are often used. A mint stamp is, of course, not necessarily well-centred, for lots of stamps are placed on sale at the post offices more or less off-centre as it is termed. A well-centred stamp is one in which the design is as nearly as possible equidistant from the perforations on all four sides, or with a nice margin on every side in the case of imperforate stamps. Where one or more sides of the design are cut into by the perforation or other method of separation and there are extra wide margins on other side the stamp is said to be off-centre. Perfect centering is a practical impossibility in the case of some old stamps, for the impressions were arranged so closely together on the plates that there was no room for perforations. Some stamps, like those of the United States, are notoriously difficult to obtain in well-centred condition; others like those of Great Britain, Germany and France are normally well-centred. A poorly centred stamp is certainly an eyesore but the absolutely plumb centering demanded by some collectors nowadays is carrying matters to extremes. The middle course is the sanest; if a stamp looks well and the perforation does not actually cut into the design, then it may be fairly described as a good and perfect specimen.

Prince of Wales

K.G., G.C.M.G., G.B.E., M.C., Heir Apparent to the British Throne, Colonel. Col.-in-Chief, 12th Lancers; R.S. Fus.; Duke of Cornwall's L.I. Hon. President of the Royal Philatelic Society, London.
Born June 23rd, 1894.

The Prince of Wales is a stamp collector of some years' standing, and his collection, unlike that of his father, is not confined to the postal issues of the British Empire.

At the International Philatelic Exhibition held in London in May, 1906, His Royal Highness exhibited a fine collection of unused stamps of Liberia, mostly in mint pairs, and practically complete from the first perforated issue. The Prince's general collection of unused stamps of France and Colonies was also shown on that occasion.

His Royal Highness accepted the honorary presidency of the Royal Philatelic Society in 1919.

During his world tour the Prince of Wales attended stamp exhibitions arranged in his honour at Bombay, Singapore and elsewhere, and was the recipient of loyal addresses from a number of colonial philatelic societies. He brought back from his travels a number of philatelic souvenirs.

It is understood that the collection of His Royal Highness has not been added to of recent years.—Who's Who in Philately.

Surcharges

By A. C. LeDuc.

When a stamp has something printed on its face after the stamp has been finished, we call such overprint, a surcharge. Sometimes the surcharge is a new value printed on the stamp to change the original value either higher or lower. Other surcharges are placed on stamps to denote historical events, changes of governments, charitable projects, etc., which may or may not change the original value of the stamp for postal purposes.

Stamps have been surcharged for use in other countries other than the one for which they were originally intended. Such cases for example was the use of United States stamps surcharged for use in Cuba, Porto Rico, and the Philippines, at the time of the Spanish American war.

Our Junior Dictionary

Cartagena.—The chief town in the state of Antlantico (part of the Department of Bolivar), Colombia, which has a population of over 20,000. During the civil war of 1899-1900 a large number of provisional stamps were issued in this town.

Carter's Paid Despatch.—A local post of Philadelphia established in 1849 and in connection with which two stamps were issued, neither of which bore any indication of the fee charged for the delivery of letters.

Cartophily.—A name which has now fallen into disuse, but which at one time was generally applied to the scientific collecting of postal cards.

Cartridge Paper. — Although this name was originally intended to designate the special paper used in making cartridges, it is nowadays used to describe a variety of drawing papers—generally those with a rough surface and of some degree of stoutness. Some of the lithographed 1d stamps issued in Trinidad in 1853 were printed on bluish cartridge paper.

Cash.—The value in which many of the stamps of Shanghai were expressed. Ten cash were equal to a candarin, which varied in value from 1½c to ½c in United States currency.

Blocks

By A. C. LeDuc.

Some people are not content to collect single stamps, they want to make a bigger showing so they collect them in larger lots. A block is usually meant four stamps as they came from the original sheet and still attached together in the form of a square. Some collectors want to get larger blocks such as six or eight or nine or more. Then in the case of U. S. stamps, some collectors want to get the stamps from the top or bottom or sides of the sheets in blocks of four or six so as to show the plate number which appears on the margin of the sheet. Some collectors go still further and collect whole sheets of stamps as they were issued by the post office.

Stamps that come from sheets that have not been perforated should be collected only in the form of pairs or blocks so as to show that there was never any perforation holes between the stamps.

A Transvaal Provisional

The surcharge "Cancelled—V. R. I." on a Transvaal stamp does not mean that it has been used. Stamps so marked were provisionally issued by the British authorities at the small township of Wolmaranstad during the South African war. The word "Cancelled" was supposed to fall across the inscription at top of stamp —"Postzegel: Z. Afr. Republiek"—and so cancel it, while the letters "V. R. I." showed the stamp was issued under British jurisdiction. Only a small quantity was surcharged and it is probable that the number actually used was very small indeed. The overprinting was done by means of a handstamp made by setting up ordinary rubber type, such as is included in the cheap outfits frequently advertised in boys' papers.

Double Paper Varieties

The double paper varieties of the United States stamps of the '70's are none too easy to identify and many stamps of the kind have been destroyed, unwittingly, so far as the paper variety is concerned, through immersion in water. Sometimes, when large numbers of the lower denominations of the 1873 issue are soaked, one or more blank pieces of paper, complementary to the stamp as to perforations, are found in the flotsam. Much conjecture as to the origin of these mysterious bits of paper sometimes follows cases of the kind. The double paper variety of the two-cent brown is an exception to the rule and usually may be detected by reason of the double sheet giving a thickness to the paper similar to the paper of the 1879 issue; there is no two-cent brown, 1879. When the corner of a double paper stamp is moistened, separation of the two layers readily follows; and when the water dries, there usually remains a brownish outline bordering the area that was wet; the discoloration is due to the dissolving of the ingredients holding the two sheets of paper together.

AIR MAIL NEWS

Appearing in the same issue of the Bulletin as the above items, is authorization for daily service over CAM No 2, the first Sunday flight being made on December 23rd. Another nice little Christmas present, if you get aboard in time!

Effective January 7th, Air Mail service will be established at Rome, N. Y. on route CAM No. 20. A special cachet will be used at Rome on all mail despatched on that date.

Covers from the Milwaukee-Green Bay flight, CAM No. 9, have been received and the outstanding feature of the cachet is the remarkable clearness of the design. The Milwaukee Association of Commerce also applied an additional cachet-map of the flight—and altogether the covers are exceptionally nice.

The Winnipeg-Edmonton-Calgary flight brought in some very nice additional cachets to the previous set applied by the Canadian offices. The open design used by the Canadian Post Office Dept., lends itself well to stamp pad application and the cachets are carefully applied, making a combination that is welcome to every collector.

Mr. George Shirk takes me to task for my item regarding Pawhuska, Okla., but takes the edge off his call-down, by stating Oklahoma City is building an Airport and may use a special cachet when dedicated.

Promptly on time, the new issues arrived from the Philatelic Agency, and we can truthfully say the 5c is a mighty handsome stamp. The 2c doesn't quite seem to come up to expectations, but as we are no judge of art, it may be a very fine engraving. The special cancel used at the Conference, applied in green ink, stood out on the envelopes like a million dollars, and was unusually legible.

In connection with the list of "possibles," published in this column a few weeks ago, Mr. Carter Glass, Jr., writes that two of the points given, Blacksburgh and Charlotte, Va., are very small points and that it is not likely they will have Airports in the near future. Mr. Glass informs me that Lynchburg and Danville, Va., are contemplating Airports, and that definite action will be taken within the next month or so.

In connection with the item last week regarding flown covers carried from Manila to Hong Kong, I am in receipt of three covers, bearing the new L. O. F. surcharged stamps and a cachet reading —"Manila-Hong Kong, via British Far East Flight—First Air Mail." The cachet is made up of a large impression of a hydroplane in flight, with the reading matter above and below the plane. One cover is cancelled Manila, November 15, 1928, and backstamped Hong Kong, November 18, 1928, Needham, Dec. 17th, evidently the first covers to come through from this flight. Quantity of mail carried and other data will probably be forthcoming in the next few days, but it is quite evident that the British Squadron were prevailed upon to carry mail from Manila to Hong Kong. I am indebted to Mr. Walter Bruggman for sending the above.

Jackson, Mich., was scheduled to apply a cachet to Air Mail on Dec. 17, through the C. of C., but covers sent out to that point came back without any cachet, cancelled Dec. 12!

The Merrill-Ronne Airport at Matamoras, Pa., will not be dedicated before June, 1929, but Mr. Grover O. Strunk, Secty. of the Committee, writes that a special cachet will be used when the Airport is dedicated. Bear this one in mind and send your covers about April 15th, to be on the safe side.

Mr. J. Rausch writes me that he is in touch with the Redding (Calif.) Chamber of Commerce with regard to the use of a special cachet for their Airport dedication, and that it is planned to apply something to Air Mail when the event takes place—probably by mid-summer.

Coöperators sent through a lot of "possibles" this week, but we have carried some of the information in past issues and have had to pass up their offerings. The first anniversary cachet used by the contractors of CAM No. 20, and applied at Cleveland and Buffalo on Dec. 17th, came through nicely and was quite dignified and readable. A Bull's-eye, about 2½ inches in diameter, with the reading matter well spaced around the circumference of each of the three circles.

A UNIQUE AIR MAIL COVER

By AARESS.

The first December meeting of the National Air Mail Society of Chicago was of interest. One of the members had just been to St. Louis and stated that a large amount of collectors' mail which had been sent in care of the postmaster via the first flight of route No. 30 on December 1 was still unreturned from that city up to December 7. Furthermore, he disclosed the fact that none of the mail from Chattanooga on this flight would receive the St. Louis backstamp because the plane carrying it was delayed in reaching Evansville in time to connect with the plane carrying the mail over the Evansville to St. Louis spur; consequently, the Chattanooga mail was taken to St. Louis on the earliest L. & N. R. R. train from Evansville.

Another member reported that he had a piece of cloth from the damaged fin of the airship "Graf Zeppelin." This souvenir was obtained from a friend who is a naval officer stationed at Lakehurst, and it was autographed by several of the Zep's crew.

What caused greatest discussion was a unique cover shown by R. J. Schwarz. This was an envelope of a letter mailed in 1920 from a French post office near Constantinople, and was franked with an ordinary 25 centime French stamp. On the back is the postmark of the British post office at Constantinople. However, what sets this envelope off from any other is the rubber stamp impression across the face, "Damaged in Air Mail Wreck Near Toledo, O. 9-14-20." The cover is without a doubt authentic because it was addressed to a person in California who makes it a practice to keep all letters intact, and just recently was persuaded to relinquish this one when a philatelist friend espied it.

Has anyone else such a cover? Who knows anything about an air mail wreck near Toledo in September, 1920? If you have any enlightening information, please get in touch with the Secretary, National Air Mail Society, Room 1623, 159 N. State St., Chicago, Illinois.

Annual

—Washington, D. C., Society Begins A New Year of Activities.

By MAURICE S. PETTY.

At the annual meeting of the Washington (D. C.) Philatelic Society on Dec. 12, the president William A. Johnson was re-elected unanimously. Mr. Johnson, known and beloved to philatelists all over the U. S. A., has been president for fifteen years, being one of the five remaining Charter members. These men who have been members since its organization December 11, 1905, are: W. A. Johnson, J. H. Houston, H. F. Colman, H. F. Dunkhorst and T. R. Hungerford.

The officers for the year 1929 are: Pres., William A. Johnson; 1st Vice Pres., James F. Duhamel; 2nd Vice Pres., Col. W. N. McKelvy; Sec., Maurice S. Petty; Treas., Philip S. Warren; Lib., Harry G. Webb; Auction Mgr., John D. K. Smoot; Sales Mgr., Prof. W. Frank Clark; Board of Governors, Officers and Mayo Dudley, Maj. F. H. Bonesteel, W. Hayden Collins and Carl Stodder.

The society has been in the habit of having an address on some subject connected with stamps or allied matters on every Wednesday night, the members frequently showing rare and unusual items. Recently the unsurpassed collection of Mexico was exhibited by Lt. Col. C. S. Hamilton, and a treat was had.

The treasurer's report showed 83 members in good standing. In its history this society has numbered some of Philately's most noted among its members, such as Major G. W. A. Camp, President of the S. P. A., Philip H. Ward, and others.

The boys' auxiliary meets Saturday afternoons under the leadership of Mr. Smoot and Prof. Clark. The latter also has a fine Boys' Stamp Club at the Central High School. The society is fostering an essay contest. Prizes will be given to the Washington boys submitting the best essays on different phases of stamp collecting. A more thriving society would be hard to find, and visitors are always welcome on Wednesday nights at 1022 Vermont Ave., N. W.

COLLECTOR'S CONTEST

Some of our loyal friends have apologized for the few subscriptions sent in, saying "my total is so small that I feel ashamed and especially when I see what others are doing." Of course a dealer has unusual advantages over the collector.

Here is a contest, however, for the collector only. During Jan., Feb. and March, we will award individual prizes each month to the five collectors leading in points secured, one point for each three month subscription. One year counts four points, six months counts two points.

Additional prizes will be given the three leaders on the three months' totals:—

SOME CHINESE VARIETIES

China, First Type.—The very first issue of China presents excellent opportunities for the bargain hunter. There are only three normal stamps—1, 3 and 5 candarins—but those who like to study them will soon find that there were at least three printings, all of which can be easily told apart. To put it simply, the first issue was on thin paper and the third on thicker paper; but the most important of the three is the issue that comes between these two. This is known as the "wide setting," and the size of the margins of stamps belonging to it leaves no room for mistake. The margins were caused by the stamps being placed further apart on the sheet as compared with the first issue. It only lasted nine months, and the closer form of setting, as in the first issue was reverted to, but the paper then used was thicker, and the shades of the stamps were quite different, although not intentionally.

There is not a great deal of difference in value between the first and third printings, and we will therefore content ourselves with recommending a careful lookout to be kept for the "wide setting" issue, particularly unused. In the opinion of the writer (who has specialised in Chinese stamps), the 5 candarins, unused, wide setting, is the rarest normal stamp of China.

Stamps of all three printings are worth very much more than normal when they are in pairs or blocks, or on entire envelopes.

The Dowager Empress Issue.—Here again two different printings provide interest, and also great difference in value. The first printing was in Japan and the second at Shanghai, in China. After the stamps had been in use for three years it was decided to alter the currency from "candarins" to "cents."

There were two main styles of surcharge:—(a) small figures, (b) large figures. Nearly all the Japan printing that were left on hand were surcharged in small figures. Meantime, supplies were renewed by making the Chinese printing, and almost the entire Chinese printing was converted into "cents" by means of the large figure surcharge.

The unsurcharged stamps of the Japanese printing are therefore comparatively common, but the unsurcharged stamps of the Chinese printing are very rare indeed. The question therefore is how to distinguish between them.

The shades of the two printings are entirely different for most values, but, of course, it is difficult for the amateur to tell them apart until he has had experience. To the experienced it is fairly easy, for the Chinese printings are altogether more delicate in tint—one might say more typically Chinese—while the Japan printings are of a firmer, more decided, and more vivid colouring. But this is too vague for the beginner, so, bearing in mind that the rare (Chinese) set unsurcharged is the commonest with the large figure surcharge, and that the small figure surcharge is only found on the Japan printing, he should try to mount up, side by side, one of each value surcharged with small and large figures.

This "small figure" set will provide a reference list of colours of the Japan printing—the small figure stamps can be nothing else. The stamps with the large figure surcharge, if the stamps show a marked difference in colouring, will be the Chinese printing.

With these two reference sets in his pocket, an exciting hunt can commence for the rare unsurcharged stamps of the Chinese printing, and so many collectors —and dealers—do not know the difference that a little diligence may bring ample reward.

We must make it clear that not all the large surcharge stamps are of the Chinese printing, for some small remainders of the Japanese printing which came in late from the outlying offices had the large figure surcharge applied, but in general the test holds good—Japanese printing, commonest unsurcharged or with small surcharge. Chinese printing commonest with large surcharge (do not exist with small surcharge), and very rare without surcharge.

Imperial Chinese Post.—Next came the stamps of more normal shape, worded "Imperial Chinese Post." They are a pretty series, with two scarce varieties to look for among them. These are: ½ cent purple. On one stamp on the plate there is a variety in which a large coloured ball (it is larger than a full stop) appears between the two words "Chinese" and "Post." Of course, it was accidental, but it was never removed, and therefore appeared once on every sheet throughout the whole issue. The sheets were printed in a curious arrangement of four panes side by side, and this variety happens on the second stamp on the top row of the third pane. It is not a variety with which the ordinary collector should trouble himself, but the specialist in Chinese stamps naturally wants it, and it is worth, say, 5/- as compared with 3d for the normal stamp.

The other variety is the 50c deep green, instead of bright yellow-green, which is the colour of the 10c. Obvious errors of colour are outside the scope of the "Bargain Hunter's Chronicle," but we include this error because we have ourselves picked it up on several occasions as the normal stamp, with which it is easily confused. The error is worth twice as many pounds as the normal stamp is worth in shillings, so it is worth looking for.—Junior Stamp Magazine.

HARRIS & CO. JOURNAL

The firm of H. E. Harris & Co. has just issued No. 27 of the Bi-Monthly Journal. So many excellent numbers have been issued that it is difficult to find words to express the merit of this publication. Its eighty-four pages are filled with a wide range of offerings, and its pages are dressed with many halftone illustrations. The leading editorial, "Stamps in Stores," we shall take the liberty of reprinting. We believe that a great deal of favorable publicity could be given our hobby if stamp departments were established in metropolitan stores. We recommend to our subscribers this new edition of the Journal, and suggest that a sample copy be requested. Our attention was arrested by one item that we shall do well to pass on as being worthy of reprinting. "Many persons who are busy are only picking up the beans they have spilled." Of course this does not apply to the firm of Harris & Co.

ission to its native land proves that ermany has abandoned the struggle, id that, although her future may be in ie air, South America will not be in-olved. The success of the Société atécoère, now known as the Compagnie énérale Aeropostale, is complete. It is a honor to our aviation, for its 12,795 ilometres that comprise the France to outh America air line make it by far ie longest commercial air line regularly sed.

The history of this line's development nd the present conditions under which functions must be familiar to everyone nterested in the economic expansion of rance. The Toulouse to Buenos Aires oute was developed in the following tages: September, 1919, Toulouse to asablanca, 1845 kilometres; June, 1925, asablanca to Dakar, 2850 kilometres; ovember, 1927, Natal to Montevideo to uenos Aires, 4650 kilometres; March, 928, Dakar to Natal, 3450 kilometres; aking a total of 12,795 kilometres. All ie land flying is done in airplanes, and ie sea is negotiated in amphibians and ispatch boats. Within a year the dis-atch boats will be removed and the mphibians that are just being completed ill be put into service. At the present ioment one trip a week is made. The ime taken for the first five voyages, in-luding stopovers, was 374 hours, 431 ours, 380 hours, 305 hours, and 287 ours. Thus the longest of these trips ook eighteen days, whereas now the av-rage is ten days, with better time being nade each week. Long before the lapse f the six months' period specified in the ontract to the Compagnie Générale eropostale, the service will be function-ng in less than eight days.

When the personnel becomes familiar vith its duties, and when the amphibians ave replaced the dispatch boats, the time vill be cut still shorter. Let us suppose hat the ordinary letter takes nearly a nonth to get from Chile to Paris by oat. It now takes thirteen days by air, nd next year the trip will take only six r seven days at the most. These fig-ures are so eloquent that comment is nnecessary.

The personnel that is now required to un this enormous service includes sev-nty-two pilots, two hundred mechanics, four hundred laborers, forty naval of-icers, three hundred sailors, thirty radio perators, and thirteen base commanders. The material includes two hundred air-planes, ten amphibians, three hundred motors, six rapid dispatch boats, six watchtowers, three reserve gasoline tanks, and two reserve water tanks.

The recruiting, training, and develop-ment of a skilled personnel, the construc-tion and coöperation of such a large naval and air fleet, and the organization of thirteen landing fields have cost mil-lions of francs and have involved an enormous amount of work. The chief difficulties lay between Natal and Buenos Aires. But in spite of everything, a total distance of three hundred thousand kilo-metres has been flown during seven months, and during the last two months the service has been one hundred per cent regular. Is it necessary to add that the number of letters carried is increas-ing at a formidable rate?

Such is the achievement of a thorough-ly French air service organized in a su-perior way over a space of some years. It is the fruit of determined, intelligent will power, and the reward of prodigious labor. M. Pierre Latécoère and his faith-ful collaborator, M. de Massimi, have silently, methodically, and faithfully created a marvelous tool whose world-wide importance public opinion is just beginning to recognize.

Flying Across Africa

Lady Heath ("Saturday Review").

I listened on Monday to an account by Mr. Gerald Bowyer of his adventures in traveling from Cape Town to London by motor car—the first time a standard motor car has made this trip. Mr. Bow-yer refuses to call Africa the Dark Con-tinent; he calls it the Light Continent. He says that throughout his journey he saw but one leopard, a few buck, a cou-ple of hyena, and an odd jackal or two. Roads, whether they are the better roads of the Uganda, the narrower native tracks of Tanganyika, or the very occa-sional roads that thread the swamps in North Rhodesia, all bring a certain amount of civilization close to them, for civilization follows the path of transport. But in flying over Africa one is unable, much as one would like to, to stick to the safer lines of civilization and roads, and is obliged to get from landing place to landing place across anything that may lie between, whether it be swamp or forest, or craggy mountain ranges with desolate valleys in between.

Looking back on my flight, I am chiefly impressed by the minute scratches human effort has made on the surface of Afri-ca. Over great areas there is no sign of living habitation. The fever and damps of the swamps make life impossible, and in other closely wooded areas there is depopulation owing to the ravages of sleeping sickness. Even in the more highly civilized parts there are great areas of lonely country—mountainous stretches of veldt in South Africa, and still more mountainous areas of desert to the north. But the centre of Africa cannot be called moun-tainous. From all its coasts Africa slopes upward to a great central plateau, on which are found, far away from the ravages of civilization, the lowest forms of animal and vegetable life. Many pi-lots have flown this route, and I have heard one of them say that on the whole trip he saw no game or anything alive. I can only surmise that this man did not know his Africa and did not know what the living things looked like when he saw them. The natural instinct of game is to stand stock still when it hears a suspicious sound, and to remain still un-til it discovers the cause and direction of that which startles it. It is therefore not so easy for one who has not actually walked and shot over the country to dis-tinguish wild life. For my part, having lived in all three of the British East African territories, and having traveled through all our other possessions in that continent, often with a gun in search of game, my eyes were quick to see wild animals, and there was an abundance of them.

As far south as Livingstone—twenty miles south of it, in fact—I saw rhinos in the bush, and flying low over them was horrified to observe the devoted mother of a baby rhinoceros run headlong from her charge when she heard the machine. Other game behaved quite differently. On the Serengati plains in the west of Kenya the great herds of buck, number-ing often many thousands, ran like a frightened herd of sheep from the noise of the engine. But two or three times on the edge of the plains when I passed over groups of lions, either sunning themselves in the morning heat or rang-ing from place to place, I was surprised to find that they took apparently no no-tice of my machine. They probably re-garded me, as the natives did in various wild places in which I landed, as an "act of God." In the Southern Sudan I found the rhinos more quiescent, the white rhino, a creature peculiar to that region, ignoring my presence completely; and the large herds of elephants took but lit-tle notice. Of the smaller game hidden among the undergrowth I can say little, the tiny buck, guinea fowl, and snakes being altogether hidden from my view. Other birds than the guinea fowl, such as the great eagles which frequent the granite hills rising out of the forest plains, drifted by with complete con-tempt, sometimes only a few yards off.

I retain wonderful memories of the beauties of Central Africa. On the Equator itself there is no great heat, ow-ing to the height of the central plateau, and where there is not forest or swamp there are vast rolling plains of agricul-tural land, which the white settler is be-ginning to discover and to exploit. As soon as the powers that be help him by laying down transport and postal facili-ties—for those are the two things neces-sary to open up Central Africa—we shall have a great storehouse of mineral and agricultural wealth. A railway runs northward from the Cape for five days' journey before it branches off toward the Belgian Congo. Westward a line runs inland through Portuguese East Africa from Beira, and again another line runs from Dar-es-Salaam to Lake Tangan-yika. Another line is gradually creeping eastward from Lobito, but in the very centre, where there are gold and dia-monds, and that still more priceless pos-session, a rich virgin soil, there is noth-ing except impossibly bad roads which cannot be used during the rainy season, from March to October. Never shall I forget the beauty of climbing at nine thousand feet over the ridge of the Rung-wa Mountains on the southern side of Tanganyika. The drifting white clouds that held the coming of the rains were flecking the sky and gilding the crest of the next range. Underneath them, in-tersecting the mottled ground of the val-leys, were the silver ribbons of water-courses flowing to Lake Rukwa and the semi-dry swamp which lies to the north. In this valley there are hundreds of white people finding a living by washing the gold from the rivers. A little far-ther north a new diamond mine has re-cently been discovered. Two or three hundred miles still further north, on the shores of Victoria Nyanza, there is an enormous meat-canning industry starting. All these industries are begging for transport facilities to connect them with the Mother Country. Unless the Im-perial Government can find means to provide the help that is required these people will have to go elsewhere, and their industries will be lost to the Empire.

From a navigational point of view, flying over Central Africa is child's play. The visibility is wonderful. One can see fifty or seventy miles with the greatest ease, and in Africa things are built on a big scale. A single range as large as the Pennines, a lake as large as Ireland, a solitary hill as big as Vesuvius, are common occurrences, so that one does not have to concentrate on the details immediately beneath one, such as roads, crossroads, railways, and the twists of tiny rivers, as one does in the small area and perpetually bad visibility of the Brit-ish Isles. An hour before reaching Lake Bangweota the shining stretches of its waters and the glittering silver of the bend of the Nile can be seen. The ex-treme beauty and bigness of things make one forget the possibility of a forced landing.

This danger is really an ever-present one, and it is a danger that could be greatly lessened or altogether removed if the governments of Central Africa would combine to provide a chain of wireless stations such as they have in the Sudan and such as the Italian and French colonies so proudly possess. To my mind, Abercorn is the centre of Africa, and for five hundred miles to the south there is a single telegraph line which lies on the ground for nine months out of twelve owing to the thefts of wire-loving natives or the pell-mell rush of careless giraffes or the ravages of storms. To the north of Abercorn to Tabora there are four hundred miles of forest and swamp over which the trans-African aviator must fly and through which the trans-African traveler must go, and here there is no line for communication of any kind. To herald one's advent or to warn the villages of one's coming means a ten days' job by runner, and one might be lost for weeks in the forest before the country people became aware that it was even necessary to send out a search party. These things must be remedied.—The Living Age.

HOLIDAY GREETINGS!

As the old year draws to a close, I wish to take this opportunity of wishing my many clients the compliments of the season and of expressing my great appreciation of their valued business during the past year.

The year 1928 will be my largest to date, in spite of the fact that in a previous year, I distributed a collection netting a quarter of a million dollars. I have had the pleasure of placing in many of our foremost collections some of the finest United States items known to philately. My enormous stock is so arranged that I can not only take care of the client desiring the rare item, but am in a position to give the small order my best and most careful attention. CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., P. O. Box 2175, Middle City Station, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps from 1900 to date. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, cor. Robbins Road and Locust Ave., Lexington, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

Aeronautic Conference Stamps

The two stamps issued to commemorate the International Civil Aeronautic Conference, are meeting with general approval, and while the 5-cent is considered the more attractive, it must be remembered that when the Wright Brothers designed their airplane, it was designed for service and not for artistic attractiveness, so that the engraver gave us the best possible stamp under the circumstances. The green cancellation used by the Washington office results in a most attractive cover and furnishes a pleasing addition to any collection.

The Second Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. Warren Irving Glover, also arranged a most unusual postmark for use at Kitty Hawk, N. C., on December 17th, the twenty-fifth anniversary of aviation's birthday. Twenty-five years previous to that date, the incredible happened at lonesome, windswept Kitty Hawk, a mere speck on the map down upon the sand dunes of the North Carolina coast. The Wright brothers ascended in a heavier than air machine and actually stayed in the air at first for twelve seconds, at which time a horizontal distance of 120 feet was covered, and later the second brother eclipsed even this feat by remaining aloft for fifty-nine seconds and traveling 852 feet. Few believed the news at the time, but today the whole world pays tribute to the courage of the Wright brothers, whose pioneer flights ushered in a new era of transportation.

At Kitty Hawk, on December 17, 1928, a memorial of the most appropriate character was started. The cornerstone was laid by Orville Wright, and from this cornerstone will arise a tower that will be a beacon of light for the guidance of both aviators and mariners along this dangerous coast. Later on, it is hoped that an air field will surround the tower.

The postmark used on the occasion is a two-inch square, and shows a portrait of the Wright airplane, with a modern airplane above. Below we find in five lines—"Twenty-fifth anniversary, first flight made by the Wright Brothers at Kitty Hawk, N. C., Dec. 17, 1903." The marking was applied in black on the cover, and in addition, the stamps received the small handstamp postmark of the North Carolina office, bearing date in addition to name of city and state.

"Molly Pitcher"

Mr. M. Ohlman has shown me a block of four of the 2-cent "Molly Pitcher" variety, wherein the stamps of the lower row are surcharged at a distance of about twenty-nine millimeters from the surcharge above, whereas the normal surcharge runs around eighteen millimeters. It looks as if a whole row of the surcharge dropped, as the variety is not constant in all sheets. Mr. Ohlman states that five blocks were located, which leads me to believe that these blocks formed a complete horizontal row. The surcharge between the word "Molly" and "Pitcher" is the same in both cases.

Paper Shrinkage

Mention was recently made in this column of the fact that many stamps had been recently located which were smaller in size than those heretofore distributed. As differences at times occur in sheets from the same plate, it was known of course, that it must be due to either paper or gum, or both, for naturally the same plate could not print two sizes of stamps. The subject was taken up with the Bureau of Engraving & Printing, and Mr. A. W. Hall, Director, advises as follows:

"There is no difference in the layout of the plates, but we are now printing flat-bed stamps with the grain of the paper running in either direction, which probably accounts for the difference in the size of the blocks of stamps submitted by you. The unequal size of these blocks of stamps might also be accounted for by the variance in the quantity of water in the paper at the time the impression was taken. The identical stamps are herewith returned."

Playing Card Stamp

Mr. Howard C. Buttermore has shown me a new Playing Card stamp not noted heretofore, namely, the 10c blue Scott's No. 4518, perforated 10 on all sides. This stamp has been noted heretofore rouletted, perforated 11 and in coil form, but this is the first time the variety has been noted in the condition just described.

Canal Zone

Philippines

A new series of air mail stamps overprinted locally, has just made its appearance, the overprint being in red, showing an airplane in flight with "L. O. F." above, and "1928" below. The initials stand for "London-Orient Flight," and they were placed on sale at Manila on November 9, at which time a special postmark was used for the occasion, the marking being in black and consisting of three concentric circles. Within are four airplanes in flight, in addition to "London-Orient Flight, Manila, Nov. 9, 1928, First-Day cover." The issue of stamps was occasioned by the visit of the British Army Sea-plane Squadron on their far-eastern good-will flight, at which time arrangements were made for the flyers to carry a certain number of letters, and one of these letters on hand, shows the postmark of "Manila, Nov. 15, 2.30 P. M.", in addition to a postmark of "Hong Kong, Nov. 18, 9.30." (does not state A. M. or P. M.) and a Philadelphia postmark of December 17. Our correspondent advises that only ten letters were permitted to each applicant, and that many of the letters did not contain the surcharged stamps, as only one set was sold to a single applicant, although some few by favor, secured more.

The issue consists of eleven denominations from two centavos to one peso, inclusive, and judging from the numerous reports coming from the Islands, it seems that the issue was cornered almost before it was placed on sale.

Heretofore, the local director of posts received much criticism in this country but had the fighting support of local philatelists. On this occasion, he even has his local friends asking the question "Is the director of posts going into the stamp business?" While the number issued are not available, the total amount of face value was 15,000 pesos, or about similar to the Madrid-Manila stamps in number. It is stated that no error occurred.

Speaking of the flight our correspondent states that the aviators under the command of Captain Cave-Brown-Cave arrived in Manila from Puerto Princesa on November 9th, and were the guests of the U. S. Army and Navy officers at the Army and Navy Club, until November 16th. On this day, the squadron of four British sea-planes left Manila at 6.00 A. M., for Salomague, which is on the western coast of Northern Luzon where they arrived the same date, and on the following morning, November 17th, left for Hong Kong, being the first flight from Manila to Hong Kong and the first flight east to west across the China Sea.

They carried official mail from Manila to Salomague, the rate being sixteen centavos. They also carried mail from Manila to Hong Kong, the rate being two pesos, and a limit was set of not more than ten letters to any sender, and to any addressee. The post office kept a special register and took a special record of each letter giving the name of addressee, sender, and the amount of postage paid, hence, it will be possible to check all genuine flown covers. The cover previously mentioned, shows a block of four of the 26c, a pair of the 20c, and a single of the 30c, with the airplane overprint, in addition to a normal 30c ultramarine.

We wish to thank Messrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, H. C. Buttermore and H. E. Harris for first-day covers from Kitty Hawk, and Messrs. H. M. Brehm and F. E. Moorehouse for further covers of interest.

Australia.—Mr. R. Roberts has sent for note the 3p blue, Kookaburra design. A special setting was made for use at the Melbourne Exhibition, consisting of 15 panes of 4 with plain double perforated gutter between the panes. The stamps are machine perf. 11.

Azores.—Whitfield King & Co. advise that they have received the 1928 Independence set noted under Portugal, surcharged for use in the Azores.

Bulgaria.—Mr. H. L. Meeken has shown us two values of a new design, surface printed stamps on highly surfaced paper. They are perf. 11½, and no watermark. The values are 1 Leva sage green and 2 Leva brown.

Cuba.—Mr. John C. Kunz has sent for chronicle the 1c postage due stamp in rose-red shade.

Eritrea.—Mr. R. Roberts calls our attention to the 75c carmine and 2L 50c myrtle and orange stamps of Italy, which have been overprinted "Colonia Eritrea" in black.

Estonia.—We are indebted to Latmarka Ltd., Riga, Latvia for specimen

ARRANGING PRECANCELS

By WALT BLACK.

(Here is a nice suggestion for the precancelist. Arrange your sheets by denominations from ½c to $5 and add coils, shades, etc., ad libitum. Then each state, one stamp.—W. O. W.)

You have seen, or have now a general collection of precancels, running all through as per the standard catalog by states, cities, types, and last by issues.

Then there is the state specialist (I'm guilty), the value specialist, the one who collects a certain issue only, the one who likes the two straight edges of coils, the type hunter and then some.

But another method unknown to many, and at least new in Kansas City is the I. B. S. system issues by states, and is not copyrighted. The U. S. specialist, not precancellially speaking, will have perhaps a dozen or more shades of a certain stamp as the 3c offset. Why not carry this just a little further and try (I say try) and get just one 3c offset from each state. If this is not enough include Hawaii and Porto Rico.

The most satisfactory method of arrangement is to get a loose leaf album, one page of which will hold fifty stamps. This will give you a page for each value and a space for each of the forty-eight states and the two colonies.

As a suggestion, don't start on the 1898 issue, but try say the 1922, the rotary perf. 10, or the rotary perf 11x 10½. To complete the 1922 issue (including 13c and 17c) would take 1,100 different stamps not going over the $1.00 value. The two rotary press issues which are now more plentiful would take 550 each or another 1,100. Bringing one issue together from all different states will give you just about all the shades you could expect.

In addition to the foregoing current issues don't overlook the coils and dues which will add several hundred more. Then back up on the older issues, and you are a busy collector.

To add true value and interest, always remove the lower priced or more common ones to add a rarer or higher priced item. For instance, why have Atlanta, Ga., and Chicago, Ill., 1½c coils if you can include a Macon and a Batavia instead.

There is one thing that remains a question. To the average collector with no reserve stock to pick from, what would be the first page to be filled. No doubt 1½c would lead, but what is next.

Will be glad to help anyone interested or explain anything not clear and would appreciate hearing from any attempting the I. B. S. system of collecting.

Don't forget Kansas City in 1929. We are expecting our old acquaintances and want to make new ones—Precancel Bee.

THE FIRST POSTAGE STAMPS

With the near approach of the London Stamp Exhibition of Great Britain stamps we shall have the old, old problem of the date of the first postage stamps cropping up from many quarters. If we write of May 6th, some will clamour for the record to be put back to May 1st; if we write of May 1st, others will bring us to book for giving the date before it was permissible to use the stamps. The question of the date of issue has often been argued, but the position is best summarised by "An old Collector," writing many years ago in the Bazaar. His remarks are full of useful information:—

"There seems to be a growing desire amongst philatelists (writes this 'Old Collector') to make what in post office language is termed the 'day of issue,' of a particular stamp, to depend on the day when it was sent out, and not on the day it became available for the payment of postage. It has constantly been the case that, when an issue (and especially a first issue) of stamps has taken place, they have been supplied to the various post offices some few days previously to that fixed for their use, to enable the public to furnish themselves with what quantity they may require: the tickets for the entertainment might be had in advance. But if the date at which the stamps might be purchased in advance is to be made the date of issue, it will alter the date of the first issue of the stamps of half the countries of the world. Before examining what occurred with those of Great Britain in 1840, I will give two or three instances of other countries in Europe, as the ministerial orders are more familiar to us than are those in other portions of the world.

"It has been accepted by every philatelist that we have heard that the date of issue of the first Belgian stamps was 1st July, 1849; yet the ministerial order of June, 1849, states that 'the stamps will be put on sale on and after 25th current, but cannot be made any use of before 1st July, the date fixed for the postal reform to come into effect.'

"In Wurtemburg, the first use of postage stamps dates from 15th October, 1851; yet a post office notice informed the public that 'they would be on sale at all the post offices, either singly or in sheets, on 12th October.' In Saxony, the use of the first postage stamp dates from 1st July, 1850, and the order of the post office states that 'the sale by all the post offices would commence on the 29th June, though their use for prepayment was not permitted till 1st July.' I could adduce many other instances, but these will suffice to show that the day when the stamps were put on sale and the date when they were available for the prepayment of postage, which has hitherto been regarded as the 'date of issue,' were not synchronous.

"Now let us refer to the stamps of Great Britain. On 29th April, 1840, the General Post Office sent a circular to the various post offices, enclosing specimens of the One Penny label, and the Mulready cover and envelopes of 1d and 2d, and on the same day a notice was issued by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes that stamps might be used on and after 6th May for prepayment of postage, and that on and after 1st May, such stamps could be purchased either at their office or at the Sea Policy Office in Threadneedle Street, at the prices therein given, which were for quantities of not less than half-ream of 1d covers or envelopes, quarter-ream of 2d covers or envelopes, and a sheet of 240 adhesive stamps of 1d or 2d; the latter, however, were not ready. On 30th April a notice was issued by the Post Office, which commenced as follows:—'The Lords of the Treasury having fixed the 6th May next for the issue of postage stamps, on and after that day all letters written on stamped paper or enclosed in stamped covers, or having stamps affixed to them . . . will pass free of postage, in whatever part of the United Kingdom they may be posted.' From this it is clear that the Post Office regarded the 6th May (i.e., the first day of use) as the 'day of issue,' and we cannot understand why any philatelist wants to prove that the Post Office was wrong, and that the day of issue was the day when a sort of wholesale sale was commenced at the two stamp offices in London.

"In 1840, London was not divided into postal districts, and there were no district post offices, only Receiving Houses, which were generally stationers' shops. These could have obtained supplies from the two wholesale offices; but only a few did so, and it was some days before they obtained direct supplies and were able to retail them to the public. It is true that Sir Rowland wrote that the issue was made on 1st May, the same as he wrote that the embossed stamp of 1s was made on Saturday, 11th September, 1847; but when we speak of stamps, it behoves us that we ought to use the words as they are employed by the Post Office, for though the language of this office is not always most intelligible, yet it is precise enough on some points. Sir R. Hill wrote as to when the stamps were sent out of the office of the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes; the Post Office dated from the day they were available for use. We see no use whatever in endeavouring to antedate the date of issue; but we see a great deal of harm in it, as it would affect the date of issue of so many other stamps, and not only make every other catalogue wrong, but in many cases the date could not be fixed—as, for instance, in the French stamps, that came into use 1st January, 1849, but which commenced to be sent out to the various post offices on 20th December, 1848."—Postage Stamp.

The Season of the Catalogue Carnival

Them Poor Cataloguers!

We have reached in the course of the Philatelic Festivals the season of the Catalogue Carnival, when your true stamp enthusiast goes about the house carolling some such ditty as—

Hey diddle diddle,
The cat. solves the riddle
Of what's jumped over the moon;
The specialists look to see what they've caught
And what's the next country to spoon.

Doubtless each of us have our little worries, but what a life these Cataloguers must live, keeping their two eyes on hundreds of countries ready to break out with spasms of shades and varicose varieties. And the time is never fully ripe for publication, for as soon as the printers' presses have done their fell work, all our picture galleries are being rehung.

"One knows there is a real crisis," once said Abraham Hayward, "when Lady Palmerston forgets her rouge, and Palmerston omits to dye his whiskers"; and I fancy the Catalogue Editor must grow a patriarchal beard till the crisis is past and the Gillette can be taken up whilst the Sub-Editor probably takes to eye-shades, and not whiskers, but whiskies or any port (even grocer's) in the storm.

How Herr Karl Baedeker got a night's untroubled sleep was a perpetual problem to Mr. E. V. Lucas; but forty winks must be as much as a Cat. Ed. can allow himself with 48,707 standard varieties floating about, of which number 1,73 had to be added to the census last year.

Who would have thought the tin acorn, sown in 1840, would have sprouted and extended its branches over the earth? No, sir, only the very far-sighted in 184 realised the trouble they were storing up. Let me quote you Lord Beauvale:—

"The penny postage is a humbug and an expensive one," wrote the first Lord Beauvale to his sister, Lady Palmerston, on August 2nd, 1839, "but we have at least one humbug a year. The greatest error in policy and the most common is to look for the consequence of measures the week after they are passed. The strawberry bears the year it is planted: it requires a century before the oak bears its full crop of acorns. The most prolific bearers require time to develop their fecundity. Those who are in the stream remark not, I suppose, its force, but it looks fearful from a distance."

It does indeed, when one compares the issues of 1850 with those of 1900; or the stamp album and catalogue of 1880 with those of to-day.

"Those in the stream" must apply to the watermark specialists who will need no further words of mine, either Single, Mult., or Script, to realize the force of Lord Beauvale's remark.

Our authority states that it takes a hundred years before we get the full crop, so the Cataloguers will have to carry on a bit longer. Like the painters of the Forth Bridge, our Cataloguers must, as soon as they have finished one end, recommence t'other.

Let them take what consolation they can from Lord Dewar's aphorism, "The sun never sets on the British Empire; that is why her troubles are continuous."

But all things have an end; even the Farmer exhausted his somewhat lengthy list of possibly-prospective wives, for you may remember the last words of that delightful play (The Farmer's Wife)—"Three marriages in one house in one day. I guess they'll be some pretty eating and drinking."

I'm quite with the old boy. May I be alive on the anniversary of the first postage stamp, and May 6th, 1940, will find me ready for "the good guzzle and no tiddlers."

And then poor Cataloguers will have earned it.
